

Major Social Security Change Is Coming in 2022

Recently, Dr. William Mount posted a You Tube video on his site “William Mount”, it was entitled “Confirmed: Social Security Agency Dissolves 1 October 2022”. My reaction was how did I miss something of this nature, as I am on Social Security? I watched the Dr. Mount You Tube two more times with all ears and eyes on the content. I did additional search work on seeing what I could learn.

I came across a report with a header “Hendricks County Flyer”, and located it at a small town 5 miles west of Indianapolis, Indiana. The article was dated May 14, 2018, and I came across a second newspaper, either New Mexico or Texas. At that point I went back to Dr. William Mount’s You Tube and wrote down links to research further.

Dr. Mount noted the details are found in the U.S. Federal Register for 11/22/2010. It was at this time when a report was presented to Congress as to the soundness and state of the Social Security Administration. The content of the report in the “Hendricks County Flyer” follows directly below. What it does not reveal is the number of illegal immigrants receiving Social Security, free medical and health care benefits, estimated to be at least 20-million over the past decade alone. It may be as high as 30-40 million as suggested in some news reports on the Internet.

Without taking anything away from Medicare, Social Security is arguably the most important social program in this country.

For many of the more than 62 million beneficiaries -- 42.8 million of which are retired workers, as of March 2018 -- Social Security is more than just a check. It's a financial lifeline or foundation for retired workers, the disabled, and the survivors of workers who've passed away. The Center on Budget Policy and Priorities found in 2016 that Social Security's guaranteed monthly payout ensures that 22.1 million people, 15.1 million of which are retired workers, are kept out of poverty.

A major shift is forthcoming in Social Security

But this crucial program that so many workers have come to trust and lean on during retirement is just a few years away from undergoing a major change, at least according to estimates from the Social Security Board of Trustees in its 2017 report, released last summer.

In every year since 1982, the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Trust (OASDI) has generated more in income than it's paid out in benefits. This has allowed Social Security's asset reserves to grow to almost $2.9 trillion. By 2021, this excess cash figure, which is primarily invested in special-issue bonds, is expected to hit roughly $3 trillion. But that's when things change.

According to the intermediate-cost forecast from the Board of Trustees, 2022 will mark the first time in four decades that Social Security will pay out more in benefits than it collects in revenue. Worse yet, this cash outflow is only expected to get worse with each subsequent year. Here's a glimpse of the Board's net increase or decrease projections for the OASDI, based on the intermediate-cost model (page 48 of the 261-page report, for those interested):

- 2017: $58.6 billion increase
- 2018: $44.7 billion increase
- 2019: $29.3 billion increase
- 2020: $16.8 billion increase
- 2021: $3.3 billion increase
- 2022: $18.2 billion decrease
- 2023: $46.4 billion decrease
- 2024: $75.7 billion decrease
- 2025: $108.9 billion decrease
- 2026: $143.8 billion decrease

By 2026, not only will Social Security's asset reserves be depleted by almost $395 billion from their peak in 2021, but the trust fund ratio, which describes the percentage of asset reserves relative to scheduled benefits to be paid, will have fallen from 298% in 2017 to just 165% in 2026.

Why is this happening?

The first question probably springing up is "Why?" Why is this happening to a program that's been in place for more than eight decades? The answer is the result of a number of factors.

To begin with, part of the problem is that baby boomers are exiting the workforce and entering retirement in droves. We certainly can't place the blame on baby boomers for when they were born, but this rapid increase in eligible beneficiaries is weighing down the worker-to-beneficiary ratio. In even plainer English, there just aren't enough new workers to counteract the number of boomers entering retirement and becoming eligible for Social Security benefits.

Increased longevity has been another core problem for the program. When signed into law in 1935, Social Security's creators envisioned it providing a financial foundation for low-income workers for a few years during their retirement. But since 1960, the average life expectancy in the U.S. has risen by roughly nine years. Data from the SSA shows that the average 65-year-old today lives about two more decades, allowing seniors the chance to receive a payment from Social Security for decades, rather than years, as originally intended.

Income inequality is also somewhat to blame. The well-to-do have access to preventative care and medicine as needed, which isn't always the case with lower-income folks. This results in the wealthy typically living longer than low-income workers, on average. This increased longevity, along with the fact that higher earnings often means a bigger Social Security benefit, has allowed the rich to strain the program.

Even the Federal Reserve may be partly to blame. Keeping interest rates at a record low for seven years negatively impacted the yields on those aforementioned special-issue bonds that Social Security invests its excess cash into. This has a negative impact on interest income.

All of these factors, along with Congress' inability to agree on a solution to fix Social Security, has aided in Social Security's forthcoming shift from being a cash flow positive to cash flow negative program.

What does this mean for current and future retired workers?

Now for the other all-important question: What does it mean for you, the worker?

I won't sugarcoat things. It's not good news. But it's also not as dire as you might think, even if the Trustees report is correct and Social Security's asset reserves are completely exhausted by 2034.

The good news, if there's a silver lining to be found here, is that Social Security can't go bankrupt. America's most important social program is funded in three ways:

- A 12.4% payroll tax on earned income between $0.01 and $128,400, as of 2018
- Interest income earned on its asset reserves
- The taxation of Social Security benefits

These latter two categories account for a reasonably small percentage of the revenue collected each year. In 2016, the taxation of benefits generated $32.8 billion, while interest income added $88.4 billion. Meanwhile, the payroll tax accounted for $836.2 billion (87.3%) of the $957.5 billion collected in 2016. As long as the payroll tax remains the primary funding mechanism for Social Security, and Americans keep working, the program will collect revenue that can be disbursed to eligible beneficiaries. This ensures that the program can't go bankrupt.

The downside is that this doesn't protect against the potential for a cut to current or future benefits. If Social Security's asset reserves dwindle beginning in 2022, it's a sign that the current payout schedule isn't sustainable. The Trustees report suggests that an across-the-board cut in benefits of up to 23% may be needed to sustain payouts through 2091. With 62% of today's seniors reliant on Social Security for at least half of their monthly income, a cut of up to 23% could prove devastating.

Ultimately, the Board of Trustees report is a wakeup call for today's working Americans to reduce their expected reliance on Social Security during retirement. It's not out of the question that lawmakers come to a resolution and find new ways to generate additional revenue and/or cut program costs prior to 2034. But given how often lawmakers in Washington have kicked the can on Social Security, betting on politicians to save the program from steep benefit cuts doesn't seem like a smart move.

Social Security is the Titanic and 2022 is the iceberg

Thomas L. Knapp (Twitter: @thomasknapp) is director and senior news analyst at the William Lloyd Garrison Center for Libertarian Advocacy Journalism (thegarrisoncenter.org). He lives and works in north central Florida, Mr. Knapp wrote the following on April 30, 2018:

In 2022, Social Security's trustees report, the U.S. government's retirement income program will begin paying out more in benefits than it receives in tax revenues.

By 2034, a year short of its 100th birthday, Social Security's $3 trillion in reserves will be gone. Benefits will have to be cut by nearly a quarter. And it's all downhill from there.

Those projections assume no substantial changes in the structure of Social Security: No payroll tax increases, not raising or eliminating the salary cap on which those taxes are paid, not raising the retirement age or slashing benefits, before the dreaded day arrives.

Such assumptions are fairly safe because most politicians aren't even willing to re-arrange the deck chairs on the Titanic. Too risky career-wise for sure!

Older voters guard their retirement benefits jealously. Younger voters already consider themselves over-taxed. Better to just pretend the iceberg isn't there, maintain full speed ahead, and hope to be voluntarily retired (with a sweet congressional pension, of course) before Social Security sinks beneath the cold waves.

Whether or not one supports the original logic of Social Security (I don't), American demographics since the end of the Baby Boom boil down to fewer children per family combined with longer life expectancy. Or, to put differently, fewer young workers paying Social Security taxes to support more retirees for longer. That can't and won't continue in the same direction forever.

Everything eventually comes to an end, and Social Security won't be the single historical exception to that cold hard fact of reality. The big question is whether it winds down in the least damaging way or catastrophically implodes (cue images of the elderly living on cat food and so forth).

The first step in winding down Social Security is to set an age cutoff — if you were born after a particular date, you will neither pay Social Security taxes nor collect Social Security benefits. People who never get on the Titanic don't have to worry about flotation vests and lifeboats.

The second step is for politicians to stop making promises that can't and won't be kept. Legislate those inevitable future benefit cuts now instead of later, so that Americans above the "no taxes/no benefits" age but still well short of retirement are forewarned and can adjust their plans for the golden years.

Presumably nobody wants the elderly to starve. Continuing to pretend that Social Security has an eternal future guarantees that they will.

What neither of these two reports contains is the larger issue, a matter of concern here. Dr. William Mount stated in his You Tube video, the information is buried in the U.S. Federal Register, as part of the copy entered into the U.S. Federal Register of November 22, 2010. Dr. Mount was at the Veterans Administration taking care of matters related to his military pension, and he stated that pamphlets were being distributed at the V.A. relative to new I.D. Cards being issued, and that new veterans I.D. cards will no longer have their Social Security Numbers, but rather contain “plan numbers”, a method to obscure the issue of an abandonment of the Social Security system.

Dr. Mount states that this seems unbelievable but the Social Security Administration will be “dissolved” at the end of September, 2022, just 49 months from now. The U.S. Government operates on a Fiscal Year that begins October 1st, of the calendar year, thus, making the information credible to a point.

Dr. Mount asserts the government will be moving to a “National I.D.” – a “Biometric Card”, that contains a chip, such as are found in the credit and debit cards used today with the chip in the card. It will become a “single” use card, to be used for all your financial activity. In essence, this is the “Cashless Society”, one step removed from the day it will be required for every human in the world. Revelation 13:16-18 states, “And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads: And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.”

Why is the obfuscation by the government of this news so important? Back when the Obama Healthcare Reform Act legislation was passed, it contained a provision in the bill that every individual had to have the “electronic protocol” in order to receive any form of health care, i.e., physician, dentist, chiropractor, surgeon, clinic, hospital, pharmacy, etc. Anyone familiar with this term “electronic protocol” knew it meant, a “microchip”. In the original Obama Healthcare Reform Act, I recall reading the bill, line by line, and the reference to this was on or around page 1,105, as I recall. In the finished regulation, the term appears elsewhere in the bill.

What you probably did not know is that the government was imposing this on the medical community as well. Every physician, chiropractor, clinic had to purchase the system. At a price tag of $50,000, any reluctance to participate, the Obama administration used the old carrot vs. the stick concept approach to ensure participation. For those who signed up early, the government, paid for the cost of the equipment and software. It worked on a 5-year descending plan. If a physician signed up the first year, the government paid the entire cost. If a doctor waited a year and was not sure whether he wanted to opt in, thinking he might retire, but then decided to buy-in, the government would pay 80%; 60% with the third year, 40% with the second year, etc.

Even if one delayed, the catch was that they still had to opt-in at the end of five years, meaning they had to pay the full amount of $50,000 out of their own pocket. There was no option choice. If you expected to be paid by Obama Care, you had to opt-in to the system otherwise the physician could not bill Obama Care and expect to be paid. When Obama Care was declared Constitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court, many doctors opted out by retiring, selling their practice, etc. rather than be part of the Obama Care system. We all know how the Obama Care system has been a disaster to all concerned.

The fact that the spineless legislators are not anxious to bite the bullet and deal with the Social Security issue, it would come as no surprise that in 2010 they kicked the can down the road figuring 2022 was far enough down the road they could forget about it and no one would remember. I have downloaded the 258-page 2017 Report by the Trustees for the Social Security Trust Funds. Like most government documents, it is slow reading.

Most people are unaware that the administrations of William Jefferson Clinton, George W. Bush, and Barak Hussein Obama borrowed from the Social Security Trust Fund to pay for the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. This was totally illegal, and the Trust Fund was replaced with U.S. Bonds, basically I.O.U.'s, earning little to no interest for the Social Security Trust Fund. They are worthless debt instruments and I will explain below.

The U.S. government financial situation is getting precarious. The amount the government is paying in debt-service, or interest on its debt is exploding. The latest data released by the Treasury sows that the U.S. government interest payments just hit an all-time high of $538 billion in Q2 2018.

And interest rates are only starting to climb with no indication they will stop climbing anytime soon. It has not been widely reported in the media but interest rates have been on a steady climb since October 2015. Ultimately, interest rates begin an exponential rise as the National Debt grows numerically.

The three-month Treasury bill interest rate is currently 2.02%. The inflation rate will be at least in the price inflation to the 5% range. There is no way interest rates can stay at the current level with that kind of inflation. In the meanwhile, U.S. government spending is on an exponential rise. All presidents boost federal government spending. There is no reason to expect the trend to stop under President Trump, and it certainly would have been worse under a Hillary Clinton presidency. President Trump wrote a book called, 'The Art of the Deal', but if you examine his career closely, you realize he should have written a book called 'The Art of the Borrower'. As I share in this article, President Trump has been given the task to bankrupt the country! You read that correctly, so continued reading the rest of the story!

America's long-term "balance sheet numbers" just continue to get progressively worse. Unfortunately, since the stock market has been soaring and the GDP numbers look okay; most Americans assume that the U.S. economy is doing just fine. But the stock market was soaring and the GDP numbers looked okay just prior to the great financial crisis of 2008 as well, and we saw how that turned out. The truth is that GDP is not the best measure for the health of the economy. Judging the U.S. economy by GDP is basically like measuring the financial health of an individual by how much money he or she spends, and I will attempt to illustrate that in this article.

If I went out right now and got a whole bunch of new credit cards and started spending money like there was no tomorrow, would that mean that my financial condition had improved? No, in fact it would mean that my long-term financial condition just got a whole lot worse. GDP is a measurement of how much economic activity is happening in our society, and it is basically an indication of how much money is changing hands.

But just because more money is changing hands does not mean that things are going well. What really matters is what is happening to assets and liabilities. In other words, is wealth being built or is more debt just being accumulated?

Sadly, there are only a handful of bright spots in our economy. A couple of very large tech companies such as Apple and Amazon are accumulating wealth, but just about everywhere else you look debt is growing at an unprecedented pace. Household debt has never been higher, corporate debt has doubled since the last financial crisis, state and local government debt is at record highs, and the U.S. national debt is wildly out of control. Pension funds are grossly underfunded and face failure in a few years.

If I went out tomorrow and spent $20,000 with a bunch of new credit cards, I could claim that my “personal GDP” was soaring because I was spending a lot more money than before. But my boasting would be pointless because in reality I would just be putting my family in an extremely precarious financial position.

Economic growth that is produced by continually increasing amounts of debt is not a positive thing. I wish that more people understood this very basic concept. The following are 10 numbers that prove that America’s current financial condition is a horror show... a house of cards.

#1 U.S. consumer credit just hit another all-time record high. In the second quarter of 2008, total consumer credit reached a grand total of $2.63 trillion dollars, and now ten years later that number has soared to $3.87 trillion dollars. That is an increase of 48 percent in just one decade.

#2 Student loan debt has surpassed $1.5 trillion dollars for the first time ever. Over the last 8 years, the total amount of student loan debt has shot up 79 percent in the United States.

#3 According to the Federal Reserve, the credit card default rate in the U.S. has risen for 7 quarters in a row.

#4 One recent survey found that 42 percent of American consumers paid their credit card bill late “at least once in the last year”, and 24 percent of Americans consumers paid their credit card bills late “more than once in the last year”.

#5 Real wage growth in the United States just declined by the most that we have seen in 6 years.

#6 According to one recent study, the “rate of people 65 and older filing for bankruptcy is three times what it was in 1991”.

#7 We are in the midst of the greatest “retail apocalypse” in American history. At this point, 57 major retailers have announced store closings so far in 2018.

#8 The size of the official U.S. budget deficit is up 21 percent under President Trump.

#9 It is being projected that interest on the national debt will surpass half a trillion dollars for the first time ever this year.

#10 Goldman Sachs is projecting that the yearly U.S. budget deficit will surpass $2 trillion dollars by 2028.

Oh, we can't forget President Trump signing a record whopping Defense Authorization Bill to the tune of $717-billion in August of 2018. I'm not criticizing the Defense Authorization Bill, but when does it end. President Trump, if elected to a second term may actually outspent President Obama, who doubled the National Debt of former President George W. Bush.

And I haven't even talked about unfunded liabilities. Those are essentially future commitments that we have made that we don't have the money for at the moment. According to Professor Larry Kotlikoff, our unfunded liabilities are well in excess of $200 trillion dollars right now. If individuals, corporations, state and local governments and the federal government all stopped going into more debt, we would plunge into the greatest economic depression in U.S. history immediately.

The system is deeply, deeply broken, and the only way that we can keep this debt bubble going is go keep accumulating even more debt.

Anyone out there that believes that the U.S. economy has been “fixed” (repaired) is completely deceived. NOTHING has been fixed. Instead, our long-term financial imbalances are getting worse at an escalating pace.

Unfortunately, the attitude of the general public is so similar to what it was just prior to the great financial crisis of 2008. Most people seem to assume that just because we have not experienced great consequences for our very foolish decisions up to this point that no great consequences are coming.

And many also assume that since control of the White House has switched parties that somehow things must magically be better as well. It matters not what political party occupying the White House. They are equally guilty. I laugh every time I hear Senator Bernie Sanders and the snowflake and butter cups talk about free college, free health care, free this and free that. They know nothing about economics and fiscal restraint.

Of course the truth is that the only way that our long-term problems are ever going to be fixed is if we start addressing the issues that caused those long-term problems in the first place, and that simply is not happening.

Most Americans do not want to make fundamental changes to the system, because they are under the illusion that the current system is working just fine. So it will probably take another major crisis before most people are ready to consider fundamental changes, and when it finally arrives we will need to be ready to educate the public.

The system that we have today is not fundamentally sound at all. We desperately need to return to the values and principles that this nation was founded upon, but until things start getting really, really bad it is highly unlikely that the American people will be ready to embrace those changes.

The simple fact that the U.S. paid $538-billion dollars in interest on the National Debt alone should shock the reader senseless, and the 10 preceding points that makes it crystal clear that the nation is in way over its head to ever get out of debt, let alone pay Social Security after October 1st, 2022. What scares me more than anything else is that sharing the truth results in shrugs or gets no reaction at all. There will be no Social Security after October 1st, 2022! If that does not get your attention, the balance of this article will! Read it now because it will not be known by the mainstream media and unlikely by the alternative media either.

In 1987 Donald Trump purchased 93% of Resorts International, a CIA front-company founded by Crown Agents Allen Dulles and David Rockefeller as the Mary Carter Paint Company in the 1950's. A year later Trump bought the Atlantic City, NJ Taj Mahal Casino from Resorts International then began buying up other properties on the Atlantic City boardwalk.

Soon Trump was tapped out and couldn't make his debt payments.

Enter Wilbur Ross, billionaire bond trader portrayed by the Illuminati financial media as an "independent investor". In fact, in 1992 Ross was heading Rothschild Inc.'s bankruptcy advising team, which represented bondholders who were threatening to foreclose on Donald's house of cards.

Ross saw how Trump had the ability to sway masses of people, something certainly not missed by his bosses at Rothschild. So he struck a sweetheart bankruptcy deal for Trump, where he would relinquish a 50% stake in his Atlantic City, NJ Taj Mahal casino in return for better debt terms and a Presidency to be named later.

Rothschild and their City of London partners in crime, not only got a new East Coast money laundering center in Atlantic City. They now had their straw man Trump by the proverbial family jewels.

Later Ross would partner with Jared Kushner in buying commercial properties in New York through Invesco. Jared married Trump's daughter Ivanka, who prior to that had been dating Lord Jacob Rothschild's son Nat. Ross got behind Trump's candidacy and would later be named Commerce Secretary.

For the Democratic faithful feeling a big smug right about now, don't forget that Hillary Clinton had herself been endorsed by Lynn De Rothschild.

The City of London had this election in the bag. It was time to lose childish illusions fed by Crown Agents. Forget about elections. Those days are over. It's time to unite, drop the cowardly lion routine and cut off the head of the snake.

'Mother Jones' magazine ran an article on June 16, 2016, that suggests that President Trump is a "created" President, and rigged the election for Donald J. Trump. We know from reports from the web site American Intelligence Media, ALL elections are rigged, not by Russia, but by the City of London. This report below exposes the Trump-Rothschild sweetheart deal.

In his most recent financial disclosure statement, Donald Trump notes he has billions of dollars in assets. But the presumptive GOP nominee also has a tremendous load of debt that includes five loans each over $50 million. (The disclosure form, which presidential candidates must submit, does not compel candidates to reveal the specific amount of any loans that exceed $50 million, and Trump has chosen not to provide details.) Two of those mega-loans are held by Deutsche Bank, which is based in Germany but has US subsidiaries. And this prompts a question that no other major American presidential candidate has had to face: What are the implications of the chief executive of the US government being in hock for $100 million (or more in Trump's) to a foreign entity that has tried to evade laws aimed at curtailing risky financial shenanigans, that was recently caught manipulating markets around the world, and that attempts to influence the US government?

Trump's disclosure form lists 16 loans from 11 different lenders, totaling at least $335 million, and the aggregate amount is likely much more. Deutsche Bank is clearly his favorite lender, and Trump's financial empire has become largely dependent on his relationship with this major player on Wall Street and the global markets. The German bank has lent him at least $295 million for two of his signature projects. In 2012, Deutsche provided Trump with $125 million to help him buy Trump National Doral golf course. Last year, it handed Trump a $170 million line of credit for his new hotel project on Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, DC.

Should Trump move into the White House, four blocks away from his under-construction hotel, he would be its first inhabitant to owe so much to any bank. And in recent years, Deutsche Bank has repeatedly clashed with US regulators. So might it be awkward—if not pose a conflict of interest—for Trump to have to deal with policy matters that could affect this financial behemoth?

Richard Painter, an attorney who teaches at the University of Minnesota and who was the chief ethics lawyer for President George W. Bush from 2005 to 2007, says a situation in which a sitting president owes hundreds of millions of dollars to any entity, especially a bank that jousts with regulators, is disturbing. There have been wealthy presidents and vice presidents, Painter notes, pointing to John Kennedy, Franklin Roosevelt, and Nelson Rockefeller, but none were as heavily leveraged as Trump. “They had large assets and usually diversified assets. They weren’t in a situation where someone could put pressure on them to do what they want,” Painter remarks. “Whereas having a president who owes a lot of money to banks, particularly when it’s on negotiable terms—it puts them at the mercy of the banks and the banks are at the mercy of regulators.” Painter adds: “In real estate, the prevailing business model is to own a lot but also owe a lot, and that is a potentially very troublesome business model for someone in public office.”

Members of a Trump cabinet would have to recuse themselves from any government business that would have a direct impact on their personal financial interests. If a Treasury secretary held this sort of loans, he or she could not participate in policy deliberations and actions that might have an impact on Deutsche Bank—and that would likely be many. But the president and vice president are excluded from this requirement. As president, Trump would have no obligation to divest his vast business holdings, though recent presidents and presidential candidates have taken steps to avoid any concern. President Barack Obama has even put off refinancing his Chicago home to save money because it would mean establishing a financial relationship with a bank, and that could prompt questions. In 2011, Mitt Romney promised to use a blind trust for his substantial personal business interests, though there were concerns regarding how “blind” the trust was.

Trump’s relationship with Deutsche Bank means he is in league with a financial giant that has been at odds with US government regulators and has attempted to skirt reforms designed to prevent Wall Street firms from wrecking the US economy once again. Last year, around the same time Trump secured the $170 million for the Washington project, Deutsche Bank agreed to pay a $2.5 billion fine to regulators here and abroad for its role in rigging interest rates. This included $600 million to the New York State Department of Financial Services, $800 million to the Commodities Futures Trading Commission, and $775 million to the Department of Justice. As Reuters reported, “Slamming Germany’s largest lender for ‘cultural failings,’ regulators squarely blamed senior staff for misleading them, failing to be open and cooperative, and prolonging the investigation.” From roughly 2003 to 2010, as the news service put it, the bank ran a scam to “fix rates...used to price hundreds of trillions of dollars of loans and contracts worldwide.” The bank also recently reached settlements in lawsuits alleging it had manipulated prices for precious metals and their derivatives.

Like most big banks, Deutsche Bank has been at odds with regulators over the 2010 Dodd-Frank financial reform measure. But it went to unusual lengths to dodge some of the law's requirements. For years, the bank operated in the United States through two subsidiaries that were legally considered to be American entities. Yet in 2012—after Dodd-Frank was enacted—the bank tried to rewrite its own corporate structure to make it less American. Under the new law, a foreign-based bank's subsidiaries were required to maintain certain minimum levels of capital—as much as $20 billion worth of reserves in Deutsche Bank's case—so that the bank could weather another financial catastrophe like the one that occurred in 2008. The consequence of the rule also restricted how freely an American subsidiary of a foreign bank could invest and how much risk it could assume. This was the point of the law: to prevent gargantuan financial firms from behaving recklessly, collapsing, and, once more, requiring a taxpayer-funded bailout.

Rather than accept these limitations, Deutsche Bank reorganized itself, moving its commercial banking subsidiary out of the holding company for its American operations, which also contained its investment arm. Deutsche Bank then claimed this banking subsidiary was not subject to the new Dodd-Frank regulations. The Federal Reserve didn't fall for this stunt. The bank eventually was forced to comply with Dodd-Frank requirements.

That was only the beginning of Deutsche Bank's problems with Dodd-Frank. Last September, in its first enforcement action on new Dodd-Frank provisions, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission fined Deutsche Bank $2.5 million for failing to report properly on its trading of swaps, which are complex financial derivatives.

And like most big banks, Deutsche Bank lobbies heavily in Washington. Last year it spent $600,000 on a stable of lobbyists. In 2010, the year Dodd-Frank was enacted, the bank spent nearly $2.6 million on influence-peddlers in the nation's capital.

So how might Trump, should he become president, handle the conflict of interest posed by his relationship with Deutsche Bank?

The Trump campaign did not respond to a request for comment, but previously Trump has said (without mentioning Deutsche Bank specifically) that he would avoid any conflicts of interest by installing his children at the top of the Trump business empire.

"There would be enormous tax consequences from just giving it all to the children," Painter says. "But just merely letting his [children] run the business doesn't solve the problem. You really have got to figure out a way to sell your interest in the business and sell off the risk." Other wealthy presidents have tended to own assets that could easily be unwound or sold off. But for Trump, disposing of his real estate holdings would be a special challenge. "I think what you need to do is wind down or sell off the real estate portfolio, and that probably takes time," Painter says. "It's not like liquid securities that are easy to sell. Or he'd need to start to focus on paying off this debt."

Selling the parts of the businesses that he has mortgaged might be particularly difficult, because some of the debt may be tied to him personally. In the past that has led to problems, even with Deutsche Bank. In 2005, Trump borrowed $640 million from Deutsche Bank and several other lenders for the construction of a Chicago hotel tower. When he failed to pay back the money on time in 2008, the banks, including Deutsche Bank, demanded he pay up the $40 million he had personally guaranteed. In response, Trump sued Deutsche Bank for $3 billion, saying the project's financial troubles were the fault of the economic recession, essentially an act of God, and accusing the bank of undermining the project and his reputation.

Trump and Deutsche Bank patched things up, and hundreds of millions of dollars in credit subsequently flowed from the German behemoth to Trump. But with all his debt to Deutsche Bank coming due before the end of what would be Trump's second term as president, there's more to this relationship than what is on the financial ledger. The American public, too, has much at stake when it's possible that the next president will be deeply in debt to a global financial player that has been caught trying to use its influence to rig the financial system.

'Fortune' magazine is on record, stating that Trump underestimated his debt by $500 million. No problem for a "Quid Pro Quo" deep pockets sugar daddy! I will explain this as we go here.

What is extremely troubling in all of this is the deception that surrounds the President. It is as if there was a disconnect with the President's victory in 2016. There is a retired Florida fireman who wrote a book called 'The Trump Prophecies'. Many internet blogs have pumped this guy as a modern day Jeremiah. Since when did a prophet ever become a prophet of God by predicting a 50/50 odds on any event in the Bible? The Trump victory might have been prophetic if there were ten other candidates competing in the November, 2016 election, but give me a break here. I noticed the book was published by Defender Publishing, but on July 4, 2017.

Here is what one Christian web site had to say about the 'Trump Prophecies'. Nathan Neal called it a "Delusion!"

"Jesus warned us that deception would take place in the end times. He warned us about this over, and over. He even said if it were possible, the very elect could be deceived. This means end time deception will be so convincing, that even the most well-grounded Christians will struggle to get past it. Deception is powerful. Most people do not know when it is before them. Why? Because the nature of deception keeps it cloaked, invisible. Unknown until it's too late."

A crafty spiritual deception took place during the Trump campaign. It had to do with several false prophecies that were made about Donald Trump regarding him and his presidency."

“Mark Taylor came out of nowhere during the election, and quickly reached notoriety because of a prophecy that he shared on the ‘TruNews’ program. According to his testimony, he received the prophecy in the year 2011. By now, many of you are familiar with it.”

“The prophecy quickly found traction. It was then featured on the Jim Baker television program, as well as many other places. Because of the positive content of the prophecy, it was met with high acclaim by a portion of the evangelical community. Those who voiced their disagreement often found themselves under militant attack by those who defended it at all costs.”

“In all my years as a Christian, I have never seen a prophetic word treated with such consecration like this one was. Many people voted for Trump because of this prophecy. And now he has won the election.”

“Disturbing”, said Nathan Leal, of the ‘Watchman’s Cry’,

“Why am I talking about it now? Because the way that this prophecy was vetted exposes that American evangelicals have forgotten the words in their Bible.

– The prophecy bypasses key principles that are necessary for prophecy to be valid.

– The prophecy was also littered with historical inaccuracies and fallacies. That’s right folks, the prophecy had lies within it.

But in spite of all its errors, Christians gravitated to it, and held onto it like a sacred cow. Even more disturbing, was how Christian leadership promoted it, even though it was fraught with false content.”

The prophecy is below –

“The Spirit of God says, I have chosen this man, Donald Trump, for such a time as this. For as Benjamin Netanyahu is to Israel, so shall this man be to the United States of America! For I will use this man to bring honor, respect and restoration to America. America will be respected once again as the most powerful and prosperous nation on Earth, (other than Israel). The dollar will be the strongest it has ever been in the history of the United States, and will once again be the currency by which all others are judged.

The Spirit of God says, the enemy will quake and shake and fear this man I have anointed. They will even quake and shake when he announces he is running for president, it will be like the shot heard across the world. The enemy will say what shall we do now? This man knows all our tricks and schemes. We have been robbing America for decades, what shall we do to stop this? The Spirit says HA! No one shall stop this that I have started! For the enemy has stolen from America for decades and it stops now! For I will use this man to reap the harvest that the United States has sown for and plunder from the enemy what he has stolen and return it seven-fold back to the United States. The enemy will say Israel, Israel, what about Israel? For Israel will be protected by America once again. The spirit says yes! America will once again stand hand and hand with Israel, and the two shall be as one. For the ties between Israel and America will be stronger than ever, and Israel will flourish like never before.

The Spirit of God says, I will protect America and Israel, for this next president will be a man of his word, when he speaks the world will listen and know that there is something greater in him than all the others before him. This man's word is his bond and the world and America will know this and the enemy will fear this, for this man will be fearless. The Spirit says, when the financial harvest begins so shall it parallel in the spiritual for America.

The Spirit of God says, in this next election they will spend billions to keep this president in; it will be like flushing their money down the toilet. Let them waste their money, for it comes from and it is being used by evil forces at work, but they will not succeed, for this next election will be a clean sweep for the man I have chosen. They will say things about this man (the enemy), but it will not affect him, and they shall say it rolls off of him like the duck, for as the feathers of a duck protect it, so shall My feathers protect this next president. Even mainstream news media will be captivated by this man and the abilities that I have gifted him with, and they will even begin to agree with him says the Spirit of God.” -(By Mark Taylor).

Nathan Leal rightly so discusses the matter of False Content.

“If a prophecy has error in its content, can it be from God? The answer is no.’

“But this prophecy, included several statements that were outright false from the very beginning. (Which I am about to reveal.)”

“Does the Spirit of God, do this? Of course not, but it did not seem to matter to those who promoted it.”

Nathan brings up an issue of real concern with all of us: Trump and the Truth!

“By now, the world knows that Donald J. Trump has a problem telling the truth. In layman's terms, he is a habitual liar. There's no way to sugarcoat this folks. Trump is a master at flip-flopping his words.”

“The prophecy above states in the fourth paragraph,”

“The Spirit of God says, I will protect America and Israel, for this next president will be a man of his word,”

“But is this true? Is Donald Trump a man of his word? Does principled integrity and truth flow from his lips whenever he speaks? Quite the opposite. No one knows when he's telling the truth. In the old days this was called LYING!”

“The prophecy went on to state in the fourth paragraph;”

*“This man’s word is his bond and the world and America will know this...”*²

“But is Donald Trump’s word his bond? During his rallies, he made a campaign pledge to lock up Hillary Clinton when he became president. But after his election victory, he stated that he would not pursue any further charges against Hillary.”

“It was a major flip-flop. And as Christians with discernment, there is no way to spin this.”

“Other Lies Told by Trump,” Leal continues, “Does one need to search far and wide to find Trump acting like Pinocchio? Nope. Trump also campaigned with the promise to drain the swamp. And as you may know by now, the swamp didn’t get drained.”

“It was replenished with globalist night creatures, vampires and the very ones who are responsible for world carnage.”

- Goldman Sachs has infiltrated the White House.
- Henry Kissinger is now making regular visits and counseling Trump.
- The Rothschild’s have a representative in the Trump administration, Wilbur Ross.
- The Council on Foreign Relations is on the team.
- The Globalists who were secretly turning the earth into a plantation have been recruited by Trump.
- The neocons that wanted to steer Hillary into war have been recruited by Trump.
- Peter Thiel, the PayPal billionaire and open homosexual, is a vampire. He injects human blood into himself seeking life extension. One of his goals is living forever and cheating death. This is a common belief for the elite. Peter talks about it openly.

“Mark Taylor stated – “The Enemy Has Stolen from America.” Is this true?”

The prophecy states in the second paragraph in the ninth sentence:

*“For the enemy has stolen from America for decades and it stops now! For I will use this man to reap the harvest that the United States has sown for and plunder from the enemy what he has stolen and return it seven-fold back to the United States.”*²

“Is this statement accurate folks? Have globalists plantation owners plundered America for decades? The truth is quite the opposite. Through the IMF, and the World Bank, the elite of America have plundered 188 countries of the world, on five continents since the onset of the Bretton Woods agreement (July 1944)..”

“In actual fact, the IMF has, from the very beginning, been an institution launched by, controlled by, and tailored to the interests of the United States, designed to secure the new military superpower economic world domination. Global Research Pillaging the World. The History and Politics of the IMF”

“Ladies and gentlemen, the United States is not a victim of thievery. In truth, the United States has used agents that represent globalist bankers to rape the rest of the world of their natural resources and tax revenue through loans that are impossible to pay back. To accomplish this task, the elite have installed puppet leaders in Third World countries to cooperate with them. When the citizens didn’t like it, the installed leaders acted as dictators and murdered millions of their citizens.”

In 1982, John Perkins wrote the book ‘Confessions of an Economic Hit Man’. He wrote it because his conscience would no longer allow him to continue in the dark world of international banking and pillaging of Third World countries.

“Economic hit men (EHMs) are highly paid professionals who cheat countries around the globe out of trillions of dollars. They funnel money from the World Bank, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), and other foreign aid organizations into the coffers of huge corporations and the pockets of a few wealthy families who control the planet’s natural resources. Their tools include fraudulent financial reports, rigged elections, payoffs, extortion, and murder. They play a game as old as empire, but one that has taken on new and terrifying dimensions during this time of globalization. I should know; I was an economic hitman.” -(John Perkins, Confessions of an Economic Hit Man).

Here is an excerpt from his latest book:

“I’m haunted every day by what I did as an economic hit man (EHM). I’m haunted by the lies I told back then about the World Bank. I’m haunted by the ways in which that bank, its sister organizations, and I empowered US corporations to spread their cancerous tentacles across the planet. I’m haunted by the payoffs to the leaders of poor countries, the blackmail, and the threats that if they resisted, if they refused to accept loans that would enslave their countries in debt, the CIA’s jackals would overthrow or assassinate them. I wake up sometimes to the horrifying images of heads of state, friends of mine, who died violent deaths because they refused to betray their people. Like Shakespeare’s Lady Macbeth, I try to scrub the blood from my hands” -(John Perkins).

Nathan Leal says, “If you have been awake long enough and studied the tactics of the globalists, you are aware that America is not the victim of a pillaging scheme. The US dollar’s monetary arrangement is enforced by the barrel of a gun via the over 800 military bases that the US maintains.”

“This is fundamental New World Order – 101, but Mark Taylor’s prophecy bypassed these fundamentals and re-created history, with statements that were not true. Does God operate this way? Does the Spirit of God prophesy by making stuff up?”

When this prophecy first came out, I noted these huge errors. But strangely, those who promoted it did not. Why not? How did this error slip under the radar? Was it an innocent oversight?

Or was it something else? I have some thoughts about it and I will be talking about it further in future installments. But for now, I believe that we are witnessing a disturbing trend of the arrival of the great delusion.” “The Great Delusion is here folks.”

Nathan Leal notes The False Prophet factor:

“Based on the success of this false prophecy, there is more to come. And eventually, we will be watching the fulfillment of Revelation 13:11-12”:

“Then I saw another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb and spoke like a dragon. And he exercises all the authority of the first beast in his presence, and causes the earth and those who dwell in it to worship the first beast,”

“The verse above describes the false prophet (false Church) will deceive the people and convince them to worship the Beast. Who is the false prophet? Some of you may already have a few interpretations about this. But allow me to place another option on the table.”

“The false prophet will be a group of clerics who spread a twisted gospel like the one promoted by Todd Bentley, Rick Joyner, and Knights-of-Malta-Jerry Boykin and Rick Joyner.”

“What is it? It is a false theology that goes by several names. Some of their terms include the New Apostolic Reformation, NAR, Kingdom Now, seven mountain gospel, the latter rain, Joel’s Army, as well as several other names. This movement is infiltrating the last day’s church by storm like locusts.”

“It would take a long time to go into detail about it but it is very dangerous and is infected with satanic impartation, kundalini evil spirits, strange fire, and New Age teaching operating under the guise of signs and wonders.”

“They believe that before Jesus can return, the earth must be conquered in seven categories, or the seven mountains.”

1. Arts and entertainment
2. Business
3. Education

4. Family
5. Government
6. Media
7. Religion

“To do their conquering, representatives of this theology must be placed in power in each of the categories. When Mark Taylor speaks, you were hear the Dominionist theology in his words. Representatives from this movement were evident in Trump’s campaign. They often prayed with him and prophesied over him.”

“So what Nathan? What’s the big deal?”

“The big deal is this. Take another look at Taylor’s prophecy. In the second paragraph it says:”

“For I will use this man to reap the harvest that the United States has sown for and plunder from the enemy what he has stolen and return it seven-fold back to the United States.”

“The prophecy justifies the United States conducting military ventures and crusades throughout the world. And plundering the world. This means war folks. But worse, it justifies war, and pillaging, under the convenient umbrella of the Holy Spirit. The seven mountain theology is a militant theology of war. And Donald Trump was promoted by proponents of this movement. By having the prophetic endorsement, military ventures will be assured to take place under the Trump presidency. And worse, they would be sanctioned by Christians because of false prophecies like the one above.”

“In Conclusion – Based on the evidence that I presented. This prophecy is proven to be false. I do not believe that this was a word from the Lord. A true Word from the Lord would not be inconsistent with its facts. It also would not bypass sin and claim that a person had nobility in their words when they are an OUTRIGHT liar.”

“But Nathan, Trump won the election. Isn’t this proof it was true”.

“NO. There was a fifty percent chance with that portion. This study proved that there is no way it can be true.”

“But there were portions of the prophecy that made Trump sound really special. What about that?”

“Yes, there were portions. That is true. But I could also explain those as well. The water off of Trump’s back does not mean that God coated Trump with anti-critism feathers. Instead it means that Trump devours media attention and craves it. This was taught to him by his mentor Roy Cohn, who showed him that all news is good even if it was a negative report. It is all right here and here.”

“So Nathan, Where did the prophecy come from? Is it from God?”

“I believe that God allowed it, obviously, but I believe that this prophecy was given by a spirit of deception. I do not believe that Mark Taylor heard from God when he wrote these words.”

“If this offends you. Sorry.”

“I don’t understand why this was not vetted better. There are inconsistencies in this word. And the bottom line about this whole matter is the collateral damage to God’s people. God’s people were lead into confusion by this word and I find no excuse for that.”

“I will be disclosing a lot more information about this in the future. In the coming year of 2017, vigilance will be required by God’s remnant.”

“Get a hold of vigilance folks. Because deception has arrived.”

God Bless.

People will ultimately believe what they want to believe and oftentimes, Satan doesn't have to work that hard to have his lies accepted as truth. Too many people want to believe what is false because it sounds so good. No one wants bad news at all and this is what we are being faced with. Rather than accepting it, knowing that God is still in the business of saving souls (not necessarily countries), Christians prefer to chase after things that offer some “light” in the darkness. The bad part of all this hype about a so-called prophet has been the web sites and blogs that have given this alleged prophet a platform to provide free advertising in the promotion of a book that remains suspect from the get go!

There is much more here to raise concern about Mark Taylor’s prophecies over stories ‘Charisma’ magazine ran a couple articles that somehow misrepresented the true facts.

I hope you picked that up. Supposedly, the Spirit of God in 2011 told Mark Taylor what he was going to do “in this next election” for “such a time as this” – and that was to raise up Donald Trump.

The “next election” was in 2012. In 2012, Obama was re-elected and REMAINED president.

Folks. NOTHING HAPPENED. That fact discredits Mary Taylor as a prophet from God.

Obama can’t remain in office for twelve years, making this prophecy simply ridiculous.

Finally, this prophecy is also false because Mark Taylor is espousing NAR revivalism rubbish and the end times “financial harvest” that only the NAR cult hold too.

The fact that ‘Charisma News’ ran this story and that they openly played a segment from the Jim Bakker show where the hosts ate up Mark Taylor’s words expose just how truly gullible, undiscerning and spiritually blinded these leaders really are.

But there is another bit of confusion here.

‘Charisma News’ published their first article on the 14th of June. They allowed ‘TruNews’ to have their entire show play in their article, pointing to the prophecy below. ‘TruNews’ provided Mark Taylor’s 2011 prophecy.

Then it appears in ‘Charisma News’ published a second article on the 16th of June, allowing a video segment be played from the Jim Bakker Show. ‘Charisma News’ appeared to have linked the 2011 prophecy to the Jim Bakker Show segment where Mark Taylor supposedly read out his 2011 prophecy. But what he read out on the Jim Bakker Show was not in the original prophecy. So what’s happening?

Did Mark Taylor add additional information to his 2011 prophecy? What is Mark Taylor talking about on the Jim Bakker show? When did God turn into some divine prophetic “rapper”? Did ‘Charisma News’ fumble their sources on Mark Taylor’s prophecies?

Who knows – ‘Charisma News’ is to blame for this absolute prophetic quackery. Don’t be afraid of Mark Taylor, Dr. Brown and the frauds at ‘TruNews’ or ‘Charisma News’. If these NARismatics want to believe their god will save Trump, then their god will deal with its quacks.

Most folks are not familiar with ‘Charisma News’. They have been around for twenty years promoting the Pentecostal Charismania flim flam. I get their daily email posts, not for any real value, but mainly to keep a pulse on what new thing they are pushing this week. These people have been given a gift and it comes from God, it’s called STRONG DELUSION you can read about it in 2nd Thessalonians 2:9-12. God has given them strong delusion because they love not the truth.

According to Mark Taylor, he says he was “given” a very specific prophecy in 2011 and apparently it has unfolded so that now he realizes that God has told him (definitively) that Donald Trump is God’s choice to bring America back from utter destruction and that God told him that Donald Trump will be the next president and that anyone who criticizes him will be struck down, explaining that God has been preparing Trump for his entire life to become an extraordinarily successful president who will fight Satan. Now I see many are prophesying the same thing, after he released this word on certain well-known internet media outlets.

I have always thought it very curious how false prophets use other “popular false prophecies” as the basis to prophesy their “word from God” that “confirms” and builds upon what is false and deceptive. Nathan Leal perhaps has been too generous in his remarks about Mark Taylor. They are regulars on the Jim Bakker Show and Sid Roth’s “It’s Supernatural” show. Interestingly so, is the fact that “Charisma” magazine is based in suburban Orlando, Florida, where Mark Taylor is a retired Orlando firefighter.

Mark Taylor may be a very sincere man who may love God, but he is also a sincerely deceived man. Mark Taylor is a “dominionist NAR” (New Apostolic Reformation) self-proclaimed prophet. Those involved in this heretical movement are tapping into the realm of sorcery and are “experiencing” very real supernatural experiences, such as “hearing words” they think are God but are actually messages from lying spirits. Those hearing and receiving these false “prophetic revelations” are what the Bible calls “enchanters” in Deuteronomy 18:10-11, who operate (knowingly or unknowingly) through demonic powers.

In his prophecy Mark Taylor says America, through Trump’s presidency will be restored and be made the most respected, powerful and prosperous nation on earth once again. This is certainly what can be termed a “good news message” that many will love hearing! However, what does the Word really say? “For when they say, “Peace and safety!” then sudden destruction comes upon them, as labor pains upon a pregnant woman. And they shall not escape. -(1st Thessalonians 5:3). He also stated in his interview that during his “visitation” he was told that his prophetic gift would be in the form of “anointed writing.” Many occultists and new agers engage in “automatic writing” or writing under the inspiration of a demonic spirit–which Mark calls “anointed writing.”

Writing under the influence of another spirit is a manifestation of sorcery (divination)—called automatic writing which is nothing more than a means for channeling a demonic spirit. The Holy Spirit will not influence a person to write something that is not Biblical, such as Mark’s prophecies that are also “omen” based... like his “Great Horse” prophecy that he alluded to during his radio interview. He stated that the winner of a famous horse race was to be a “sign” (omen) for the end time church when it occurred (which it did occur). When people start looking to “signs (omens) and wonders” (not mentioned in prophetic Scriptures) to give them “prophetic revelation”—beware!

He also stated that he was told that his “assigned angel” was going to hear words from the throne of God (is this angel where Mark gets his messages from?) and this angel would also immediately bring these words to pass. Mark however, received three prophecies that he said were supposed to happen in 2012, which did not come to pass (immediately when they were given to him). His explanation for these not immediately coming to pass as he said he was told, was because the Lord told him the church was not ready for their fulfillment. Too many professing Christians today do not understand the many errors that are coming to the surface in false prophecies like these. The difference between a liar and a prophet is that the genuine real McCoy is 100% right, all the time!

They want to hear things that scratch their itching ears instead. Aside from the error these false prophets teach, is the fact that they manage to find a way to excuse them when their “prophecies” don’t come to pass. The idea that the “church wasn’t ready” for the fulfillment of what was allegedly told to Taylor by God—is simply a cop-out.

Yes, there are examples where God seemingly changed His mind or modified His plan as in the case of Jonah’s prophecy concerning Nineveh, (which was only a temporary stay of God’s judgment—for Nineveh ultimately was destroyed as Jonah was told to prophesy or with Hezekiah when God gave him an additional 15 years, at which point, the prophet Isaiah had to turn around, go back, and prophesy again to Hezekiah that God had granted his plea -(see Isaiah 38; 2nd Kings 20).

But today self-proclaimed “prophets” can make all sorts of claims that are never held up to real scrutiny. Those who do attempt to examine their words in light of the Scriptures are labeled as being divisive, legalistic or pharisaical, because they don’t like anyone daring to question their word from God. Any true prophet will welcome discerning Biblical scrutiny of any prophetic Word that is given to them by God—for they know He would NEVER contradict or go beyond His written word.

Mark Taylor’s prophecies all revolve around a false Preterist “dominionist” teaching, which states the last day church is going to usher in a world wide “harvest” (revival)—which is not what the Bible prophesies for the end times church. The NAR movement teaches that an end-time harvest is about to take place, and millions were going to be ushered into the Kingdom of God on earth. However, when it came to their false teachings and prophecies the Scriptures being used to validate these are either being allegorized when they should be taken as literal (or vice versa) or they were being taken out of context, completely misinterpreted or the Scriptures were added to or taken away from. As with all NAR prophets, Mark believes the church must establish God's literal Kingdom upon the earth so Jesus can come back—for which there is no Biblical foundation for this idea. Many Christians are going to fall for Mark's false prophecy and other revelations and teachings that are built upon this—all because they want to see America restored and not destroyed by antichrist as clearly revealed in Scripture. Based upon the financial information noted earlier, my friends it's not about to happen!

The Scriptures are clear that things do not get better as they lead up to the return of Jesus. The Bible states that society will grow worse and worse until the entire planet experiences what is called the Great Tribulation (known as Daniel's final "week" of the 70 weeks discussed in Daniel 9). The Bible's description for this period of time is akin to hell on earth (i.e. Matthew 24, Mark 13, Luke 21, etc.).

Amillennialists and Postmillennialists like NAR self-proclaimed prophet Mark Taylor believe that as the Church works harder, spreading their false gospel through evangelism, more people will become saved and can become better informed and will then help to work and change society so that America becomes (once again) what is thought to be a "Christian nation." This idea in itself is also false if you do your research—America has never been a "Christian nation." No way would a "Christian nation" be founded by Satan's Illuminati with their NWO agenda.

Anyone taking the time and effort to do the research will find this is what our nation is truly founded upon. The Illuminati has always used the Bible for their own means. Americans who are spiritually ignorant concerning the Illuminati and spiritually undiscerning and who don't know how to rightly divide the Word of God have been brainwashed by the public schools and the government from childhood to adulthood by a false American history, it has been mistaught to brainwash the Biblically ignorant and spiritually undiscerning. Those who have found out the truth concerning our history have been demonized by the government and other professing Christians and labeled as crazy "conspiracy theorists" and are now being labeled as "terrorists!"

Sadly, many (including Christians) believe as I once did that America started out as a Christian nation but was derailed by liberals and atheists (termed "progressives" today). Professing Christians (through the direct or indirect influence of the NAR) believe Christians are to wrest control away from these progressives and bring America back under the moral and spiritual code of Scripture. I don't find this agenda anywhere in Scripture, however I fully realize how people can get to that point of belief, when they lose sight of or are ignorant of what the Word of God does teach us. In order for Amillennialism and Postmillennialism to be true, portions of Scripture have to be allegorized, or ignored as opposed to simply understanding Scripture in its most basic, literal sense.

When President Trump sits there with those hands formed in the picture below, he is telling the insiders of the world, he is a team player, part of them, running a scam on Mr. and Mrs. America. I am a Freemason, I'm a Rothschild team player, I worship mammon, I worship Hercules, another name for Lucifer. I will start a war with Iran so the Rothschild's can gain control of the Iranian Central Bank and steal their gold, like they stole the U.S. gold decades ago. This picture has been a giveaway sign from day one, but it took me a while to make the larger connections on how the election was rigged for Trump.

"Make America Great Again" is nothing more than a giant global con-job to sucker the public into thinking and believing that President Trump is America's savior, when in reality, he is just another Freemason, who is serving the will of the people, in order to get re-elected and institute a lot of evil legislation on the books for the past four administrations.

From the day Trump announced his run for the presidency in June, 2016, I had seen so many questions about inconsistencies in the man, and personally did not think he would win. I believe that most of us thought he was the lesser of two evils, acknowledging no candidate is perfect, and as a redeemed sinner, it seemed to me to give him the benefit of doubt. We now know why the Demo-crats were so convinced that Hillary was going to be the first female president.

The Clinton's were dumped for Donald J. Trump upon the recommendations of Wilbur Ross, The Washington swamp will never be drained, the National Debt will continue to rise into the stratosphere, and the Rothschild's will force the war on Iran to gain control of Iran's Central Bank. Syria and Cuba will capitulate to the global power as easy as North Korea did to the Trump Plan presented, unless Kim Jon Ung does a Putin-switch by throwing the Rothschild's out of Russia. The end game here is a global government run by Jesuit-Vatican-Rothschild cabal. It is the classical definition of a "quid pro quo", something given or received for something else. Even Trump's recognition of Jerusalem as the capital of Jerusalem comes under suspicion. The House of Rothschild bought and paid for millions of acres of the land of Israel decades ago; their reason was not to make it the center of God, but the center of Lucifer's Antichrist. The Rothschild's are Satanists in the darkest sense of the dark side.

For two years I have wrestled with many problematic aspects about Donald J. Trump, his actions and spending that goes clearly against prudent fiscal management, how the election was rigged for his election, albeit a foregone conclusion that the evil witch Hillary R. Clinton. All the pundits said that Donald J. Trump would not be the president, the choir was in unison on this, but now we know otherwise, and why! From comedians to politicians to journalists the infinite predictions were all wrong. He was referred to as a travesty. That said, the Rothschild's saw one that would dance to their tune. You might ask, why didn't others reveal this story? Simply one reason, there has been a long-held unofficial policy, and that is do not mention the name of Rothschild's in the general media.

For example, Rush Limbaugh celebrated 30 years of radio broadcasting excellence a few weeks ago. In 30 years, Rush Limbaugh has never mentioned the name of the Rothschild's or the evil Federal Reserve System on his talk radio show. If you are a politician, newspaper, a corporate officer, educator, celebrity, nighttime television entertainment host, the Rothschild name is never spoken aloud; not if you expect to keep your position. For example, 'Forbes' magazine never lists the Rothschild's on their list of the world's richest names! This is true of all the other business magazines as well!

As to Mark Taylor's "Trump Prophecies", they are unlikely to be from God, but they may be from Lucifer to deceive even the "elect" that Jesus Christ warned about! Stay awake folks, the spiritual forces of Ephesians 6:12 are working overtime to enslave you! "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

I know this report has been long but the powers-at-be have had the advantage of hundreds of years to deceive us. In a follow-up article I will explain the statement that ALL elections are rigged. Six companies manufacture the electronic voting machines, but only one company provides the software used in electronic voting machines. Changing the numbers is so easy an 11-year old can do it using "PC Anywhere". The Rothschild's in the UK rigged the election results for Donald Trump to win in 2016! Now you know the reason why Hillary Clinton has been unwilling to face the reality she was dumped by the Rothschild's.
