

Crimes Against Humanity!

The Perps Will Receive Their Cosmic Rewards!

Part 2

We are in a war for our very life here on Earth. As noted in Part 1, we are caught up in an asymmetrical war, in which the U.S. government has weaponized every agency and entity of the U.S. federal system. For most folks, nothing makes sense except that a lot of people have died since the Covid plandemic was executed on the public. The planning and various phases went full blast at the turn of the millennia with the mapping of the human genome and the discovery of CRISPR-cas9 “Gene” editing technology, this enabled a Segway in terms of cost to do genetic editing. While we navigate the mine fields of this bioweapon called the Covid vaxx, the wealthy party away at Davos and plan their next attempts to cull the world’s 8-billion human souls!

The Swiss escort agencies near Davos are already fully booked ahead of this year’s World Economic Forum, the elite gathering that brings together heads of state, corporate executives, and influential non-profiters, Austrian outlet Exxpress reported on Sunday, citing a missive purportedly sent from one such agency.

In a message to unnamed hospitality staff and published by Exxpress, escort agency Sensuallounge Escort urges readers to book their “fine selection of ladies and gentlemen” ahead of time to ensure “the best possible care and company during the World Economic Forum.”

Sensuallounge reportedly offers “services for all sexual orientations,” and the outlet claims one night with one of their employees costs €2,350 (just over $2,500). The service does not appear to accept cash as payment, offering clients the option of paying with a major credit card or via PayPal.

Explaining that the WEF’s annual get-together is high season for Swiss prostitutes, Exxpress revealed the agencies set up dedicated websites for the conference. Their roster seemingly fully booked, Sensuallounge’s site had already disappeared as of Monday.

While the WEF invited about 2,500 people as accredited delegates this year, over 30,000 more are expected to descend upon the ski resort for the dinners, parties, and, according to a growing body of journalism documenting the “dark side of Davos,” sex for pay that occurs outside the forum.

Sex workers also lurk in hotels and bars frequented by guests, according to a 2020 report from the ‘Times UK’, and women – even if they are accredited WEF attendees – are “routinely harassed” by the men who dominate the conclave. Indeed, the event began warning women that year not to go out alone after dark, “because if something happens with some big CEO, who is going to be believed? You or them?”

Prostitution at Davos has caused controversy in years past, though the bigger concern appears to be keeping the working class under control. The Swiss Army has been authorized to deploy as many as 5,000 troops if needed to provide security to the billionaires.

The theme for 2023's conference, which runs from January 16-20, is "Cooperation in a Fragmented World." Protesters were already onsite ahead of the event's official start on Monday, denouncing attendees' use of private jets to deliver climate-change platitudes.

Two weeks before the yearly winter meetings in Davos, Klaus Schwab instructed that all pilots hired by the rich and famous would have to be of the "unvaxxed" kind as a precaution that no "vaxxed" pilot might have a coronary attack at the controls of the corporate jet fleet that were bringing in the likes of John Kerry, Jeff Bezo, Bill Gates, and around 2,800 guests and dignitaries planning our future for this year and longer.

Bill Gates two weeks ago said that he planned to vaxxe those who were not jabbed through The U.S. MEAT SUPPLY will soon be widely infected with mRNA spike protein bioweapons. This includes beef, sheep, chickens, and other animals. From information learned on the Internet, they are already injecting the mRNA vaxx in the nation's meat and poultry supply.

In 1988, the U.S. Congress passed the Health Omnibus Programs Extension Act of 1988 (Public Law 100-607) which mandated the development of a database of AIDS Clinical Trials Information Services. This Congressional Act motivated other non-profit disease related groups to demand access also.

The Food and Drug Administration Modernization Act of 1997 amended the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and the Public Health Service Act to require that the NIH create a publicly available clinical trials database.

This eventually led to the development of the website ClinicalTrials.gov. This allowed tracking of drug efficacy studies resulting from approved Investigational New Drugs (including vaccines).

The law requires (from Wiki):

- Federally and privately funded clinical trials;
- The purpose of each experimental drug;
- Subject eligibility criteria to participate in the clinical trial;
- The location of clinical trial sites being used for a study; and
- A point of contact for patients interested in enrolling in the trial.
- The National Library of Medicine in the National Institutes of Health to host the public website/database

The searchable ClinicalTrials.gov website was made available to the public via the internet on February 29, 2000.

ClinicalTrials.gov makes searching for human clinical trials easy. For instance, a quick search reveals that there are over 50 clinical trials for mRNA vaccines in progress and over 200 registered.

With animals, there is no such database. mRNA vaccines in the “animal health” or veterinary markets are difficult to track until the company or the USDA is ready to release information on that product’s development or release. The USDA and/or the NIH have no mechanism for tracking potential new vaccines, drugs or biologics for the animal market.

Therefore, one must rely on press releases, the occasional peer reviewed paper, conference notes, USDA grant and contract notifications, university websites and company profiles for discovery of such new products. Not adequate, in my opinion, and most definitely not transparent. By federal law, the public should have open access to the results of this type of federally funded research.

Genetic Engineering and Biotechnology News. May 10, 2016

Bayer will partner with BioNTech to develop novel, first-in-class mRNA vaccines and therapeutics for animal health indications, the companies said today, under a collaboration whose value was not disclosed.

Bayer agreed to secure exclusive rights to BioNTech’s mRNA technology and intellectual property for development of mRNA vaccines for animal health applications...

The companies said their partnership is the first of its kind focused on developing mRNA therapeutics specifically for animal health applications. Infectious disease vaccines is the focus of one of the three therapy platforms BioNTech is building through mRNA technologies; the other two are cancer immunotherapies and protein replacement. The three platforms are designed to produce pharmacologically optimized protein coding RNA for targeted in vivo delivery...

1. This means that Bayer and BioNTech have been working on livestock and companion animal mRNA vaccines for over six years...

Logic predicts that they will soon have livestock and companion mRNA vaccine and RNA therapeutics on the market.

Bayer Website, February 1, 2021

“Following discussions with the German government it has become clear that current manufacturing capacities for vaccines need to be increased, particularly for potential variants of the SARS-CoV-2 virus.

This includes the need to expand production capacity as well as related manufacturing expertise in Germany.

We at Bayer will contribute even further by making more vaccine available to help fight the pandemic.

So, Bayer lent their mRNA manufacturing vaccine facilities for use for the making of COVID-19 mRNA vaccines. Given the above 2016 press releases, that Bayer and BioNTech were collaborating to make mRNA vaccines for the animal markets, it would make sense that these facilities were actually built for the production of veterinary vaccines.

Important to know. Merck is already selling mRNA vaccines for swine. For whatever reason, they are selling these products as “customized prescription vaccines against strains of influenza A virus in swine, porcine circovirus (PCV), rotavirus and beyond.”

This is an interesting market segment. Merck’s reason to limit the production of mRNA vaccines in the “customized prescription” market is unclear. Production facility size and scalability of the RNA product could be factors.

Merck Press Release, November 12, 2015 5:00 pm ET

MADISON, N.J., November 12, 2015 – Merck Animal Health (known as MSD Animal Health outside the United States and Canada) and Harrisvaccines, Inc., today announced the companies have entered into an agreement under which Merck Animal Health will acquire Harrisvaccines, a privately-held company that develops, manufactures and sells vaccines for food production and companion animals.

“As a leader in biologics, Merck Animal Health has built a robust portfolio of vaccines across all animal species,” stated Rick DeLuca, president, Merck Animal Health.

“Combining Harrisvaccines’ R&D and portfolio of products with our strong capabilities and global reach will enable us to address even more devastating diseases that are impacting production animals and reinforce our commitment to the science of healthier animals.”

Harrisvaccines offers innovative technology and an important portfolio of vaccines, with a focus on production animals, an increasingly important segment as consumer demand for protein continues to grow worldwide.

The company has a unique RNA Particle technology which represents a breakthrough in vaccine development. It also has a highly versatile production platform able to target a wide range of viruses and bacteria.

Pathogens are collected from a farm and specific genes are sequenced and inserted into RNA particles, making safe, potent vaccines able to provide herd-specific protection.

This pioneering system is rapidly adaptable to new disease challenges and was instrumental in producing the first conditionally licensed vaccine to help control Porcine Epidemic Diarrhea Virus (PEDv), a deadly virus that has killed more than eight million piglets since suddenly emerging in the U.S. in 2013.

Read that last paragraph again. Slowly.

Sometime before 2015, the USDA issued a conditional license for a mRNA vaccine for use in pigs for Porcine Epidemic Diarrhea Virus (PEDv), information about this product can be found at drugs.com.

Basically something akin to an emergency use authorization was issued around 2014 or 2015. Just like with the mRNA COVID-19 vaccine, full licensure was not granted but the conditional license remains in place. Is this a strategy to circumvent the USDA vaccine licensing and/or authorization process?

I want to return where I left off in Part 1, and continue with the transcript of Karen Kingston’s appearance on the Stew Peters program aired on Brighteon TV.

In the link below, Karen Kingston spells it all out on the Stew Peters show, which should further explain how the people are being murdered through a combination of part biology and part artificial intelligence. THIS IS A MAN-MADE BIOWEAPON! Karen Kingston joins Stew Peters to discuss how she's discovered the whole lie behind COVID-19. The transcript of the above program follows:

She says, "the greatest lie that we were told is that the "novel coronavirus" ... COVID-19 was caused by the SARS-CoV-2 virus, this mRNA gain-of-function virus.

"And we were told that it could infect people and it was highly-infectious. Unfortunately for people that have been propagating this lie, the body of scientific evidence, scientific experts, government documents and the inventor of SARS-CoV-2, himself, Ralph Baric has clearly stated that, all mRNA viruses, including SARS-CoV-2 are impossible to achieve human-to-human infection."

"And the evidence comes from Ralph Baric, he published in 2016 in PNAS, where he published that he had done an abundant amount of research on his entire database of bat coronaviruses, including SARS-CoV-2, which produces the WIV1 spike protein and he said, 'Look, if we can even get it into a human body, it immediately becomes impotent. It's weakened and useless, so we need to do further adaptations to make it of pandemic potential."

"The head of mRNA research and vaccines at Sanofi, the largest vaccine company in the world; this man is an expert, this man is Frank DeRosa, has said, 'mRNA will fall apart if you look at it wrong'."

"In Chemical Engineering News, they talk about this breakthrough lipid nanoparticle technology, because for over 30 years, mRNA was considered and SARS viruses were considered a lame duck invention."

"There's also a publication from 2017 in Nature Biotechnology – and this is the real kicker, Stew – in that publication, of this peer-review publication of experts in mRNA technology, they state that no RNA viruses, including mRNA can ever infect ANY cell, because of the 4 billion-year evolutionary defense of the lipid bilayer."

"It was always a lie that this virus could infect humans and be transmissible and I have all the documentation to prove it."

"So the question is are the experts that are telling us this is transmissible – are we to trust them? Or are we going to trust the body of evidence that we're showing your viewers? We've been gaslit."

"The greatest stunt, trick the Devil ever did was teaching the world he didn't exist. We've been gaslit and distracted by this concept of a coronavirus that's infectious and everyone that's come forward to validate the experts and the witnesses that you've had on your show saying, 'Hey, people are magnetic. People are having weird neurological and CNS dysfunctions'."

"We're looking underneath the microscope to see these self-assembling nanotechnologies. We're looking under the microscope of people who have been injected and their self-assembling nano-technologies and we're ignoring the evil, itself."

"Why are we being gaslit about a virus that is clinically, statistically, evolutionarily and scientifically impossible to infect people and not talking about the Artificial Intelligence Nano weapon that's been unleashed on the American People?"

"And by the way, the spike protein is actually matches up with the CAD file – the Computer-Animated Design files – in three patents for a nano-weapon technology that is made from Artificial Intelligence magnetic hydrogels."

Stew then asks her if it's not a virus and it's not contagious, then how were people getting sick?

Karen responds, "They were getting sick with an Artificial Intelligence Nano weapon...Let me explain what it is, first...If you go through the research for mRNA and Professor Catherine Whitehead from Carnegie-Mellon, head of chemical engineering she had said, 'Look, we can't do anything with mRNA technology. We can't even do research in vitro, outside of the cells, in the labs, it's so unstable. We have to do the genetic editing technology of the technology inside the cells, inside the animals. mRNA can only be successful if the genetic editing is done by nanotechnology inside the cells, inside the animals."

"So, what the spike protein is this lipid nanoparticle; it's a magnetized lipid nanoparticle, it's called an MPEG that has the CRISPR-Cas9 technology and something called a 'cubisome'. And the AI nano-weapon...looks just like the spike protein. And those spikes are actually probes that actually penetrate the cells."

"So, they look like cholesterol and per Ralph Baric's pitch to DARPA, per the patents, these can be delivered in an aerosol attack, they can be delivered through water, they can be delivered in food. And so what people were infected with was an Artificial Intelligent parasite."

Stew then asks her if this is why we saw all of those videos of people sticking magnets to meat in the grocery store.

"Yeah. So, it's in our food supply. People are sticking magnets to themselves. It's an AI Nano weapon and again, if you take a look at the peer-reviewed journals in nanotechnology and the peer-reviewed journals in vaccinology and viruses, you'll see that the technology for the lipid nanoparticles is the same as the spike protein. You'll also see it's the same as a military-grade bioweapon or a Nano weapon and James Giordano has said, 'Look, we can use these lipid nanoparticles to infect people and cause disruptions in their emotions and their thoughts and behaviors. We can also induce a pandemic of strokes’.”

“So this is what the nanotechnology is. And maybe because it’s so unbelievable, I think people really found validity in patents. Would it be OK if I went to one of the patents right now to explain exactly what this is? OK, so I’m going to go to this patent. It’s one of three patents for the Nano weapon technology and it’s called Intelligent Sensor Platforms and in the abstract, the viewers can see on the cover something similar to a spike protein image.”

“So this invention is ‘...embodiments that are directed to self-adapting, scalable, and communicating sensor platforms that are further capable of autonomous and/or cognitive action. The invention relates to a multifunction sensor platform, such as a biomedical sensor platform, bio-molecular sensor platform, electronics sensor platform, communications sensor platform, information processing sensor platform, and the like. In another invention embodiment, one or more sensors improve the efficacy of a healthcare.’

“So this can be used as a bioweapon and it can be used in healthcare. Now, as long as there’s no FDA approval of a product under a pre-market application, a medical device does not need to be disclosed to the American People...That’s why the August 23rd approval was so important. We could have changed the rules of warfare.”

“But let’s go through this patent to go through what people have been inoculated with. Essentially, the new AI nano-weapon is a new AI species. Those spike proteins are parasites. And those parasites do gene editing inside of you to spawn viruses, diseases, biosynthetic structures, as well as to host the development of these new species that are being developed.”

“So, I’m going to read it from the patent. So, it says here: ‘In one embodiment, the instant invention teaches one or more elements that in whole or in part execute one or more types of actions for creating, spawning, comprising modifying, repairing, regenerating, reassembling, and or control and regulation of one or more cells, cellular elements, cell organelles, including like action and behaviors involving cellular processes such as endocytosis (so things being exuded from cells), exocytosis (being extracted from cells, such as DNA), mitosis, trafficking and signaling (so completely controlling your cytokines, your signals of your immune system, the signals of your central nervous system, your nerve cells), communication between cells, receptor upregulation and downregulation, other behaviors, and the like’.”

“So it truly is to completely control the body and now, we know COVID-19, there’s all these CNS symptoms, fatigue, emotional disruption and that’s because this does hijack the central nervous system. So, in one other section here, it says, ‘In one invention embodiment, one or more elements, with or without additional elements, and in some embodiments with minimal functionalization, enter the central nervous system, including passing the blood brain barrier (BBB)’.”

“Again, I warned the nations about this crossing the blood brain barrier in May of last year – on your show and July of last year – and that these were lipid nanoparticle technologies that were meant to hijack the central nervous system. So here is one of the evil master patents that talks about that.”

“An, now, this part’s really important, as well. It says here, that, ‘the invention enables post administration delivery of one or more types of agents into the CNS in 30 minutes or less.’ So, you’ll see sometimes when people get injected, there was that nurse that was injected and you’ll see them automatically go like this [put her head in her hand].”

“Well, that’s because this AI nano-weapon is designed to hijack your central nervous system and go straight to you brain within less than 30 minutes. Some of the sequences that are in there are designed to do that.”

“So when we were told that the vaccine contained the full mRNA sequence for SARS-CoV-2, we were under the assumption...[it was] this synthetically recreated virus that was encapsulated in the lipid nanoparticles. No! It’s actually a computer sequence. It is a computer program sequence.”

“So that’s what this is. These are nanotechnology...1/100th as small as a virus. So the masks don’t do anything. Nothing does anything. A biohazard suit doesn’t do anything...they can get through nearly anything.”

Stew comments that these are biosynthetic parasites and that’s why they were responding to ivermectin.

Karen replies, “Thank you for bringing that up, because I want people to have hope. This is not just technology. It’s part technology, part biology. And as you go through the patents and the peer-reviewed publications, most of the biological sequences for this Nano weapon are from parasites...That’s why the ivermectin and the hydroxychloroquine and the anti-parasitical treatments kill it and/or at least slow it down.”

“Now, the other thing is it’s part technology...It clearly states on one of the patents that this based on Quantum Dot, it’s based on the Bohr particle, which is based on frequencies – which means that frequencies can also disable the technology and there’s a peer-reviewed publication in Science Magazine that actually talks about how there are specific electromagnetic sequences that completely disable the spike protein.”

“Why is that? Because it’s not a biological spike protein. It’s a nano-technology. That’s why frequencies will disable it...and this is also in SEC filings.”

“The 5G towers are part of the energy source for this AI nano-weapon. This AI parasite. Which, again, keep in mind, we’re all being infected with it to – as the patent says – to spawn new genetic species. That’s what it’s for. So if the 5G towers are taken down – and Starlink was not built for our protection, it's not a military operation for our protection. It's a military operation to take down humanity."

"So, the Starlink network and the 5G are needed to basically provide the fundamental energy source for these Artificial Intelligent parasites...genetically-engineered magnetic hydrogels are self-aware. They have cognitive ability and that's what they are. It's in the patents, it's in all of the documentation. They are what is called a smart technology. There's no real gray area around any of this."

In Part 2 of this interview, which is only 12 minutes long and it is completely explosive! Karen accuses Dr. Robert Malone of "sabotage" for suggesting that the FDA approval of the vaxx in the summer of 2021 "didn't happen". She does not trust him.

On a brighter note, Karen says there is hope for those who contracted COVID and who received the vaxx.

"The anti-parasitic agents, like ivermectin and hydroxychloroquine work to slow down the replication of these parasites in the body and then, there is the use of electromagnetic frequencies to disable the spike protein."

"Because the spike protein is not a biological agent, it is this AI parasite and so, there are studies that show there are certain frequencies that can also disable it."

"At the end of the day, though, COVID-19 is not about a virus. COVID-19 is about the inoculation of human beings with Artificial Intelligence. And the only way to stop it completely is for people to stop running from the truth and start facing the truth and to organize a movement, which I will do myself to stop this."

"Because every COVID-19 Emergency Use power and all the funding must stop. COVID-19 is a war on humanity. If you are supporting funding of it or any kind of powers, you are supporting the demise of humanity."

"All products for COVID-19; it's in the patents, it's on the World Health Organization – so not just the vaxxines but all the tests, all the treatments, all can be inoculated with this parasite. So every COVID-19 product needs to be banned, recalled and if anyone is using it, it should be considered an act of crime, of attempted murder, because that is what it is."

"Lastly, we need to make a movement to take down the technology. 5G and Starlink have nothing to do with helping humanity. If you go to CloudMinds' SEC filing, they clearly state that their new 5G species; its functionality, its ability to communicate and its ability to spread is based on 5G technology."

"CloudMinds is an AI technology company based out of China whose endgame operations are for Chinese military operation use. They are a threat to national security" and they need the 5G towers that we've put up all across this country for our convenience. No. It's not for our convenience. It's for our extermination."

"And you asked why they're not just killing us...It's because what they intend for us is far worse than death. Humans are the host to spawn this new Artificial Intelligent species. And it's not just one species. The technology has CRISPR-Cas9."

"As Catherine Whitehead from Carnegie-Mellon said, they need to do the mRNA gene editing inside the cells, inside the animals. The 'animals' are humans. So they're not killing us. They're experimenting on us and they're using us as the host to – as the patent said – 'spawn' these new species that they're creating."

Just below is another of Dr. James Giordano presentations on neuroweapons, but this time it is at West Point Academy. The first half was given at West Point Academy while the second part presentation was given at Los Alamos National Labs. After watching Dr. Giordano's presentation several times myself, and having read Karen Kingston's transcript from the recent Stew Peters show it does not require a PhD in Neuroscience to know this is a DARPA program to kill an adversary but on another level, to kill your own population.

4,000 Patents: Why the 'Novel' SARS-CoV-2 Virus Isn't so Novel

Since 1999, at least 4,000 patents involving coronavirus have been filed, including patents detailing key features of the so-called "novel" SARS-CoV-2 virus. In 2002, Ralph Baric, Ph.D. and colleagues at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, filed a patent on recombinant coronavirus, and within a year, we got the world's first SARS outbreak.

Although there is an organized media blitz to refute Covid is a bioweapon, the evidence belies their propaganda. In a recent Children's Health Defense video – link below – we actually have the proof that this has been a long process to find the 'Silent Weapon for Quiet Wars.' that followed the UN creation of the Club of Rome in 1970. Dr. David Martin is the quintessential authority on what was underway as far back as the 2000 time period.

<https://childrenshealthdefense.org/defender/david-martin-patents-recombinant-coronavirus/>

In the early 2000s, David Martin, Ph.D., founder of M-CAM International, started finding large numbers of patents that violate biological and chemical weapons laws.

Story at-a-glance as reported by Dr. Joseph Mercola:

In the early 2000s, David Martin, Ph.D., founder of M-CAM International, started finding large numbers of patents that violate biological and chemical weapons laws.

In 1999, Dr. Anthony Fauci funded research to create “an infectious replication-defective recombinant coronavirus.” In 2002, Ralph Baric, Ph.D. and colleagues at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, filed a patent on recombinant coronavirus, and within a year, we got the world’s first SARS outbreak.

Since 1999, at least 4,000 patents involving coronavirus have been filed, including patents detailing key features of the so-called “novel” SARS-CoV-2 virus.

The 2001 anthrax attack, which came out of medical and defense research, led to the passage of the PREP Act, which removed liability for manufacturers of emergency medical countermeasures.

The funds for entitlement programs (Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, and pensions will dry up by 2028, at which point the drug industry will go bankrupt as well. With a burgeoning population that is sick from the COVID jabs, we need to prepare new systems to care for each other.

In this interview, we continue our coverage of the COVID “plandemic” by speaking to David Martin, Ph.D., who has done a phenomenal job uncovering the paper trail behind the virus now known as SARS-CoV-2.

As it turns out, this is not a novel virus at all, as patents and government grants detailing key features of the virus go back two decades. Martin finished his doctorate at the University of Virginia in 1995, after which he was hired on to the medical school faculty in radiology and orthopedic surgery.

In 2006, he set up the first medical device clinical trials organization for the University of Virginia — a company called IDEAmEd — which conducted medical device clinical trials for U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) submission. So, he has an extensive background working with FDA clinical trials.

In 1998, he founded another company called M-CAM International, which is focused on finding ways to bring intellectual property into conventional finance. M-CAM also started auditing the U.S. patent system at the request of the U.S. Congress.

In the early 2000s, M-CAM worked with the Senate Banking Committee and was a contractor for the U.S. Treasury to expose white collar criminal activity around intellectual property and tax fraud. In doing that work, Martin also discovered something else.

“Quite alarmingly, we found an enormous number of patents [detailing] biological and chemical weapon violations,” Martin says. “That was not something we were looking for. I let people know this was not something we set out to find. This is something that landed in our lap.”

“I developed a technology a decade earlier called linguistic genomics, which is a means by which you can look at unstructured text data and find the metaphoric meaning inside of what is being communicated.”

“As you can imagine, if people of ill intent are trying to do something, they often hide what they’re doing in plain sight, but they use language that is not conventional.”

“So, when you find a patent, for example, on a blast-resistant pathogen from a rocket-propelled grenade — did you hear what I just said? ‘A blast-resistant pathogen from a rocket-propelled grenade.’ Does that sound like it’s a common way to inoculate a population or does that sound like [a bioweapon]?”

“And so, finding a number of bioweapons patents, we started taking into account some very serious things. I published once a year the literal global phonebook of every biological and chemical weapon violation that took place anywhere in the world.”

“[It tells you] the who, the where, the who funded it, what their addresses are. It was ... used by U.S. law enforcement, intelligence communities and elsewhere around the world to track things that were being done inappropriately. And, it was in 1999 [that] we started detecting that there seemed to be an alarming event around coronavirus, which we’re going to get into.”

Coronavirus identified as a potential vaccine vector.

As explained by Dr. Martin, in 1999, the National Institutes of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), headed by Dr. Anthony Fauci, identified coronavirus as a possible vaccine vector.

At the time, the disclosed rationale was to try to come up with an HIV vaccine, and to that end, Fauci, in 1999, funded research to create “an infectious replication-defective recombinant coronavirus.”

In 2002, Ralph Baric, Ph.D. and colleagues at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, filed a patent on recombinant coronavirus, and within a year, we got the world’s first SARS outbreak.

The real Anthony Fauci

“For more background on Fauci, be sure to read Robert F. Kennedy Jr.’s book “The Real Anthony Fauci,” which details how Fauci’s promotion of AZT during the 1980s ended up killing hundreds of thousands of people. And the pattern we’re seeing with coronavirus is basically a repeat of previous behavior. Martin says:

“It’s important to realize that at the time [in 1984 when Fauci became director of the NIAID] we were transitioning from an STD environment in which syphilis and gonorrhea and those types of STDs were the things that we were concerned about ...”

“HIV became a political and social hot potato because it was associated in many respects with lifestyle branding, and as a result it became a political issue to essentially identify a class of the population that could be the basis for research without consideration.”

“The notion by Fauci was that people with HIV had already made decisions that somehow entitled them to less humanity. As a result, the clinical trials around developing both management techniques as well as potential treatments ... were done in a very reckless fashion. Numerous people died in [those] clinical trials, and by the way, still are ...”

“He has been obsessed about this HIV situation as a platform to, essentially, use humans that he determines to be some form of sub-human for clinical trials. It is a horrific blight on the United States’ medical establishment that we have been willing to allow this to go on in the name of science, in the name of health promotion, since 1984, without any significant disruption or check.”

The first SARS outbreak

The first SARS outbreak occurred in late 2002 going into 2003 in China. Curiously, before Baric’s team invented and patented a recombinant infectious replication-defective coronavirus, no one had ever heard of SARS.

“I’m not drawing a causal relationship,” Martin says. “I’m making an observation that humans and what we call coronavirus seem to have cohabitated this earth for hundreds of thousands of years.”

“And then we manipulate that [virus] in 1999. We start playing around with putting it into different animals and different human cell line models, and then in 2003, we have SARS. Like a lot of other things, it’s an observation worth noting.”

“What makes the observation more problematic, obviously, is this was happening during the unfortunate results of the 2001 anthrax attack, which as you know came out of federal labs ...”

“[It] became very clear that this was not [due to] a bad actor, per se. This was medical and defense research gone bad that got into the public and people died. But the real benefit, if you will, of the anthrax attack was the passage of the PREP Act.”

Anthrax attack provided desired liability removal

Inside the PREP Act we now have the carte blanche removal of liability for manufacturers of medical countermeasures. As noted by Dr. Martin, the PREP Act has “made pharmaceutical companies much more capable of instilling terror in the population, coercing a population into taking an untested measure, and doing so with absolute impunity.”

Curiously, while Martin’s annual report on bioweapons patents was, with only a few exceptions, appreciated and used by agencies around the world, when it comes to the information he has amassed on coronavirus, not a single agency anywhere in the world has been willing to address it.

“No one ... seems to be willing to look at the fact that beginning in 2016 we started seeing very alarming language being used, which was ‘coronavirus poised for human emergence.’ This was in patents, but also in scientific publications. And when you start referring to a coronavirus allegedly poised for human emergence, after the World Health Organization has declared SARS eradicated, there’s something desperately wrong with that picture.”

Racketeering and organized crime

The biggest alarm bell was published Feb. 12, 2016, by EcoHealth Alliance president Peter Daszak who, according to Dr. Martin, has been “the money laundering agent” for gain-of-function research coronaviruses after the U.S. implemented a moratorium on that kind of research in 2014. Rather than close it down, this research was simply moved over to China instead. In 2015, Daszak stated:

“To sustain the funding base beyond the crisis, we need to increase the public understanding of the need for medical countermeasures, such as a pan influenza or a pan coronavirus vaccine.”

“A key driver is the media and the economics will follow the hype. We need to use that hype to our advantage to get to the real issues. Investors will respond if they see profit at the end of the process.”

That statement was made by Daszak in 2015, and was published in the spring of 2016.

The statement “set off alarm bells very loudly within my organization,” Martin says, “because when you have somebody who is promoting gain-of-function research, and clearly blurring the line on what is even legal ... saying we need ‘media to create the hype’ ... and ‘investors will follow if they see profit’ ... that doesn’t sound like public health.”

“To me, that sounds like organized crime. That sounds like racketeering, and we need to raise this issue.”

What the coronavirus patents show

In all, since 2002, some 4,000 patents have been filed on the genome, vaccines and detection of coronavirus. According to Martin, this is alarming, “because you don’t file patents on something that you don’t intend to commercialize.”

Evidence of intended commercialization can also be found by looking at the dates of certain patents by certain companies.

April 28, 2003, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention filed a patent on the genome of the SARS coronavirus. Five days later, Sequoia Pharmaceuticals received a $935,000 grant and filed U.S. Patent 7151163 for a treatment for that same virus.

How can you file a patent for the treatment of a virus that was only discovered five days earlier?

“That sounds like an inside job,” Dr. Martin says. “Because you cannot have a pathogen identified and a cure for it in five days, when all of the information was held from the public, because when the CDC filed its patent on the genome of coronavirus, it paid to keep that patent secret.”

“So, somebody somewhere knows that this thing was going to turn out to be a moneymaker ... The proliferation of proprietary controls around SARS Coronavirus probably exceeds at least by two or three times most other pathogens ...

“Dana Farber had a monoclonal antibody patent system that came out of three NIH grants. Their patent 7750123 on the monoclonal antibody for SARS-Cov treatment took place in 2003.”

So, while we’ve been told that SARS-CoV-2 is something we’ve never seen before, there are 4,000 patents and patent applications that say otherwise. The same can be said for the testing and the COVID shots. For example, Pfizer filed the first S1 spike protein vaccine patent on coronavirus in 1990 — 30 years ago.

“Regardless of what part of the story we look at, the patent record is full of thousands of patents where commercial interests funded by NIAID and the National Institutes of Health have been building the economic cabal around coronavirus. This is not a new thing. It hasn’t been a new thing.”

“And regrettably, we’re being told continuously that somehow or another there’s something novel about this experience, despite the fact that every single part of what we are told is being detected with PCR ... the injections, every single one of those things has been known and isolated for over 30 years.”

How did we get to a point where taxpayers are funding research on pathogens that are being designed to sicken and kill us, only to drive profits into the drug industry and all these various patent holders, which include the government itself?

In large part, it goes back to the implementation of the Bayh-Dole Act of 1980, which allows the beneficiaries of federal grants to file patents on work derived from federally funded research. The idea was that the economy would benefit by allowing scientists to be entrepreneurs first, rather than simply publishing their research.

This piece of legislation has undermined health care by bringing the patent office, the FDA and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) into an unholy trinity that serves and promotes private pharmaceutical concerns. So, what we have now is an insidious funding loop. Martin explains:

“Corporations and pharma lobby to get people elected. Once they’re elected, the lobbyists flow an enormous amount of money into the various NIH programs. In the case of NIAID, since Fauci took over [in 1984], $191 billion have gone through his fingers. Now, is that because he’s successful?”

“No, as a matter of fact, under his watch, allergies and infectious diseases have increased over 60 times. Yet somehow or another, he’s still the director of a failed [agency] that’s gotten $191 billion to solve a problem that is getting worse every single year.”

“If it was a company, we would have fired him. The problem is, it’s not a company. It’s a money laundering agency. It moves public funds through the hands of a federal agency into the research laboratories, which ultimately are going to conduct research that is then licensed back to the benefactors, which are the pharmaceutical companies that paid to get people into office in the first place.”

“So, this is a revolving door problem, and the Bayh-Dole Act created an insidious incentive that said that the only research that was going to be conducted was going to be research that ultimately would flow back to the pharmaceutical industry and create juggernauts, where the risk of R&D was taken by the public and the benefit for that R&D was taken by the private. That’s a horrible thing, and that is exactly what Fauci has run.”

Why did Fauci pick Moderna as vaccine frontrunner?

Martin also points out that Fauci has also lied to Congress about the NIAID’s financial interests in drugs. During this pandemic, Congress and the Congressional Budget Office asked for an accounting of NIH-owned patents where they have potential commercial interest in the drugs being produced.

Fauci did not disclose any of them. Instead he lied and said there are none.

“The evidence is stacked a mile long,” Martin says. “Moderna stands alone as the only recipient of NIAID funding that fails to comply with the law and fails to disclose the federal government’s interest in their intellectual property.”

“Despite the fact that everyone knew Moderna failed to disclose the federal government’s interest in its research, Fauci picked Moderna to be the frontrunner for an untested, commercially unsuccessful and entirely unproven mRNA vaccine technology in the spring of 2020.”

“There was no rational justification for that, and there would have been less rational justification, given the fact that Moderna is on record as having violated the federal law, the Bayh-Dole Act, 141 times at the time they were picked to be the winner.”

“This is a known fact, but it was overlooked entirely, and not a single law enforcement agent anywhere in the United States has decided that having a criminal organization supply a product sounds like a bad idea.”

Violations of law everywhere

Since the beginning of this pandemic, the number of rules, laws and regulations that have been broken in the name of public health boggle the mind.

Even laws that are absolutely clear and in no way ambiguous are being broken. For example, under Code of Federal Regulations Title 21, section 50, no one can be forced or coerced into a clinical trial of an experimental medical product, even if it’s a pandemic countermeasure.

“It’s black and white, and this clinical trial does not end until 2023 in the first best instance. So, there is no such thing as an approved or even authorized use of a [COVID ‘vaccine’] that can be compelled on the population,” Martin says.

And yet they’re bribing, threatening and coercing people everywhere. The drug companies also violated basic principles by eliminating all of the controls and giving the test vaccine to everyone in the trials, leaving us nothing against which to compare side effects.

They also do not have an independent investigational review board, or the statutorily required approval processes for the protocol.

The companies themselves decided to modify their protocols midstream, which simply isn’t how it’s done. Basically, we do not have an actual clinical trial on these COVID shots, because so many of the basic principles of clinical medical research were violated.

The federal government is also violating the False Claims Act by telling you the COVID shots are safe and effective, when the studies are still years from being completed, and have been undermined in all the ways just mentioned.

“What we have is a situation where the deaths are actually considered to be acceptable,” Martin says. “I don’t know what world you have to come from to find that term even remotely speakable. I think the utterance of that phrase is horrific ... We are killing people willfully, and we are doing it with impunity in the name of what we call a love affair with science.”

“The only problem is we’ve desecrated science in the process because it turns out that when I did randomized double-blind, placebo-controlled trials, you know what I had to do? I had to keep the populations blinded. I had to keep it placebo-controlled for the whole clinical trial. And the reason I had to do that is because that’s what the statute requires.”

“This entire process has been willful acts of harm to humanity. And the only hope we have is a very small note in the Department of Justice opinion that took place under the Trump administration, which says that if this was based on felony acts, then the entire emergency use authorization and all its benefits would collapse.”

“In other words, if we can show that a felony has occurred — racketeering, lying to Congress, the public coercion ... [and] in the Fauci dossier I outline dozens of felony violations — [it] would bring this entire thing to its knees, because the moment the PREP Act protection falls away from Pfizer, Moderna, Johnson & Johnson, AstraZeneca and others, I can guarantee you [Fauci] will not be promoting a vaccine.”

“If they are liable for a single injury or death, they’ll pull the plug on what they know to be unsafe. That requires law enforcement to do its job. And somewhere there has to be a prosecutor who’s willing to do their job ... Right now, I genuinely do not think we have three tiers of government. I don’t think there is a Department of Justice.”

“The judiciary is functionally gone ... When we allow the judiciary to be an arm of the executive [branch], then what happens is we’ve actually lost the three-tiered structure of government. And, as a result, the system collapses. The judiciary was the only thing that was explicitly independent. We don’t allow judges to get sponsorship in campaign finance. We don’t allow judges to be elected.”

“We appoint them, we go through an approval process. We do all sorts of things to try to make sure the judiciary is independent. So, the only risk to the pharmaceutical industry, the only risk to an executive out of control, was the judiciary.”

“By collapsing the judicial system in the United States, we have effectively made the government a servant of its benefactors — and that is the pharmaceutical industry.”

How will it end?

With what appears to be a near-total collapse of the judicial system, it looks like we’re on a straight path to global tyranny, with no routes of escape. Martin, however, believes there may be a way out, but it will require action on behalf of rational individuals blessed with foresight. He explains:

“You have to have currency to buy off politicians. Back in 2008, when we had the global financial crisis... we instituted a policy that [will] functionally bankrupt our entitlement program (Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid) in 2028 [or 2033] ...”

“The best math we have is that the annuities and pension programs of the United States functionally run out of their trust fund in 2028. What does that mean? Well, one of the things that people overlook is there’s an unholy alliance between the insurance companies and what we call health care.”

“Insurance companies are long-dated asset holders. These are the people who have to have money today to cover issues in the future. That’s what a long-dated asset holder is. The problem is that the Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank and other central banks have suppressed the value of the return on funds, so the funds are running out of money faster than expected ...”

“You know as well as anybody else that for a politician to stand up and say, ‘I’m going to abolish or significantly alter Social Security’ is the death knell to any political aspiration. Tiny problem. But whether they say it or not, the trust fund runs out of money in 2028.”

“Now, here comes the kicker: So does the pharmaceutical industry because it turns out that the money that’s going into that system is actually paying for the drug dependency of this country.”

“And if we go all the way back to 1604 — to the establishment of the British East India Company and the establishment of the Virginia Company — we’ll realize that the 400-plus-year tradition that we have, where we have built nation states on the back of the drug trade, is coming to its end.”

“The good news for all of us is it’s going to end around 2028, because we have a convergence that they didn’t figure out how to cover up. The convergence is that the people with the money, the big pharmaceutical players, are the beneficiaries of a system that is going to bankrupt itself by virtue of their actions.”

“This is the brontosaurus that ate too much because it was the biggest dinosaur. And the great news is they have the brain the size of a pea, just like the brontosaurus. They are not smart. And the best thing we have going for us furry humans is that we actually are nimble.

“Now, does that mean that we are not going to have an ounce of pain through the process? Absolutely not. There is social disruption that we can’t even imagine on the horizon in 2026, 2027 and 2028, because 86 million people will lose what they thought was going to be their retirement funds.”

“When we see that number now go to 100 million people, and the 100 million people are sicker because of what we’ve injected today ... those people who are going to require greater health care then are going to be faced with a bankrupt system incapable of supporting their life and their livelihood. And that is the death knell of this story.”

“The best news about this is we have time if people of good conscience get together and say, ‘We’re not going to let that apocalypse arrive because we have time to start building communities that actually care for each other. We have time to start building accountability structures.”

“We have time to start doing things that bring our social fabric together so that when that system collapses, we can come back to a rational view of what life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness is’ because, until we can reclaim the sovereignty of our health, we cannot celebrate the sovereignty of our life.”

What about the 2030 agenda?

By now, you’ve probably heard of the World Economic Forum’s Great Reset agenda, which includes the transition to a Central Bank Digital Currency. With that, they can abolish the dollar and “reset” the entire global economy that is now tottering on its last leg. However, even here there may be kink in the plan that can save us.

“Like a good [James] Bond villain, he’s actually ignorant of history,” Martin says. The reason Martin remains optimistic that the Great Reset doesn’t have a chance at all to succeed is because there’s no way the global public will embrace an all-digital system that can be annihilated by an electromagnetic pulse or electromagnetic disruption.”

“This year alone, we’ve seen internet failures, power outages and digital finance hacks that would leave people stranded without a single penny were they reliant on an all-digital financial system.”

“The digital currency illusion is the most bizarre and pathetic Dr. Evil plan anybody’s ever concocted,” Martin says. “The fact of the matter is the digital currency craze is one of those fantastical illusions that unfortunately has a single-point failure.”

“We live in a world where actors of both anarchist intent, and very, very laudable privateers and pirates are more than happy to make sure that digital currency never sees the light of day because they will, in fact, hack, crack and disrupt every system out there.”

“And so, I look at the whole Great Reset as great theater ... But the entire illusion is being run because they’re out of ideas. And ... when the incumbency is out of bad ideas, they try desperately to force you into a behavior that you would not otherwise accept. All you have to do is just say no. Just don’t play along.”

The financial incentive for depopulation

Is it possible that the COVID jabs might cause premature death and be an intentional form of depopulation? Well, since we’re following the money, there’s certainly a financial incentive for such a scenario. As noted by Martin, if you've made financial promises to people who are closing in on retirement, the fewer there are of them the better.

"The financial interest for depopulation is a thoroughly compelling argument," Martin says. He recently reviewed this argument in a lecture given at the Church of Glad Tidings in Yuba City, which you can view above.

In short, having people live long enough to tap into their Social Security benefits and live to the full maturity of their life insurance policies is problematic with respect to the financial collapse that is looming.

Based on these financial realities — which certainly are not advertised or publicly discussed — there's clearly an economic incentive to shrink the population and get rid of as many people as possible before 2028. Unfortunately, based on previous lipid nanoparticle and mRNA trials, the chance of a mass casualty event is high.

"There is no question ... they jumped over animal trials for a very important reason," Martin says. "We've been told it was to save time, but it wasn't to save time."

"It was to put this particular pathogen into humanity, so that a lot of people suffer and ultimately die of effects that we could have picked up if we had done it the traditional way, which is seven to eight years of safety studies, before we decide to put it in the arms of humans."

"That's not what we did. And if we look at the safety data from animal studies on mRNA, and on the lipid nanoparticle, there is no question that there is going to be a fatality increase because of this ..."

"But the concern I have, [which may be] more egregious [than] the death ... is the malingering morbidity, people who will require around the clock medical care is going to be a drain that will infect our economy so deeply that we may not recover."

"Because if we have people who have to stay at home with children who are sick, if we have people who have to care for elderly parents who are sick, if we have people who are caring for a spouse or a family member who are sick, that means we do not have the ability to enjoy life and liberty. And the fact is that I think we're going to have a bigger morbidity than mortality event."

Now, as if all of that weren't enough, Martin has also discovered CRISPR patents that describe how they can "clip" the effects of mRNA/DNA-based vaccines from people. He believes they may be building a pathogen set that is then introduced into the population so that they can later introduce a more expensive technology that can fix what was broken.

This, unfortunately, could mean survival may be based on your ability to pay.

Were there excess deaths due to COVID-19?

To backtrack for a moment, while we've been told COVID-19 caused excess deaths in 2020, one way to double-check that is to look at the number of life insurance policies paid. And in 2020, there were actually fewer life insurance policies paid out than normal, according to Dr. Martin.

“Whose numbers are you going to believe? Are you going to believe the CDC who's trying to pump and dump this terror campaign of people dying, and therefore you need to have your mask on, you need to socially distance, you need to vaccinate?”

“Or are you going to believe the numbers from the people who actually pay claims when real human life ends? It turns out that if you look at the audited financial statements of the world's largest life insurance companies, we can find no excess death evidence. Is COVID so smart that it only kills the uninsured? Is that what we're supposed to believe?”

Live consciously, aligned with health

In closing, I, like Dr. Martin, believe we can survive this and keep our freedom. But we must act. Individually, every single person needs to take actions that are in line with pro-life and liberty morals and ethics. As suggested by Martin, spend your money on certified organic foods and locally grown foods to help build a healthier food system.

Spend time with friends and family and share information. Start building a sense of community again, in whatever way makes sense to you. When you make a purchasing decision, analyze whether you're supporting the evil being perpetrated, or choking its money supply. We need to start building micro-economies that can later grow into alternative economies. We need to start building support structures for when the financial and health care systems break.

“The fact is we are in a very unique moment in human history, and it probably is as close to the story of Joseph in Egypt as you can get. You know the seven fat years and then the seven skinny years? Well, guess what? We have a couple of fat years left. You know what we should be doing?”

“We should be investing in our networks of relationship. We should be investing in our networks of community. We should be building those resilient fibers that hold us together because we know that there is a famine coming. And we are in a unique position right now to actually do something about it.”

“So, start with yourself. Make sure that what you put into your body is aligned to your health. Make sure that what you do with your body is aligned to your health. And then as you do that, invite other people into living a life that in fact models that behavior, so that we start building communities of consciousness. And as we build those communities, we will start building currencies of consciousness ...”

“There are a bunch of ways that we can solve these problems, and we can do it using the market. We can do it using our consciousness, but we need our consciousness, we need our community, and we need our currency to be organically aligned to humanity again.”

How to break the propaganda cycle

Doing the things mentioned above will also further another task at hand, which is to break the propaganda cycle. The key, really, is to simply live your life as healthily and joyously as possible, so that people around you can see there are others out there who aren't living in fear. Eventually, they'll start seeing they actually have a choice.

“Listen, propaganda cannot stand against the truth of a life well lived,” Martin says. “It can never stand against that truth. What we're trying to do is the wrong energy. We're trying to confront irrationality with rationality. But what we need to be doing is being persistent in showing up and living in a way that people look at it and say, 'I'll have what she's having.'”

“This is your 'Harry Met Sally' moment. This is that restaurant scene. This is your moment to be a person who outlasts the half-life of the propaganda reflex. And I've seen way too many people try to engage energetically in the debate where they enter into conflict and it destroys their well-being.”

“Don't be the miserable angry one. Be the one at the table who is the one worth looking at and going, 'I'll have what he's having. I'll have what she's having.' Live a life that is desirable, and you'll see propaganda become emasculated instantaneously ...”

“All the time while Gov. [Ralph] Northam here in Virginia was telling us that we could not have gatherings, we continued our workshops. We had our table full of 15, 20, 25 people, and our official policy was that if you signed up for our workshop, for the time you were in our home we adopted you as family, because the legal exemption in Virginia was that family didn't count.”

“So, we adopted everybody for the week. We had every kind of cousin, uncle, aunt, brother, sister, child, granny. It was all family. We went through the entire shutdown having a table full of fellowship. And you know what? Everybody in the neighborhood said, 'I'd love to have what they're having.’”

The CDC could end all the COVID misinformation in a heartbeat... why aren't they?

Here are two ways they could settle the question of safety. They are both easy to do. I find it very troubling they have no interest in doing either of them.

The US government (or any foreign government) could instantly end the safety debate by doing a couple of studies.

Why they don't is a mystery to me.

Could they have something to hide?

The studies

Trial #1: Run a prospective double-blind randomized trial where they look at the parameters in the Thailand study PLUS d-Dimer before the shot and 3, 7, 14 days after the shot. Don't limit it to just kids. A 30% rate of cardiac injury in the Thailand study wasn't predicted by anyone in mainstream science. I'd have thought that the US government would want to see if it is even worse for the elderly and younger kids. But maybe nobody wants to know because they all seem afraid to want to look.

Study #1: Just do autopsies on anyone who died 2 weeks after their shot and actually do the correct histopathology and stains that can implicate the vaccine instead of skipping those tests. Autopsies using STANDARD tests (which is what we are doing now) will NEVER implicate the vaccine because they were never designed to find COVID vaccine damage.

How hard is that?

My personal guess as to what they will find.

It wouldn't surprise me at all to find more than a 20% rate over all ages of measurable cardiac injury caused by these vaccines (18% had abnormal EKGs post-vax which is extremely troubling). I talked to Charles Hoff today and he found more than 50% of his patients had elevated d-Dimers post-vaccine. There was a cardiac screening in Puerto Rico using an FDA approved cardiac monitor that picked up an abnormal signal in 70% of the 177 people tested (age 8 to 84). I heard that a study in the US military discovered a 68% rate of cardiac injury. A study in Switzerland of 777 healthcare workers showed that 2.8% had elevated Troponin just 3 days after the booster.

So 7 million Americans with heart damage is a minimum.

I'm guessing it will be around 50 million Americans overall who have had their hearts damaged by these vaccines (based mostly on the 18% abnormal EKG post jab and that's just ONE measurement).

Think about it... 50 million Americans have been harmed by these vaccines and nobody is saying a word.

But don't worry because if you are injured, it's your fault for getting the vaccine. It's not like you were forced to get it or anything like that. It was your free choice. The government isn't liable for your injuries even though they didn't warn you about the side effects.

Is there any wonder why nobody wants to find out the true numbers?

Any thinking person should be wondering why nobody in the medical community or mainstream media is speaking out.

Summary

The Thailand study should be concerning for everyone. It showed close to a 30% rate of cardiac injury (which they called "cardiovascular manifestations") after the 2nd vax shot on kids who were perfectly normal before the shot.

This suggests that:

All of the previous estimates based on observational studies were wrong... in some cases by a factor of nearly 1,000X. That is a huge goof by the medical community. However, nobody seems to be upset by that... I guess science is OK when the peer-reviewed papers are off by close to three orders of magnitude. See this description of the Swiss study for the reference ("2.8 percent instead of the expected [post-COVID vaccine of] 0.0035 percent").

We have no idea what the numbers will look like for older or younger people. They could be far worse. We have no idea because we've never measured it.

Everyone in the medical community, mainstream media, and Congress should be calling for both of these studies, but all I hear is crickets.

I wonder why? Perhaps Klaus Schwab has answered that question at the Davos gathering of world leaders.

Yuval Noah Harari, Klaus Schwab's lead advisor at the World Economic Forum, has announced that human beings are no better than "viruses or bananas" and the WEF has now reached the point where they can "hack humanity."

According to Harari, the idea that humans have free will is over, and for those who oppose, there will be no escaping what Harari refers to as the "Secret Police."

The messaging coming out of the WEF is becoming increasingly sinister, with Klaus Schwab taking on the role of terrorist group leader, using communications channels to issue ultimatums to humanity. Do what I say, or else.

According to Schwab, the new internet will only be available to those who submit to the WEF's biometric digital ID.
