

The Blessed Hope!

“Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ;” –(Titus 2:13)

Diamond & Nugget #185

If you are like me you are wondering what new dystopian directive is going to hit the fan next, we have more announcements of what borders on the realm of lunacy.

"The target of eliminating meat, dairy, and private vehicles by 2030 is based on a future vision of resource-efficient production and extensive changes in consumer choices."

Think these ideas are farfetched? Let me introduce you to Dr. Matthew Liao, a so-called "bioethicist" with links to the World Economic Forum (WEF). Liao believes that mankind has passed the point of no return with climate change, but he has some suggestions about how to help going forward. As you read these, understand that Liao is stone cold serious about what he is saying. To him, these are not off the cuff thoughts. He believes that climate change should begin with the individual.

Dr. Matthew Liao, a so-called "bioethicist" with links to the World Economic Forum has some "suggestions"

1. Cat Eyes

Liao believes that the human eye needs to be re-engineered. To him cat eyes are a great idea. “Cats can see just as well as we can during the day, but they can see about seven times better than we can at night. This could totally affect our consumption of energy. I mean think of that. Who wouldn’t want to see better and see just as well during the day?”

2. A Daily Dose of Empathy

Liao believes that if we can be more empathetic towards each other, we’ll think twice about wasting energy. His solution? Create a pill that will induce empathy.

3. Short People

Randy Neuman once wrote a song called “Short People.” Some of the lyrics went like this: Short people got no reason, Short people got no reason, Short people got no reason ... to live.

Well, Liao disagrees totally with that. He thinks we are all too tall and that we need to be shorter. That way we would eat less, need less fabric for clothing and take up less room.

4. Less Children, But Enhanced

Liao says, “There’s evidence that people who are more educated tend to have fewer children” So We need to have less kids and genetically enhance them.

5. Meat allergies

Liberals hate cows; therefore they also hate red meat. Liao thinks most people are too weak to stop eating it by themselves, so he wants a pill created that will make a person ill if they eat it. Sort of an Ipecac for meat. I’m sure McDonalds and Burger King will be thrilled with this idea.

Climate change is a myth. The radicals have brainwashed an army of zombies that if left unchecked will march us all into oblivion. Climate change is just a label that has nothing to do with the environment, but as you can see, it has EVERYTHING to do with POWER and CONTROL!

I don’t know about you, but I don’t want to be a cat-eyed munchkin that cries at the sight of a burger and relishes grazing in my front yard at night. I enjoy my Pastrami grilled cheese sandwiches.

Ceiling fans are now the latest target in the Biden administration’s green agenda, sparking pushback from Republicans and manufacturers.

The Department of Energy is proposing a rule that would require ceiling fans to be more energy efficient, arguing the move would save U.S. households on energy costs.

According to the Energy Department's analysis, the new rules would save households about $39 over the lifespan of the new energy-efficient fan.

Well, isn't that going to help your food budget with 30% inflation? Overall food prices have soared by 25%-30% in only three years (again, this means that you are now paying 30% more this year for food than you were paying at the beginning of 2020). Chicken is up from $3 per pound to $4 per pound. Beef is up from $3.50 to $6 per pound. Corn is up from $3.50 per pound to $4.70 per pound. Wheat is up from $5 per pound to $7 per pound. In 2019 the average American household was spending $8,100 on food annually; with a 30% increase, in 2023 Americans will be spending at least $10,500 per household.

However, the cost to manufacturers associated with the increased equipment will total $86.6 million per year, the department said.

Republicans on the House Committee on Small Business say if the rule goes into effect it could put small manufacturers out of business, given the costs the companies would incur in order to comply with the changes.

"This rule would require numerous small business fan manufacturers to redesign their products and may put between 10 and 30 percent of small business ceiling fan manufacturers out of business," the GOP members of the committee wrote in a letter to Energy Secretary Jennifer Granholm on Thursday. "It appears that the Department of Energy (DOE) may not have properly considered small entities during this rulemaking process."

Ceiling fans are now the latest target in the Biden administration's green agenda, sparking pushback from Republicans and manufacturers.

The Energy Department has been on the warpath to impose more stringent regulations on household appliances for the past several months, proposing new standards for gas stoves, ovens, washing machines, refrigerators, air conditioners, dishwashers, and other essentials as part of its mission to advance energy efficiency and conservation.

On his first day in office in January 2021, President Biden signed an executive order requiring the Energy Department to make “major revisions” to current appliance regulation standards and standards set by the Trump administration.

President Biden signed an executive order requiring the Energy Department to make “major revisions” to current appliance regulation standards and standards in January 2021. A month later, the agency listed more than a dozen energy-efficiency rules impacting appliances like water heaters, cooking products, and lamps that it would review.

“Their philosophy is energy efficiency at all costs or energy efficiency no matter the cost,” a former senior Energy Department official, who served during the Trump administration, previously told Fox News Digital. “That means we are going to see, as a result of their efficiency standards, higher-priced appliances. It’s that simple.”

This comes as part of Prince Charles plan to achieve Net-Zero carbon footprint and mask his “Depopulation” agenda as Climate Eco-Salvation.

15 Big Banks about to fail

The Epic Economist has identified 15 big banks that are on a watch list for bank closures. Details and list of potential bank collapse in video below.

<https://youtu.be/ILYrzD4-5zM>

The real reason for concern is not that they are banks with big problems, but rather, as the bad banks eat losses from defaulting loans in real estate, mortgage foreclosure, and defaulting on car loans, the larger threat is to the FDIC. The FDIC has been able to insure savers’ accounts up to $250,000 per individual. This protection is at risk of its own liquidation down the road. As the report suggests there are more than 200 banks are on a watch list of financial institutions that are potential for bankruptcy and collapse!

The Federal Reserve has steadily raised interest rates and with each rate increase, the pool of potential home buyers shrinks. In the past week or two mortgage loans has risen to 7%.

Real estate marketplace Zillow has launched a new program to help people who want to buy homes but are being squeezed out of the market by a surge in interest rates.

Zillow Home Loans is offering mortgages with a 1% down payment option for eligible homebuyers looking to own property in Arizona, and will contribute an additional 2% at closing, the company said Thursday. It also plans to expand the program to other markets.

“For those who can afford higher rent payments but have been held back by the upfront costs associated with homeownership, down payment assistance can help to lower the barrier to entry and make the dream of owning a home a reality," Zillow Home Loans' senior macroeconomist Orphe Divounguy said in a statement.

The program will reduce the time it would ordinarily take to save for a down payment, according to Zillow.

"The rapid rise in rents and home values means many renters who are already paying high monthly housing costs may not have enough saved up for a large down payment, and these types of programs are welcome innovations in lowering the potential barriers to homeownership for those who qualify," Divounguy said.

On Wednesday, mortgage rates surged to their highest level since 2000. The average rate on a conventional 30-year fixed-rate mortgage jumped to 7.31% last week, up from 7.16% the previous week, according to The Mortgage Bankers Association (MBA).

As a result, many aspiring homeowners are being sidelined, driving mortgage applications down to a 28-year-low, according to the MBA.

Biden plans to ask Congress for funding to develop new COVID vaccine, may require shot for all --The announcement comes near a year after Biden declared the pandemic was 'over' | 26 Aug 2023 | Joe Biden said Friday he plans to request additional funding from Congress for the development of a new COVID-19 vaccine, adding he may require everyone to take it whether they previously received a vaccine or not. Biden, who is vacationing in the Lake Tahoe area, was asked by a reporter on Friday if he could say anything about the uptick of COVID cases and a new variant. "Yes, I can," the president said. "I signed off this morning on a proposal we have to present to Congress a request for additional funding for a new vaccine that is necessary, that works." [We will not comply.]

It's called

Biden Regime Seeks Additional Funding for New COVID-19 Vaccine 'That Works' - Warns Everyone Will Get It 'No Matter Whether They've Gotten It Before or Not' | 26 Aug 2023 | On Friday, Joe Biden announced that he plans to request more funding from Congress to develop a new COVID vaccine "that works." "I signed off this morning on a proposal we have to present to the Congress a request for additional funding for a new vaccine that is necessary, that works," Biden told the reporters while vacationing in Lake Tahoe. Biden warned that everyone will get it despite their previous vaccination status. "Tentatively it is recommended, it would likely be recommended, everybody get it. No matter whether they got before or not," he added.

COVID shuts down school district in Karnes County, Texas, for the rest of the week --A notice from the Runge ISD superintendent, himself diagnosed with the virus, also stated extracurricular activities are on hold. | 23 Aug 2023 | A small South Texas school district located southeast of San Antonio is shutting down until next Tuesday, citing a "recent surge of positive COVID-19 cases within our district." A letter from Runge ISD Superintendent Hector O. Dominguez Jr. notified families of the closures. Extracurricular activities and team practices are also on hold until 7:50 a.m. on August 29... The district's coronavirus tracker, last updated Monday, is reporting a 4.2% positivity rate this week, with 10 out of 43 staff members diagnosed with the virus.

Multiple Kentucky schools close due to illness at start of new year | 23 Aug 2023 | In the first weeks of the academic year, multiple Kentucky school districts are already feeling the impacts of COVID-19. Magoffin County Schools is less than two weeks into the new year, yet illness has already caught up to their student body. The district announced that all schools will be closed on Thursday and Friday due to illness. Magoffin County Health Department Director Pete Shepherd says [the absentees] started as a combination of illnesses, but now, COVID has risen above the rest. "The last month before school, we hardly gave out any home tests. We started giving them out again, and we can't get them fast enough to give them out," Shepherd said. Lee County KY school district was the first to close and go back to Zoom learning.

Maui fire investigation: Maui's top emergency officials were on a different island for a disaster training as flames flared and did not join response call until five hours after the deadly 'wildfires' begun | 24 Aug 2023 | Maui's top emergency officials were on another island when the [Directed Energy Weapons-induced] wildfires began, it emerged on Wednesday - and did not join a call about the response until five hours after the blazes broke out. Dozens of senior bureaucrats were gathering on Waikiki Beach in Honolulu, on the island of Oahu, on August 8 for the annual meeting of FEMA coordinators in the Pacific region... A state emergency management spokesperson told Hawaii News Now the 'coordinating call about 11am' was held to discuss multiple wildfires that had sparked on the Big Island and Maui. FEMA confirmed the fires were part of discussions during the conference, held at the Alohilani Beach Resort in Honolulu...Those attending the conference included Herman Andaya, the then-director of Maui County Emergency Management Agency, who defended the decision not to activate emergency warnings. Andaya resigned on August 17, nine days after the wildfires, citing his health. It had emerged he had no background in disaster response: Local news site Maui Now reported in 2017 that he was hired over 40 other qualified applicants.

Maui residents were blocked by barricades while trying to escape deadly wildfires | 23 Aug 2023 | The fires in Lahaina on the Hawaiian island of Maui tore through the community with virtually no warning. Sirens that are meant to alert residents of tsunamis were not sounded as officials believed that sounding the warnings would cause more harm than not. Yet residents say that if they had just another 10-15 minutes, lives would have been saved. "We needed like 10 more minutes, and we could have saved a lot of kids," said Nate Baird to the AP, who escaped from the fires with his wife and two children. "If we'd just had like a 10- or 15-minute warning." The children were the ones who alerted Baird about the fires, saying that the air smelled like s'mores... When Baird and his family tried to leave Lahaina to the south, they were confronted with barricades and a crew telling everyone to turn back due to downed electric polls. The crew was ushering people back into the fires. Baird and his family didn't do as they were told, instead driving around the barricades.

Telltale Evidence That Lahaina Was Destroyed by Directed Energy Weapons --A blue laser will burn all objects, but it will not burn blue items. Notice in the picture the blue T-shirts and their price tags attached with strings survived the alleged fire that destroyed the building. By Edward Hendrie | 26 Aug 2023 | ...Lahaina became a target of one of the Air Force Research Laboratory's (AFLR) directed energy "operational missions" on August 8, 2023. Proof can be found in the rubble. Directed energy has certain characteristics that are unlike a fire. They leave behind telltale evidence. For example, microwave directed energy weapons cause molecular destruction of materials that absorb microwaves; wood remains unfazed because wood absorbs very little microwave radiation. That is why we notice that in Lahaina there are trees with branches and foliage that remained unscathed by fire while surrounded by immolated buildings...The cover story that Lahaina was destroyed by wildfire is impeached by the fact that the trees remain standing among the rubble. The trees are silent testimony that accidental wildfires did not destroy Lahaina; directed energy weapons were employed to do the job. This was criminal genocide. [The paper price tags on the T-shirts having survived the fires are reminiscent of the 9/11 "hijackers" passports that were quickly located in the Manhattan rubble. --LRP]

Judge Rejects RFK Jr's Request for Order Blocking Google From Censoring Him | 24 Aug 2023 | A federal judge has rejected a request from presidential candidate Robert F. Kennedy Jr. for an order that would block Google from censoring him. Google and its subsidiary, YouTube, have removed multiple videos of Mr. Kennedy in recent months because they allegedly contained medical misinformation. The removals violate Mr. Kennedy's First Amendment rights because they were spurred by government policy, Mr. Kennedy's lawyers said in a motion for a temporary restraining order. Evidence from another case has shown that government officials regularly collaborated with Big Tech companies such as Google to censor users, and YouTube's policy is that information contradicting U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidance will be censored.

Google burying websites of Trump and other Biden challengers - report -- Searching 'presidential campaign websites' returned incumbent Joe Biden's webpage and several inactive Democrats | 26 Aug 2023 | Google is suppressing the 2024 campaign websites of all serious challengers to Democratic incumbent President [sic] Joe Biden, a report from the Media Research Center claimed on Thursday.

Searching the web for "presidential campaign websites" using Google returned results that did not include a single Republican candidate on the first page the day before the first Republican primary debate of the 2024 season, according to the MRC. Not even former U.S. President Donald Trump, who is polling neck-and-neck with Biden, appeared in the first few pages of results, the media watchdog observed. Nor did Democratic challenger Robert F. Kennedy Jr., the chief threat to Biden's candidacy from within his own party, appear in the results at all, even though a recent poll had him at nearly 20 percent in a matchup against Biden.

Donald Trump posts mugshot meme with guns pointed at his face saying 'Soros' and 'pedophiles' --The meme posted on Truth Social shows his mugshot surrounded by CGI guns --Each gun is emblazoned with a word representing Trump's apparent adversaries --They illustrate the narrative he's under fire from politically motivated forces | 25 Aug 2023 | Donald Trump has reposted a meme of his mugshot complete with 19 CGI guns surrounding his face just hours after his humiliating surrender at a Georgia county jail. The meme shared on Truth Social 4.8k times shows the former president's police picture modified with a flurry of pistols pointed at his head, each emblazoned with words representing his apparent enemies. Illustrating the 77-year-old's narrative that he is under fire from corrupt, politically motivated authorities who want to sabotage his 2024 White House bid, the guns are branded with words like "Soros," "pedophiles," "Democrats," and "fake news." Other firearms say "indictment," "globalists," "fascists," "deep state," and "FBI," while the words "NEVER SURRENDER! WE STAND UNITED WITH TRUMP!" frame the image. Trump re-posted it on his self-created social media platform not long after he made history by becoming the first former president to pose for a mugshot.

Trump Surrenders to Authorities in Atlanta, Released After Booking | 24 Aug 2023 | Former President Donald Trump surrendered himself to authorities at the Fulton County Jail in Atlanta, Georgia, on Aug. 24 at roughly 7:36 p.m. local time. He was released on a 200,000 bond in about 20 minutes after going through the booking process, including fingerprinting and having his picture taken for a mug shot--the first ever taken of a U.S. president. His private jet landed at the Atlanta International Airport at 7:03 p.m., after which a 13-vehicle motorcade brought him to the notoriously dangerous jailhouse through a highway cleared off all traffic by the police. President Trump had until noon on Aug. 25 to have himself booked to avoid arrest after Fulton County District Attorney Fani Willis charged him and 18 associates with dozens of crimes, including a racketeering conspiracy based on his efforts to challenge the official results of the 2020 election coup.

Biden Staffer Met With Member of Jack Smith's Team Before Trump Indictment | 26 Aug 2023 | White House visitor logs show that an aide for special counsel Jack Smith quietly met with the White House Counsel's office just weeks before President Donald Trump's indictment on classified documents charges. Visitor logs reviewed by The Epoch Times show that Jay Bratt, a prosecutor on Mr. Smith's team, met with Caroline Saba, deputy chief of staff for President [sic] Joe Biden's White House Counsel's office, on March 31. While the logs provide no details as to the subject of the meeting or what was discussed, questions have been raised about why a member of Mr. Smith's team would be meeting with the White House Counsel's office while in the midst of an investigation into President Trump, who is Joe Biden's chief rival in the 2024 presidential race.

Are you getting the picture of why there will be no election in 2024. Folks, it is all rigged to keep us enslaved and nothing is going to change that. Tax on electric cars looms as fuel excise dwindles --Treasurer Jim Chalmers has confirmed there's still a live option around a controversial EV question that could end up costing some Aussies. | 24 Aug 2023 | Treasurer Jim Chalmers has confirmed that the question of a road user charge on electric vehicles to replace fuel excise and pay for road upgrades remains a live option that will be considered by future governments. Experts have called for a debate on a road user charge for years warning that the rapid take up of electric vehicles will decimate fuel revenues. But because electric vehicles are heavier, some studies suggest they deliver twice as much stress on roads compared to petrol vehicles, potentially increasing the expense of upgrading roads in the future.

Yahoo continues the COVID fear porn with the EG.5 sub-variant clad with headlines like "COVID EG.5 Variant Symptoms Experts Say You Need to Watch For"; fear porn to drive you to take XBB.1.5 booster

Scare tactic, bogus! Officials are booster 'optimistic' which is code for 'we don't know the hell what we are doing and this XBB1.5 booster WILL fail and this remains a fraud clusterfu*k on the public.

DR. PAUL ALEXANDER

AUG 27, 2023

Key points and my view:

- The symptoms of Eris are similar to previous strains of the virus, but Eris can more easily elude antibodies that people have developed from previous infection or vaccines.

My view: the key is if this is more lethal and there is no evidence it is; of course it will evade antibodies (viral immune escape) given it is a variant driven by the continued fraud vaccination using mRNA technology based vaccines that do not match the dominant strain and as such driving selective pressure on the target antigen and subsequent selection of more infectious variants that become enriched in the environment and then become the new dominant; the key is whether we are talking about infectious lethal virulent virus; no doubt we must always strongly double down on protections of our high-risk vulnerable populations (taking reasonable sensible precautions to protect granny) but no one, no one who is healthy, had past COVID, no underlying medical conditions and not of advanced age should take any of these fraud deadly COVID mRNA shots, no one and no healthy child. No lockdown, no masking, no school closures, no business closures, NOTHING, all failed from March 2020 and will fail again! Do NOTHING! Stop the COVID Taliban pandemicist MADNESS! You continue to drive emergence of variants with the vaccine. Stop the vaccine!

- An updated booster shot, available in Fall 2023, may help protect people from Eris.

My view: Bull shit and they all know it, they know that that's a longshot for the new booster (like the failed bivalent BA4/BA5 booster) based on an XBB1.5 spike will be facing EG.5, BA2.86, FL etc. as potential dominant variants; this means original antigenic sin/immune fixation or imprinting or prejudicing (recall antibodies even from virus and not just vaccine) is to the prior and initial prime), viral immune escape, antibody-dependent enhancement of infection (ADEI) etc. This new XBB1.5 booster has failed before it has begun! Stop, do not bring the XBB1.5 booster, it will drive new variants and one could be more lethal to humanity. Stop!

- Antiviral medications are still proving to be effective in shortening the length and severity of COVID-19, including subvariants like Eris.

My view: Which one? Paxlovid etc.? These fraud failed drugs that are toxic? Remdesivir, the kidney and liver toxic failed EBOLA drug? No, the drugs that were effective in especially more severe advanced COVID when used properly as early treatment continue to be denied. I mean this:

Below is Dr. Paul Elias Alexander recommended therapy treatment for what might or might not be a Covid-19 virus. His Nutraceutical Bundle below has proved to be by far the most effective since the beginning of Covid, which by the way was the protocol used by the late Dr. Ziv Zelensky to treat more than 6,000 of his patients in New York City.

Harmful 'Modified' RNA, Not mRNA

BY TYLER DURDEN

SATURDAY, AUG 26, 2023 - 08:10 AM

Authored by Megan Redshaw, JD via The Epoch Times (emphasis ours)

Although we've been told Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine is manufactured with harmless messenger RNA (mRNA), the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) product label shows it contains artificially modified RNA—a key ingredient that is not naturally occurring and poses a substantial risk to human health.

According to Pfizer and BioNTech's COVID-19 vaccine label in the FDA's Fact Sheet for Healthcare Providers, each Pfizer vaccine dose for children ages 5 through 11 contains 10 micrograms (mcg) of modRNA, while fully-approved Comirnaty authorized for use in individuals 12 years of age and older contains 30 mcg of modRNA.

Pfizer, on its website, confirms its COVID-19 vaccine contains modRNA: “ModRNA stands for nucleoside-modified messenger RNA and in the synthesis of the RNA used in this vaccine platform, some nucleosides, which are important biological molecules that constitute DNA and RNA, are replaced by modified nucleosides to help enhance immune evasion and protein production.” The company says modRNA instructs the cells to produce desired proteins.

Yet the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) states on its website (pdf) that mRNA COVID-19 vaccines are “made of mRNA,” or “messenger RNA.”

According to the agency, the mRNA in COVID-19 vaccines such as Pfizer and Moderna is created in a laboratory and teaches cells how to make harmless pieces of spike protein that trigger an immune response inside the body. The mRNA from mRNA-based vaccines is broken down within days after vaccination and eliminated from the body. In its description of mRNA and how COVID-19 vaccines work, the CDC makes no reference to modRNA or indicates that the RNA used in COVID-19 vaccines has been modified.

Messenger RNA occurs naturally and lives in our cells, and it does not last long enough to initiate an immune response before being destroyed by the immune system—it is modRNA that is synthetically created, according to Klaus Steger, a molecular biologist who headed several gene technology laboratories, regularly applying RNA-based technologies.

Unlike mRNA, modRNA modifies one of four compounds in RNA that make it last longer in the body, less immunogenic (reduced stimulation of the innate immune system), and more efficient at producing a protein—in this case, the spike protein, Mr. Steger stated. Since modRNA cannot target specific cells to make viral protein, it can attack perfectly healthy cells and bypass protective barriers in the body, like the blood-brain barrier.

Injecting modRNA into the body may lead to adverse events like strokes, cardiovascular complications, pulmonary embolism, and the formation of blood clots—many of which were disclosed in Pfizer's documents (pdf) but were not attributed to its product.

“It is my opinion that, at a minimum, the intentional use of mRNA—an acronym well-known to stand for messenger RNA along with the endless statements about the vaccines being based on naturally occurring messenger RNA constitute misbranding in violation of a number of laws,” Ohio-based attorney Thomas Renz told The Epoch Times in an email.

“There is a legal and moral duty to provide informed consent, and to misrepresent a drug that was intended to be a gene therapy as a vaccine containing “natural messenger RNA” is an apparent violation of both of those duties.”

David Wiseman, a research bioscientist with a doctorate in experimental pathology and a background in pharmacy, pharmacology, and immunology told The Epoch Times in an email the FDA uses the term “modRNA” throughout its regulatory documents. Yet the FDA, when it gave emergency use authorization to the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine, said the vaccine contains messenger RNA, which it described as “genetic material” that contains a “small piece of the SARS-CoV-2 virus’s mRNA that instructs cells in the body to make the virus’s distinctive ‘spike’ protein.”

The FDA’s description is problematic because the SARS-CoV-2 virus doesn’t contain mRNA, Mr. Wiseman said. “mRNA is the kind of RNA produced in the copying of instructions from DNA in a process called transcription, so to say this is viral mRNA is inaccurate.”

“Understand that, at core, mRNA, modRNA, saRNA, etc.—these are all gene therapies and all about genetic manipulation,” Mr. Renz wrote in a recent Substack article. “To suggest that this is high risk is an understatement. We have no idea what we are doing and yet we continue forward trying to control these genes.”

Pfizer Is Using Modified RNA Gene Therapy to Develop Other Vaccines

Mr. Renz told The Epoch Times that Pfizer is not only using modRNA for COVID-19 injections but also leveraging gene therapy technology to produce self-amplifying mRNA (saRNA) vaccines and treatments.

“Along with modRNA, Pfizer’s website also mentions saRNA (self-amplifying RNA) and numerous other lab-made RNA technologies,” he said. “We have discovered that various RNA technologies are in development for various uses, and these technologies, along with new adjuvant technologies, can allow for the introduction of gene therapy products into foods, the air (aerosolized vaccines), and even topical products.”

According to Pfizer, saRNA is a platform that uses a much larger molecule that encodes the antigen of interest and four additional proteins, allowing the cell to make more copies of the mRNA, resulting in more protein being expressed from a smaller dose. Pfizer states that it is currently using this gene therapy technology to develop influenza, shingles, and respiratory combination vaccines.

“It will be curious to know if this is going to be disclosed as well,” Mr. Renz added.

Primary care provider Kaiser Permanente is now requiring staff, patients, and visitors at its Santa Rosa facilities to wear face masks.

Last week, Upstate Medical’s two hospitals in New York reimposed mandatory masking following reports of an uptick in COVID-19 infections.

Many people have begun pushing back against mandates and questioned the timing of the rise in COVID infections—with 2024 elections nearing.

“And just like that, the election variant emerges,” author George Papadopoulos said in an Aug. 23 post on X.

“I see the election time variant of COVID is about to drop. Mail in ballots to EVERYONE! Lol. America no longer has free and fair elections. We are no different than 3rd world countries in this regard,” conservative political commentator Candace Owens said in an Aug. 23 X post.

“I hear that the Covid-19 Election Variant may be coming back. I Will Not Comply,” Republican Kari Lake said in an Aug. 23 post on X.

The use of “election variant” comes in the context of the 2020 election—during the COVID pandemic—when many states expanded voting procedures, including mail-in ballots, to accommodate lockdown restrictions.

“In the 2020 election, 69 percent of voters nationwide cast their ballot non-traditionally—by mail and/or before Election Day,” according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

A Pew Research survey from November 2020 showed that Democrats benefited greatly from mail-in ballots. While 32% of Trump supporters voted through absentee or mail-in ballots, this was much higher in the case of Joe Biden, as 58% of his supporters used mail-in ballots.

Meanwhile, some Hollywood celebs have started promoting mask-wearing.

“COVID is on the rise. SO MANY friends now are really sick. BE MINDFUL. WEAR A MASK if required or even if you feel unwell and are out in public spaces,” Oscar winner Jamie Lee Curtis said in an Aug. 22 Instagram post showing an image of the actress with a mask.

Clinical psychologist Dr. Jordan B. Peterson responded to Curtis’ mask promotion by stating, “Enough medical fascism.”

“Stay at home if you're scared. But leave the rest of us the hell alone,” he said in an Aug. 23 post on X.

Rising Infection Numbers

According to data from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), there has been an uptick in COVID-19 hospitalization in recent weeks. As of the week ending Aug. 12, there were 12,613 admissions, which is double the 6,313 admissions for the week ending June 24.

However, the current increase in hospitalizations is far lower compared to the previous two years, suggesting that COVID-19 infections popping out this time may not be as severe as in the past. This is where they manipulate the data to make it seem much worse.

In 2022, the week ending Aug. 13 had registered 41,113 hospitalizations, which is more than three times what it was on Aug. 12, 2023. For the week ending Aug. 14, 2021, hospitalization numbers were at 77,625.

The COVID-NET laboratory-confirmed COVID-19 hospitalization overall rate per 100,000 people was at 1.7 for the week ending Aug. 12, far lower than 9.2 in the same period last year.

The current concerns regarding COVID-19 have been triggered due to a newly discovered variant called BA.2.86. The World Health Organization (WHO) said that the new strain is a “variant under monitoring.” Show us the evidence using the Koch Postulates. No lab has ever produced proof that Covid is more than a cold or a mild case of the flu.

In an August 23 update, the CDC said that at least two cases of BA.2.86 infections have been identified in the United States. Existing medications for COVID-19 “appear to be effective with this variant,” it said. CDC believes that an updated vaccine “will be effective at reducing severe disease and hospitalization.”

“At this point, there is no evidence that this variant is causing more severe illness,” the agency stated.

Government COVID-19 Testing Orders

Multiple departments under the federal government have placed orders for COVID-19 equipment, according to media executive Steve Bannon’s podcast website.

The Department of Defense (DoD) has given a $1.5 million order to Hologic Sales and Service for COVID-19 testing services, the website said, citing data from USA Spending. The contract is set to begin in October and end in May 2024.

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has placed a $2 million contract with Abbott Molecular Inc. for COVID-19 testing, with the contract set to begin on Sept. 22. It has also signed a $1.3 million contract with Biofire Diagnostic for testing.

Back in April, the Biden administration announced that it was spending $5 billion to develop more COVID-19 vaccines and treatments. However, the announcement did not mention masking or social distancing.

Masking has been a highly politicized issue ever since the pandemic began years ago, with some questioning whether the government had the authority to institute mask mandates.

In 2022, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the White House does not have the authority to enforce vaccine or masking mandates on companies with 100 or more employees.

Last year, the court ruled that the U.S. Transportation Security Administration (TSA) has the power to impose mask mandates on planes, trains, and other transportation options. In an August 22 post on X, physician David McCune criticized incidents of mandatory masking at institutions. “If they will go back to the utterly failed practice of forced masking at the mere hint of new cases, it means, among other things, they have utter disregard for the human right to contact with other humans.”

“Faces [matter]. And the freedom to show yours shall not be abridged,” Mr. McCune said. He was responding to Morris Brown College’s masking requirement for students and employees.

Though mask-wearing is pushed as a way to combat the COVID-19 pandemic, many experts have countered such suggestions.

In an interview with The Epoch Times, Yoav Yehezkelli, a specialist in internal medicine and medical management, pointed out that “all the studies done in the world until 2020 showed that there is no justification” for wearing masks to prevent the spread and infection of a respiratory virus.

In 2020, after the pandemic, recommendations for wearing masks suddenly changed “without having any new professional support to confirm that it does indeed have effectiveness against respiratory infection.”

A review of mask use studies published in January this year found that the use of face masks is not effective in reducing the spread of respiratory viruses.

What’s that old statement, “Fool me once shame on me, Fool me twice shame on you!”

The synthetic “meat” market has already arrived in America. American cattlemen are readying for a fight to protect the definition of the word meat from producers of synthetic cellular-based beef alternatives.

“It’s a red line. It isn’t right that these factory-made products should be able to market and sell their products off the backs of the cattleman,” Justin Tupper, President of the United States Cattlemen’s Association, told The Epoch Times.

“We are talking about chemical-laced cell-cultured products that can in some ways simulate meat, but they aren’t meat, and the American consumer needs to understand that,” added Mr. Tupper.

Last year, the USDA gave two producers the green light to start producing and selling their lab-grown chicken-like products in the United States.

While a decision over the labeling of the product has yet to be announced, the cattle industry plans on being aggressively proactive in both discussions with the USDA and, if needed, litigation after having learned a valuable lesson from the dairy farmers.

“The milk industry really dropped the ball,” said Mr. Tupper. “They never believed that anyone would think that almond milk was actual milk, so they brushed it off at the time. Now there are hundreds of items with milk in the name but with no milk in the product, and it has really hurt the entire dairy industry.”

“In the same way that you can’t milk an almond, you can’t get meat from a lab, only an animal, and we are not going to allow them to use our name to promote their product.”

Synthetic meat-like products are created by taking cells acquired from animals and placing them in a warm, sterile area, usually, a metal vat, where they are then combined with a solution of chemicals that causes the cells to double once a day.

The demand for synthetic meat has been spurred largely by corporate entities and government agencies working in tandem with the environmental movement.

Bill Gates, an investor in Upside Foods, one of the two synthetic meat producers approved by the USDA, believes meat alternatives are needed to save the world from upcoming catastrophic climate events caused by greenhouse gasses.

In a 2021 interview with Technology Review, Mr. Gates said that all well-off nations need to switch to be completely weaned off of living, breathing cows.

“All rich countries should move to 100% synthetic beef. You can get used to the taste difference, and the claim is they’re going to make it taste even better over time,” Mr. Gates told the interviewer. “Eventually that green premium is modest enough that you can sort of change the people or use regulation to totally shift demand. So for meat in the middle-income-and-above countries, I do think it’s possible.”

A switch from animal meat to a laboratory-grown substitute would eliminate the need for animals to be bred and slaughtered—in the U.S. alone, around 9 billion chickens and 32 million cattle are killed every year.

However, beef cattle production constitutes only a small fraction of the gasses that many environmentalists claim have had a negative impact on the planet.

Just 2 percent of total greenhouse gas emissions in the United States come from beef cattle production, while energy production and transportation produce a combined 54 percent of emissions, according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

American ranchers aren't the only ones raising the alarm. After two million Italians signed a petition calling for a ban against synthetic meat products, the Italian Senate passed a bill earlier this week, becoming the first country to make it illegal to produce or market the food, highlighting health concerns as the primary reason.

Ettore Prandini, President of Coldiretti, the largest association representing Italian agriculture, touted the vote as a legislative victory for the Italian people over corporate powers, telling the media that “the products in the laboratory in the authorization processes are not equated to food but rather to products of a pharmaceutical nature.”

An April 2023 report by the United Nations on the safety of “cell-based food products” cited 53 potential health hazards, including “the potential for expression of novel toxins, toxic metabolites, or allergens or a change in expression of toxins, toxic metabolites, or allergens as a result of genomic instability.”

Mr. Tupper isn't calling for a ban on synthetic foods, only transparency, and believes that despite the large push for meat alternatives coming from corporate leaders and government agencies, the American cow is here to stay.

“The simple truth is that the taste of real beef cannot be replicated and, more importantly, when people discover the chemical storm that is actually in this product they are trying to pass off as meat, consumers are going to come to the conclusion that beef should come from a cow, not from a laboratory.”

“Our hopes are that the USDA will label this product for what it is, a cellular-based derivative of chemicals,” added Mr. Tupper.

Mask study published by NIH suggests N95 Covid masks may expose wearers to dangerous level of toxic compounds linked to seizures and cancer

- A study published in April found disposable masks can have toxic chemicals
- Experts said this could make newly instated mask mandates ineffective
- READ MORE: Mask mania sweeps America...AGAIN

By EMILY JOSHU HEALTH REPORTER FOR DAILYMAIL.COM

The surgical N95 mask has been held up as the gold standard when it comes to protecting against Covid.

But a study quietly re-shared by the National Institutes of Health in spring suggests the tight-fitting mask may expose users to dangerous levels of toxic chemicals.

Researchers from Jeonbuk National University in South Korea looked at two types of disposable medical-grade masks, as well as several reusable cotton masks.

The study found that the chemicals released by these masks had eight times the recommended safety limit of toxic volatile organic compounds (TVOCs).

Inhaling TVOCs has been linked to health issues like headaches and nausea, while prolonged and repeated has been linked to organ damage and even cancer.

A study published in April found that several disposable masks contain more than eight times the U.S. recommended limit of toxic volatile organic compounds (TVOCs)

'It is clear that particular attention must be paid to the VOCs associated with the use of KF94 [medical] masks their effects on human health,' the researchers wrote in the study published April.

However, there are ways to reduce the danger, they said. 'Exposure can be significantly reduced if a mask is opened and left to sit for at least 30 min,' the researchers wrote. This suggests that the packaging of these masks could play a role in the amount of chemicals they have.

The study was published in the journal Ecotoxicology and Environmental Safety and on the NIH's website.

The NIH said: 'Inclusion in an NLM database does not imply endorsement of, or agreement with, the contents by NLM or the National Institutes of Health.'

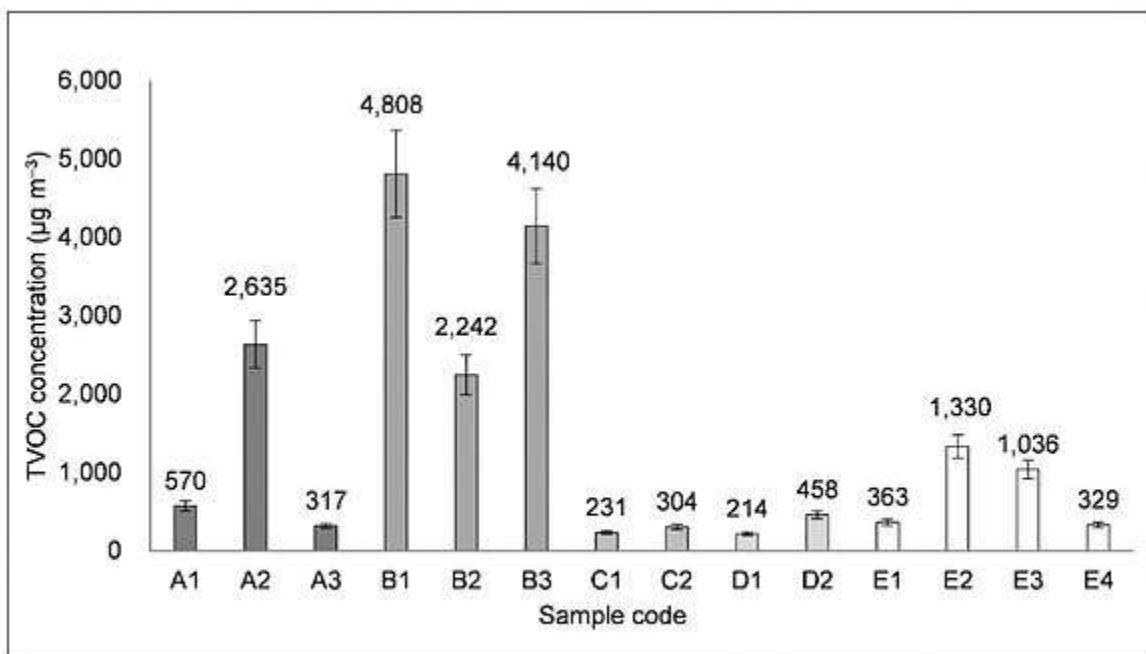

Fig. 1. TVOC concentrations ($\mu\text{g m}^{-3}$) emitted from each mask sample.

Samples A1 through B3 represent disposable masks, whereas samples C1 through E4 are cloth masks. Disposable masks had up to 14 times more TVOCs than cloth masks

The researchers found that the levels of TVOCs were 14 times lower in cloth masks and didn't pose a risk to human health.

However, the study did not measure the effect of people actually wearing the masks.

Dr. Stuart Fischer, an internal medicine physician in New York, told DailyMail.com that strong conclusions couldn't be drawn from the study.

However, he did say that increasingly evidence has shown the drawbacks of mask-wearing. He added that 'there seems to be diminishing returns on the need for masks.'

In the latest study, researchers tested 14 disposable and cloth masks purchased online by measuring the amount of TVOCs in them. The disposable masks were KFAD and KF94 models, which were made from thermoplastics polypropylene and polyurethane nylon.

These masks have been popularized in South Korea, where the study was conducted, whereas KN95s are more popular in the U.S.

However, their differences are miniscule. KFADs and KF94s filter 94 percent of particles, while KN95s filter 95 percent.

The cloth masks were made from cotton, ramie - a vegetable fiber - and polyurethane.

'These TVOC concentration levels corresponded to a level that is harmless to the human body (no relevant health-related concerns),' the researchers wrote.

However, the disposable masks contained up to 14 times the TVOCs than cotton masks.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recommends keeping TVOC levels below 0.5 parts per million in indoor air.

The sample with the highest amount of TVOCs had 4,808 cubic meters per microgram, which is about 4.8 parts per million.

Mask mania sweeps America... AGAIN

Covid masks are creeping back into American life again with hospitals, Hollywood and colleges mandating their use — and there are rumors they could return on planes.

That's more than eight times the recommended limit.

TVOCs are a large group of odorous chemicals, many of which are released by cleaning and beauty products, burning fuel and cooking.

Sources of TVOCs in the home include aerosol sprays, cleansers and disinfectants, moth repellents, air fresheners and automotive products.

Other sources include building materials and furnishings, office equipment such as copiers and printers, permanent markers, correction fluids, carbonless copy paper and craft materials including glues and adhesives.

TVOCs have been shown to irritate the eyes, nose, and throat, cause difficulty breathing and nausea, and damage the central nervous system and organs like the liver, according to the American Lung Association (ALA).

Some are even considered human carcinogens, meaning they can cause cancer.

The researchers specifically flagged the chemicals dimethylacetamide (DMAc) and dimethylformamide (DMF) for being linked to liver and reproductive damage.

The team acknowledged that the sample size was small and that they did not test several other popular disposable masks like KN95s.

The study builds off previous research suggesting that mask wearing could cause more harm than good.

Research carried out by the Cochrane Institute, for example, suggested that face masks made 'little to no difference' in Covid infections and deaths.

The researchers said harms caused by masks - including hampering children's schooling - were poorly measured in the studies, meaning any small benefit on infection rates may be outweighed.

And a controversial study suggested that wearing face masks raises the risk of stillbirths, testicular dysfunction, and cognitive decline in children.

However, experts have criticized the study for drawing conclusions without proper evidence.

"It is indeed possible that certain masks have side effects, just as certain helpful medications (anti-histamines, psychotropic drugs, antibiotics) have side effects," Dr. Fischer said.

"Almost everything in healthcare has a benefit/side effect profile."

Though the findings were published in April, the study could have new relevance as the so-called Covid variant BA.2.86 spreads across the US.

Several universities, hospitals, and even the Hollywood studio Lionsgate have reinstated mask mandates amid the surge.

But the newly found dangers of masks typically considered the most protective could make mask mandates ineffective.

"I think following the general recommendations might be helpful, but it's not clear yet if we need the sweeping edicts of three years ago," Dr. Fischer said.

"Extreme fears about the lethality of Covid may have led to decisions that were counterproductive."

"Covid won't be going away for a long time, if ever. We desperately need policies that do not fracture our society while providing minimal protection."

Many prophecy scholars and teachers still are silent about the identity of the Antichrist. I suspect the reasons for their silence has more to do with their fund raising support more than any other reason. They would rather have their audience guessing who the Antichrist is than to confirm the evidence that we have to date. This is unfortunate since so many rely on the already known sites such as Lamb & Lion Ministry, Perry Stone Ministries, Hal Lindsey, Bill Salus, and others with Internet ministries.

Clearly, the works of Timothy (Huckabee) Cohen, Monte Judah, Laurence Gardner, and Craig Bong's coverage of Prince Charles offers conclusive evidence of old "sausage fingers" is the Antichrist of Revelation. Prince Charles has been shown to be running the new global eco-salvation of the planet and any discussion by those prophecy teachers is nebulous and non-descriptive when it comes to associating a name for Mr. "666". His environmental agenda has close to a forty year track record.

At the present time, if I am wrong about September 19th, 2023, which is certainly possible; however, I made my point why I am confident of that date. For some unknown reasons, and not all that certain why, at least Craig Bong says Prince Charles will "confirm the covenant with the many" at the COP28 in Dubai, UAE between November 30th and December 12th. This is only a difference of under three months.

Keep in mind that things could go sideways quickly with 200 banks already on "bankruptcy" watch list; the Bank of the West in Colorado announcing to their customers the implementation of the CBDC "digital dollar" and eliminating cash right after Labor Day 'broke the ice' threshold which then becomes appealing for other banks to go all in for the CBDC "digital dollar". We know of 110 financial institutions that were signed up to begin the transition to the CBDC any time after this mid-July. The Fed keeps raising interest rates to protect the Dollar but it will destroy the economy, and that is likely their intent. When a bank goes all "digital dollar", they can lay off most of their customer service and teller staff. A global financial collapse is inevitable but the owners of the Federal Reserve System way back contrived to protect their own assets before they did their network of global, regional, state, and local banking network.

What I have shared over the past several segments concerning Prince Charles, COP28, the WEF, Klaus Schwab, the SDGs, the CBDC (cashless society), the "Mark" of the Beast; and the Net-Zero agenda are proof-positive evidence to the effects that confirms the coming Great Tribulation has already been "baked in the cake". In simple terms we will soon be Raptured out of this world when the Prince of the air is in control. Do the math of what COP28 is all about in relationship to Daniel 9:27.

Think "wireless energy!" "Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience: Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others."
—(Ephesians 2:2-3)

However, if you take time to read the balance of the portion of this passage -(Ephesians 2:4-10), you are told why God will deliver us, including anyone that seeks His forgiveness. Remember this is History told in advance! It is exactly as I say, “baked into the cake!”

- Feast of Trumpets, aka Rosh HaShanah [September 15th -17th, 2023]
- UN General Assembly Opening Session [September 18th-26th, 2023]
- COP28 Meeting in Dubai, UAE [November 30th-December 12th, 2023]
- Venus will be at its brightest in the morning sky on September 19th, 2023]

The above dates are fixed by destiny. By that I am saying the prophecies embracing these calendar events are for all intent and purpose is “History being told in advance!” Short of World War 3, I can see no foreseeable indicators that things will change. With Prince Charles’ coronation this past May 6, 2023, we witnessed a jump-start of the Satanic “Seven” year plan to save the planet ‘bovine excrement’. It is intertwined with Daniel’s 70th week of Daniel 9. There is no need to speculate whether this will change, it can’t. It is Biblical destiny and Prince Charles knows he has but a short time to kill, steal, and destroy and wreak as much havoc as he and his minions can create.

The “seventy weeks” prophecy is one of the most significant and detailed Messianic prophecies of the Old Testament. It is found in Daniel 9. The chapter begins with Daniel praying for Israel, acknowledging the nation’s sins against God and asking for God’s mercy. As Daniel prayed, the angel Gabriel appeared to him and gave him a vision of Israel’s future. In Blessed Hope #184 we show the late Dr. Chuck Missler’s exegesis of the Daniel 70th Week prophecy.

We are told the person that signs or confirms the person who confirms this treaty is the Antichrist. “And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate.” -(Daniel 9:27)

Most people either don’t know or have long since forgotten that it was Prince Charles who negotiated the back-channel to the Oslo Peace Accords between Yassar Arafat and Israel 30 years ago. The Oslo Peace Accords await a signature of that failed brokered deal. Arafat was a homosexual and died of AIDS, and we know that Prince Charles is, himself, a homosexual. (Fedayee was Arafat’s code name.) Never mind that throughout his later days Arafat had an immune system-suppressing blood disease, lost 1/3 of his weight, and was suffering from mental dysfunction, all tell-tale signs of AIDS. In the popular Palestinian narrative, the menacing Jews poisoned Arafat, just like they poison Palestinian drinking wells or use Muslim blood to bake their bread. The Palestinians’ denial that Arafat might have been gay is indicative of a broader self-delusion on their part to deny uncomfortable realities, the most prominent of which is the fact that a sovereign Israel is not going away. If Arafat ever lifted a finger to stop the Palestinian Authority’s persecution of gays, then the rumors about his sexuality would not matter. But the fact that he was widely alleged to have had gay affairs while simultaneously looking askance at violently homophobic policies made his sexuality relevant.

From the information way back in the 1990's it was Arafat that used a homosexual back channel in Oslo to have Prince Charles negotiate an agreement between Israel and the PLO. The sensitivity of the agreement was such that Arafat backed away from signing the deal on the White House lawn, knowing to sign it would cost him his life by rival PLO members.

Arafat was and remains a hero to the Palestinians. This is regretful and indicative of the glaring problems in Palestinian society. A man whose life was defined by the murder of innocents and political rejection, both at the expense of his own people, is hardly the sort of figure who ought to be the subject of nationalist hagiography. But such is the reality of Palestinian politics. At the very least, the Palestinians ought to have the honesty to accept that the father of their nationalist movement might have been gay.

An estimated 2,000 gay Palestinians are living in Tel Aviv having fled their homes in the West Bank for fear of persecution. In the Hamas run Gaza Strip homosexuality is illegal.

Left wing groups in the USA and UK attack Israel for its tolerance of LGBTQ which they refer to as "Pinkwashing". They are silent about Palestinian homophobia.

The homosexual shame of Arafat's closed life is that he could have achieved something positive in his lifetime. As it is he leaves behind nothing but broken families mourning the victims of terror attacks perpetrated by his acolytes.

John Loftus told John Batchelor on ABC radio on October 26, 2004 that Arafat was dying from AIDS. Loftus said the CIA has known this about Arafat for quite a while and that as a result the U.S. has encouraged Ariel Sharon not to take Arafat out because the U.S. has known Arafat was about done. It was deemed better to have Arafat discredited as a homosexual. Although homosexuality is rife in the Arab world, it is at least officially considered a sin and a crime, and regarded—especially in fundamentalist circles—as a mark of great shame and depravity.

David Frum, a former White House speech writer pointed to KGB evidence linking Arafat to homosexual activities, citing a 1987 book by Lt.-Gen. Ion Pacepa, the deputy chief of Romania's intelligence service under Communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu. Needless to say this background to Prince Charles brokering the Oslo Accords remains on the shelf to this day and remains an open issue for the Antichrist to finally bring to closure in the very near future. It could happen as soon as the dates I noted on page 25. The focus on Daniel 9:27 from my research may have morphed into the much larger issue that became the Paris Climate Agreement in 2015. The Paris Agreement is a legally binding international treaty on climate change. It was adopted by 196 Parties at the UN Climate Change Conference (COP21) in Paris, France, on 12 December 2015. It entered into force on 4 November 2016.

The context of Daniel 9:27 interestingly so, has become the speculation of many in the Bible prophecy community as to just who are the “many” of the passage. Before the UN Paris Agreement, the general view was that the elusive term “many” was a reference to the Israeli Knesset. However, the evolving and unfolding of events related to Prince Charles environmental agenda has suggested that the “many” may in fact be the world leaders that have initially been part of the world body we recognize as the United Nations.

The Hebrew word for “many” is “rab” and is an adjective, an adverb, or a masculine noun. The KJV translates Strong's H7227 in the following manner: many (190x), great (118x), much (36x), captain (24x), more (12x), long (10x), enough (9x), multitude (7x), mighty (5x), greater (4x), greatly (3x), miscellaneous (40x).

Even when you look at the use of the phrase “with many” the (16x) when it is used does not offer a clear explanation to the issue. The ambiguity that confronts prophecy watchers may well be an umbrella expression term for both the Oslo Accords as much as the Paris Climate Accords.

On August 4, 2017, the Trump administration delivered an official notice to the United Nations that the United States, the second largest emitter of greenhouse gases after China, intended to withdraw from the Paris Agreement as soon as it was eligible to do so. The notice of withdrawal could not be submitted until the agreement was in force for three years for the U.S., on November 4, 2019. The U.S. government deposited the notification with the Secretary General of the United Nations and officially withdrew one year later on November 4, 2020. President Joe Biden signed an executive order on his first day in office, January 20, 2021, to re-admit the United States into the Paris Agreement. Following the 30-day period set by Article 21.3, the U.S. was readmitted to the agreement. United States Climate Envoy John Kerry took part in virtual events, saying that the U.S. would “earn its way back” into legitimacy in the Paris process. United Nations Secretary-General António Guterres welcomed the return of the United States as restoring the “missing link that weakened the whole”.

Since COP28 occurs between November 30th and December 12th, 2023. Based upon the Daniel 9:27 passage, “confirming the covenant with the many”, the Rapture will occur on or about the dates noted on page 25 above. The COP28 dates below are in respect to Craig Bong’s remarks concerning Prince Charles deadline for his incessant statements to the effect about there is only “seven” years to save the planet.

Days to September 19th as of 8/31/23 – 19 Days Days to COP28 November 30th as of 8/31/23 – 91 Days Days to COP28 December 12th as of 8/31/23 – 103 days
