

The Corona of 5G

We'll get to the corona part in a minute...

The big 5G rollout is proceeding in a number of US cities starting today, January 19, 2022 after some delays due to a battle between the FAA and the FCC over safety concerns regarding interference of the 5G C-Band frequencies with electronic altimeter technologies that operate in a similar frequency range.

The C-Band 5G which is being presented by Verizon and AT&T covers the frequency range 3.7 to 3.98 GHz but the industry has already expressed interest in plenty of other frequency ranges.

5G is a "Directed Energy Weapon" (DEW) just like a laser beam! There is a false narrative put out there to confuse and distract people from the truth! This has been revealed long past by Mark Steele of the UK. Dr. Barry Trower and Mark both have done videos to explain the truth of what 5G will do.

At this point amid the controversy over the potentially lethal side effect of disrupting aviation equipment used for low visibility landing, Verizon and AT&T seem to be moving forward and have just agreed to create a buffer zone around certain airports and the FAA has released a list of those cities/airports.

Many of us who have critiqued the lack of safety testing of 5G from the beginning have concerns on many levels which this FAA concern doesn't even scratch the surface of.

First of all 5G represents battlefield surveillance technology wrapped in a pretty little package with a bow on it and a new iPhone inside. This technology is not designed to give you faster downloads; it's designed to consolidate all your data for high tech surveillance and data analytics acquisition.

The pharma-military-industrial complex wants to know everything about you and have that information available for more reasons that anyone can imagine. The future is data and they want yours but that again doesn't scratch the surface of why this technology is so dangerous.

This is military technology, pure and simple:

5G represents the first wireless technology with "beam-forming" steerable and directional radiated microwave (and soon millimeter wave). Think of this as an invisible laser of microwave energy, you can't see it but the power contained in this beam has the potential to zap you like you've never been zapped before.

The way the telecoms accomplish this is with what's called a phased array antenna. This is actually an antenna array which can have anywhere from a dozen to hundreds of antennas which are pulsed in a pattern in order to create and steer the beam. That beam can be directed at your phone or any other "target" that it finds.

The way these systems mark their targets is by using standard 4G transmitters so it can follow a moving "target" and steer a densified 5G beam where it needs to go.

Here's the big problem.

What if you happen to be in between the 5G small cell and the "target"? You could be crossing a street in the heart of downtown Pittsburgh or Dallas or St. Louis where many of these 5G small cells are beaming their signal all over a grid pattern for dozens of blocks.

That's when you get cooked with that 5G beam and while this post is not written to explain all the dangers of microwave radiation (there are plenty of others for that but I'll also try to pull up some of my older content about that) suffice it to say that this technology is untested for safety. Yes, completely untested!

Exposure to microwave radiation, especially long term cumulative exposure, is known to disrupt the oxygen carrying capacity of the Heme molecule in the blood which transports Oxygen from the lungs. 5G at 60-GHz consumes 98% of your oxygen and you can drop dead in a second in your physical footprint!

Suffice it to say that cumulative exposure to radiation from wireless technology WILL degrade the oxygen carrying capacity of your blood and as the frequencies increase (5G, 6G etc.) the problem is increased.

Not only is 5G untested but safety in the environment (aside from interference with electronic altimeters in airplanes) is of serious concern. After all the power density required to operate the 5G networks is unprecedented.

Dr. Martin Pall, PhD gave a presentation in Oregon years back and posted many videos in that time explaining and critiquing many of the dangers of 5G and they are not just about health. Pall has published extensively in medical journals on this topic and he commented to us in private that he believes that numerous forest fires have been started by spontaneous combustion of vegetative matter (plants) due to densified radiation from wireless technology and that we should be concerned about this topic.

The power density of what is being done with 5G is unprecedented and it's important to keep in mind that we are in a time where in the USA we literally have no safety standards set since those from 1996 were recently overturned in the courts with the recent Children's Health Defense vs FCC lawsuit in 2021.

The higher the frequency, the shorter the distance it can transmit without being blocked by obstructions but the more data can be carried on the signal. This is why so many "small cell" antennas are needed spread throughout a city that "sells" the public on 5G service. More data on the 5G signal would equate to the "faster downloads" they are selling the public on but in reality they will be packing in more spy-tech in all the 5G devices so they can do a better job of spying on you for advertising and other devious purposes in this new pharmacocracy we are living in.

More spy tech means that in most cases no one will notice a faster download!

Think there's no coincidence they are doing this at the same time as they are rolling out electronic vaccine passports that will shortly be turned into digital ID and social credit score systems?

But back to the environment. Power density in this case is very dangerous and many fires have been associated with 5G rollouts already. This is why the rumor is that they have lowered the power levels for the U.S. rollout in order to not set fire to transmitters and power infrastructure which feeds electricity to them. Mark Steele discusses this in the video here: <https://seed177.bitchute.com/CL6NVTZ5Q3Yv/0DvpXsU70zD7.mp4>

The lower power thresholds do not make this technology safe by any means.

Keep in mind also that individuals with amalgam (mercury) fillings and other metal implants will be especially affected. This includes toxin nano-metals that have now been proven to be in many of the covid clotshots and there is growing sentiment that these nano toxins such as graphene-oxide and other self-assembling nano-materials are there to re-radiate or re-modulate signals transmitted from 5G antennas:

While this might sound far-fetched to the average human at this time DARPA has done extensive research in this area and it is not a new topic.

That being said, this next phase of 5G rollout in the U.S. is just the beginning, so if your vaxxed friends don't start getting very sick let's just be thankful but we will be monitoring it and will see what happens.

Most likely next they will open up even higher frequency ranges in certain cities where they have the most infrastructures in place but we need to use the court of public opinion to put a stop to the surveillance grid! Spread the word and don't stop talking about it to your uninformed friends and family.

If you have been vaxxed, now with 5G activated, you have less than two years to live. This is due to the nano-metals inside the vaxx which are similar to a heat-seeking missile. With having the vaxx, a person is now marked with a homing nano-metal antenna, i.e., graphene oxide, aluminum, which serves as a target antenna (bullseye). 5G satellites are beaming down a steady streaming of wireless energy. By the modulation of 5G signal strength, the global powers at be will gradually turn up the ionizing [note: I did not say non-ionizing] energy that will do a slow kill radiation of the human body.

With all this in mind it's no surprise the backlash that is happening in France over the hated 5G telecoms. Here are some of the reports from over there:

Rebels in France have declared war on the infrastructure of the Fourth Industrial Revolution.

An ever-expanding resistance movement has been sabotaging the widely-hated 5G network.

“Relay antennae are being torched, fibre-optic cables cut, pylons unbolted. During the night, people burn construction machinery, attack masts with disc cutters or destroy electrical equipment with sledgehammers”.

Vehicles belonging to telecommunications businesses have also been set on fire in at least 140 attacks since the start of the Covid repression, with the cost to the industry running into tens of millions of euros.

sab map Says the report: “This is a movement which is advancing underground, out of the spotlight, a deep revolt spreading across France”.

Pascaline, a resistance fighter interviewed by Reporterre, says she has been forced into action by a sense of urgency: "We are living in a crossroads period. If we do nothing now, this industry will have permanently taken hold".

French Rebels Massively Destroy 5G Networks

To close this out let's bring it back to the "Corona"...

A "Corona" is represented by a high voltage discharge or halo effect. Early on in this fake pandemic there was some sentiment about the name "coronavirus", the definition of the word "corona" and the supposed coincidence that it started in Wuhan, China which just so happened to be the first full scale deployment of densified 5G put into use. I have been saying since October 31, 2019, this was always about 5G. There never was a virus, it was a "bioweapon" and labeled a virus! Dr. David L. Martin has the patents proving it was created on a computer using "synthetic biology".

Was that just a coincidence that 5G was rolled out in the same city and at the same time that there was supposedly a new viral epidemic that turned into a (fake) global pandemic?

After all the idea of using an invisible virus as a scapegoat to avoid liability for environmental pollution has been standard practice at least for many decades, an example being polio, which was later rebranded as "infantile paralysis" but was originally caused by lead arsenate and DDT pesticides yet blamed on a poliomyelitis virus.

The complicated part in our current time is that we are faced with so many environmental toxins including chemicals, vaccines, heavy metals and now we've been adding more and more electromagnetic poison into the mix creating a deadly multi-factoral soup so which do you blame first for any sickness?

In summary, apart from being the wet dream of the technocratic globalists for the future surveillance state, 5G represents a technology deployed on the battlefield of an enemy which the adversary aims to defeat. That enemy in this case is you!

You will find over a hundred articles on my web page that I have posted over the past several years.

If you do not want to believe me, then you had better make your peace with your Creator, now the clock is ticking as of today.
