Corona PSYOP: Another Coronavirus Outbreak ‘Highly Likely’ – Wuhan Institute of Virology

All is going according to the plan. The next stage of the Plandemic PSYOP is about to commence.

breitbart.com reports:

A study published by scientists at the Wuhan Institute of Virology (WIV) in July, and reportedly circulating widely on Chinese social media this week, concluded that as many as 20 species of coronavirus are “highly likely” to cause an outbreak among humans.

The study appeared in Emerging Microbes & Infections in July, the South China Morning Post noted on Sunday, but it began making headlines in Chinese-language media as social media users discovered it and began spreading its conclusions online.

The Wuhan scientists documented their study of 40 coronavirus species and identified 20 as “high risk ... including 6 of which jumped to human, 3 with evidence of spillover but not to human and 11 without evidence of spillover yet.”

“It is almost certain that there will be future disease emergence and it is highly likely a CoV [coronavirus] disease again,” the study declared. “Thus, the early preparation for the animal CoVs with risk of spillover is important for future disease preparedness, regarding the likely animal origin of SARS, MERS and COVID-19.”

SARS (Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome) is a coronavirus-caused disease that caused a deadly outbreak originating in China in 2002. MERS (Middle East Respiratory Syndrome) is a coronavirus disease first identified in Saudi Arabia in 2012. “COVID-19” is the scientific name for the disease caused by the Wuhan coronavirus. A study published by scientists at the Wuhan Institute of Virology (WIV) in July, and reportedly circulating widely on Chinese social media this week, concluded that as many as 20 species of coronavirus are “highly likely” to cause an outbreak among humans.

Chinese virologist Shi Zhengli is seen inside the P4 laboratory in Wuhan, capital of China’s Hubei province on February 23, 2017.

Among the study’s authors appeared Shi Zhengli, a coronavirus expert known in Chinese media as “batwoman” for her academic focus on studying bat coronaviruses.

Shi, the director of infectious disease research at the WIV, became a figure of international focus following the emergence of the novel coronavirus in Wuhan, where her research facility is located, in late 2019. Shi initially disappeared from the public eye in early 2020 but then reemerged to defend the Chinese government and the WIV from “filth” suggesting that a laboratory accident resulted in the release of the novel coronavirus and subsequent, ongoing pandemic. Shi was nominated in September for a position in the prestigious Chinese Academy of Scientists (CAS), the world’s largest research organization.

The sudden surge of interest in the article, the Hong Kong newspaper posited, was the result in part of the Communist Party of China’s abrupt disinterest in the pandemic, which began after it suddenly ended most civil rights abuses against civilians in the name of containing the virus, including starving city populations with massive lockdowns and imprisoning suspected coronavirus patients in dirty quarantine camps. The policy behind these abuses, “zero-Covid,” prompted nationwide protests on a regular basis, which erupted in a nationwide display of resistance against the regime in late November 2022, shortly before the policy was “optimized.”

The Chinese government is “downplaying” ongoing Wuhan coronavirus infections, an anonymous Chinese Centres for Disease Control and Prevention scientist told the South China Morning Post, fueling interest in studies predicting another significant outbreak of coronavirus infections.

“Sometimes in private conversations, when talking with other public health scholars, we have noticed that intentionally or unintentionally, Chinese authorities are downplaying Covid-19, and some cities have stopped releasing infection data,” the scientist said. He described the study published in July as important because it works as a “textbook” of dozens of coronavirus species that can now be easily referenced in further research.

The renewed chatter about the WIV on China’s heavily regulated social media sites is occurring as the Communist Party launches a new initiative to pressure the public into ingesting Chinese-made coronavirus and influenza vaccine products. The Chinese government expects a surge in domestic travel in early October as the country observes the anniversary of the establishment of the communist People’s Republic of China with a holiday week.

The WIV is one of the world’s most controversial scientific organizations given its proximity to the origin location of the Wuhan coronavirus. It has faced years of speculation of involvement in the initial spread, or perhaps creation, of the novel coronavirus that caused the pandemic and nearly seven million deaths, according to the World Health Organization (W.H.O.). In 2021, the U.S. State Department published a fact sheet revealing that American intelligence “has reason to believe” that several scientists in the institution fell ill in fall 2019 “with symptoms consistent with both COVID-19 and common seasonal illnesses.”

“This raises questions about the credibility of WIV senior researcher Shi Zhengli’s public claim that there was ‘zero infection’ among the WIV’s staff and students of SARS-CoV-2 or SARS-related viruses,” the State Department contended.

In May of this year, the office of Sen. Marco Rubio (R-FL) published a nearly 300-page report concluding that “serious biocontainment failure or accident” at the WIV was possibly the origin of the pandemic, citing extensive evidence compiled by the office.

The House Oversight Select Subcommittee on the Coronavirus Pandemic concluded in its own research published in July that there was “a coordinated effort between public health officials in the United States government and expert scientists to craft a narrative that would advance the zoonotic origin of COVID-19 in order to protect the Chinese government from any potential criticism and repercussions.”

The Chinese government blamed a local “wet market” selling unsanitary and illegal meat for the initial outbreak of the virus.

“The origin of the new coronavirus is the wildlife sold illegally in a Wuhan seafood market,” Gao Fu (or George Gao), the then-director of the Chinese CDC, said in January 2020.

The Chinese government ultimately discarded this theory and accused the United States of being the origin of the coronavirus pandemic, despite no evidence existing of any human Wuhan coronavirus infections in the Western Hemisphere — or outside of China — prior to the first cases of infection documented in the origin city of Wuhan. The Chinese Foreign Ministry claimed that the virus originated in a U.S. Army facility in Maryland and the American government covered it up by misdiagnosing patients as having e-cigarette or vaping injuries. Beijing has never explained how such a cover-up is possible given that injuries, unlike the Wuhan coronavirus, are not infectious and no evidence exists of health workers or others becoming infected by vaping injuries during the treatment of patients.

Following his unceremonious “retirement” in 2022 after questioning the quality of Chinese-made coronavirus vaccines, George Gao suggested that a laboratory leak could have possibly caused the pandemic.

“You can always suspect anything. That’s science. Don’t rule out anything,” Gao told the BBC’s Fever: The Hunt for Covid’s Origins podcast in response to the Wuhan lab leak theory in May. “We really don’t know where the virus came from ... the question is still open.”

After viewing this clip (link below) from an old X-files series one has to doubt seriously any of this bovine excrement about China being the source of the new more lethal virus. The BreitBart.com story may well be another propaganda piece push on the alternative media to stir up a little more fear porn. It might just be a cover story for the October 4th EBS test scheduled for 2:20 pm.

Watch this and have your mind blown. They knew it did this 20 years ago. Whoever wrote the script for this episode of X-Files has to be a time traveler or a senior deep state operative who revealed their entire plan just for giggles.

What a better way for the Illuminati Freemasons/Jesuits to pull off such a crime while all the time they were blaming the Chinese for their crimes. It was a Jesuit Dr. Anthony Fauci who continued to contract the CCP to do his illegal Gain-of-Function work at taxpayer expense. Ever since Masonic Grand Master Albert Pike conjured up his planned vision for three world wars to take-over the world, humanity has been played for victims of their large-scale crimes. They are experts in their “craft”, a term to which they refer to themselves as.

THE most joyous festival on God's calendar, the Feast of Tabernacles, begins September 29–30 this year.

Tabernacles marks the end of the summer harvest, when crops are gathered in from the fields (Ex. 23:16).

During the festival, which lasts seven days, the Israelites were to take palm branches and rejoice before the Lord. They were also to build makeshift booths, or “tabernacles,” and live in them as a reminder of the temporary shelters they inhabited before entering the Promised Land (Lev. 23:34, 40–43).

While Tabernacles points ultimately to the Millennial Kingdom, when God will dwell, or “tabernacle,” with man, it is also considered an apt time for the Rapture.

Here are 15 reasons why:

1. Tabernacles is when the wheat is gathered in from the threshing floors (Deut. 16:13). Since wheat symbolizes believers, its gathering is a picture of the Rapture: “Now, brethren, concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering together to Him” (2 Thess. 2:1).
2. Tabernacles is when all the people rejoice before the Lord (Ex. 34:22, 23; Lev. 23:40). The greatest rejoicing before the Lord will occur at the Rapture (1 Thess. 2:1, 19; Rev 7:9–12).
3. Tabernacles is God's chosen time of release or debt forgiveness (Deut. 31:10 AMP). The ultimate release occurs at the Rapture.
4. Tabernacles is celebrated with palm branches (Lev. 23:40). In Revelation chapter 7, the just-raptured saints are seen holding palm branches. Moreover, it is said that God will spread His “tabernacle” over them (vv. 7:9–12, 15).
5. Tabernacles is when the Law, or ‘wedding covenant’ with God, is read aloud before the people (Deut. 31:10, 11). Tabernacles is thus a time of making or renewing wedding vows.
6. Tabernacles is celebrated for seven days, corresponding to the seven-year wedding celebration in heaven after the Rapture.
7. Tabernacles is when the harvest is complete. The Gentile Ruth married the Jewish redeemer Boaz, a picture of the Rapture, when the harvest was complete (Ruth 2:21, 23 DRB).
8. Tabernacles begins at the full moon, signifying the fullness of the Gentiles (Rom. 11:25). The full moon is also when the proverbial “husband,” or “goodman,” Jesus, returns (Prov. 7:19, 20).

9. Tabernacles is the harvest at summer's end. Summer's end, after the harvest, is when the Jews lament not being saved: "The harvest is past, the summer has ended, and we are not saved" (Jer. 8:20).

10. After departing Egypt, the first place the Israelites camped was called Sukkoth, the Hebrew word for Tabernacles (Ex. 12:37). The departure from Egypt is a picture of the Rapture.

11. In John chapter 7, Jesus attends the Feast of Tabernacles in partial secrecy because His time had not yet fully come, and even His Jewish brothers did not believe in Him (vv. 5, 6). Similarly, the Rapture is a limited appearance at a time of Jewish unbelief.

12. Tabernacles will be celebrated by all the nations throughout the Millennium, so the festival has special meaning for Gentiles (Zech. 14).

13. The First Temple was dedicated to God at the Feast of Tabernacles (1 Kings 8:65). The ultimate 'Temple,' the Church, or Body of Christ, will be dedicated to the Lord at the Rapture (Eph. 2:20–22).

14. Since Tabernacles is the last festival of the year, it is when the "last trumpet" is sounded (1 Cor. 15:52).

15. Tabernacles is the festival with a special eighth day (Lev. 23:36). The number eight signifies a putting off of the flesh, a new beginning, and rescue from judgment (Gen. 17:12; 1 Pet. 3:20).

Finally, with the Tabernacles–Rapture parallels in view, here are some noteworthy things about this year's Tabernacles:

- Tabernacles 2023 marks one Sabbatical week plus, since a super blood moon eclipse was visible from Israel on the Feast of Tabernacles in 2015. This is significant because a blood moon is a sign of the impending Day of the Lord, and God typically gives a one-week warning before bringing judgment (Joel 2:31; Gen. 7; 41; Josh. 6).
- Tabernacles 2023 will see the last supermoon for an entire year. Two weeks after the supermoon, when the lunar disc is again in its dark (new) phase, it will eclipse the Sun, causing an annular 'wedding-ring' eclipse to appear in the left-hand area of the Constellation Virgo.
- The first day of Tabernacles marks 100 years since the Palestine Mandate came into effect on September 29, 1923, making the Jews' ancient homeland a distinct political entity for the first time in centuries, and setting the stage for the prophetic budding of the fig tree (Matt. 24:32–34).
- The first day of Tabernacles will see an intriguing astronomical alignment. A minor planet named "50 Virginia" (virgin) will meet up with the Sun in Virgo. The meeting of the virgin and the Sun on the first day of Tabernacles is even more interesting when we consider that 50 Virginia was discovered on the same day, the first day of Tabernacles, in 1857. (See notes for details).

- The seventh day of Tabernacles, October 6, will mark exactly 50 years since the Yom Kippur War began on October 6, 1973. Moreover, biblical math suggests that this 50-year period is a jubilee cycle. (See notes for details).

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION

The types and themes of the Feast of Tabernacles make it a plausible time for the Rapture. Like the Rapture, Tabernacles is a time of . . .

- Ingathering.
- Rejoicing before the Lord.
- Fullness and completion.
- Gentile celebration.
- Temple dedication.
- Messiah appearing.
- The last trumpet.
- Weddings.

Having made the case for a Tabernacles Rapture, we understand that only God knows the actual timing (Matt. 24:36–44). Still, with the full-moon festival nearly upon us, it is a thrilling prospect.

NOTES:

1. Tabernacles is the designated time of release or debt forgiveness: “Moses commanded them, saying, ‘At the end of every seven years, at the time of year when debts are forgiven, at the Feast of Tabernacles’” (Deut. 31:10 AMP). It is important to note that the word translated “end” in Deuteronomy, qets, means “farthest border,” or “end in space.” Viewing the 365-day year as one circuit around the Sun, beginning at the spring equinox (Nisan–Passover), Earth reaches the “farthest border” in space at the autumnal equinox (Tishrei–Tabernacles). Thus, Deuteronomy 31:10 is not telling us that the seventh month marks the actual end of the year. The biblical year ends at Nisan (Ex. 12:1, 2).

2. Significantly, the heavenly fulfillment of Tabernacles in Revelation 7 occurs well before the Second Coming, as God’s judgment upon the earth has not yet begun (Rev. 8–10).

3. Curiously, in the Book of Revelation, the fall festivals are referenced in the reverse order of how they occur on the calendar: In Revelation 7, the saints in heaven are seen celebrating Tabernacles with palm branches (v. 9). Next, an angel performs the high-priest ritual of offering up much incense, an allusion to the Day of Atonement (Rev. 8:3, 4; Lev. 16). Finally, a series of judgments are announced by trumpets, an allusion to the Feast of Trumpets (Rev. 8, 9; Lev. 23:24). Seeing how the seven festivals are associated with the seven candles of the Menorah, it is noteworthy that the lighting of the candles at Hannukah occurs in the same reverse order. On the first day of the festival, the candle on the far right, corresponding to Tabernacles, is the first one lit. On the second day, the candle corresponding to the Day of Atonement is the first one lit. On the third day, the candle corresponding to the Feast of Trumpets is the first one lit.

4. Coincidentally, the Hebrew word translated “tabernacle,” mishkan, is Strong’s # 4908. The number 49 denotes the Jubilee, and the number 8 denotes the Feast of Tabernacles, the festival with an eight day (Lev. 23:36).

IMPORTANT MESSAGE: No one knows the day or hour of Jesus’ return (Matt. 24:36). However, a convergence of biblical signs and timelines suggests it is near. To escape the judgment reserved for a God-rejecting world, one must be in a saving relationship with Jesus Christ. If you have not yet done so, call on His name and believe that He is the Son of God who died for your sins and was raised from the dead (Rom. 10:13). Do it today. Time is running out.

Fauci Was 'Smuggled' Into CIA Headquarters To "Influence" Covid-19 Origins Investigation: Select Subcommittee

BY TYLER DURDEN

WEDNESDAY, SEP 27, 2023

Dr. Anthony Fauci was smuggled into CIA headquarters, "without a record of entry," where he "participated in the analysis to "influence" the Agency's" Covid-19 investigation, according to the House Select Subcommittee on the Coronavirus Pandemic.

Fauci's alleged CIA meeting was revealed in a Tuesday night letter from Subcommittee Chairman Brad Wenstrup (R-OH) to the Inspector General of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, which demands documents, communications and other evidence between Fauci and the CIA.

This allegation is even more interesting in light of a report from two weeks ago that the CIA bribed analysts to say Covid-19 did not originate in a Chinese lab.

According to a 'senior-level' CIA whistleblower, the agency 'tried to pay off six analysts who found SARS-CoV-2 likely originated in a Wuhan lab if they changed their position and said the virus jumped from animals to humans.'

"According to the whistleblower, at the end of its review, six of the seven members of the Team believed the intelligence and science were sufficient to make a low confidence assessment that COVID-19 originated from a laboratory in Wuhan, China," reads the letter from Wenstrup.

"The seventh member of the Team, who also happened to be the most senior, was the lone officer to believe COVID-19 originated through zoonosis.

"The whistleblower further contends that to come to the eventual public determination of uncertainty, the other six members were given a significant monetary incentive to change their position," the letters continue, adding that the analysts were "experienced officers with significant scientific expertise."

Wenstrup and Turner also asked for documents and communications between the CIA and other federal agencies, including the State Department, FBI, the Department of Health and Human Services and the Energy Department.

In a separate letter, the House committee leaders identified former CIA Chief Operating Officer Andrew Makridis as having "played a central role" in the COVID investigation and asked him to sit for a transcribed interview. -NY Post

In June, the U.S. Intelligence Community declassified a 10-page report on COVID origins, in which it found "biosafety concerns" and "genetic engineering" taking place in Wuhan, but that most of its "agencies assess that SARS-CoV-2 was not genetically engineered."

As the Committee noted on Tuesday;

Dr. Fauci's questionable presence at the CIA, coupled with recently uncovered evidence that he, Dr. Fauci, "prompted" the drafting of "Proximal Origin" — the infamous paper that was used to attempt to "disprove" the lab leak theory — lends credence to heightened concerns about the promotion of a false COVID-19 origins narrative by multiple federal government agencies.

Chairman Wenstrup is seeking all documents and communications related to Dr. Fauci's access to CIA facilities and CIA employees as it relates to these allegations. Also, after becoming aware of additional information, the Select Subcommittee is requesting Special Agent Brett Rowland appear for a transcribed interview regarding Dr. Fauci's purported movements to and from the CIA. As mounting evidence continues to imply that federal government officials covered-up the origins of COVID-19, investigating any improper influence will ensure future accountability of not only the intelligence community, but also public health officials.

Amazing...

Dr. Robert Malone added to to this story by pointing out:

Do remember what the first rule of fifth-gen warfare is?

Confuse the mind.

Conflicting time-lines, conflicting reports, conflicting agencies, conflicting conclusions from our intelligence agencies include:

Animal origins: Bats

Animal origins: Pangolins

Animal origins: Snakes

100% agreement that the species isn't known, but it is of animal origin

Then - Made by China - released by mistake

Wolf-dogs

Am I missing another animal? Another theory that doesn't involve the USA?

But to my knowledge, no intelligence agency has made the obvious conclusion that this virus was made and funded by the US government. That the USA contracted with WIV for this gain-of-function (laughably dual-use research) because such research was banned in the USA.

Because that would also mean that the USA was responsible for massive amounts of morbidity and mortality.

They're Cranking-up Another COVID Scam; "Contact Tracing" Re-instituted for Airline Passengers

WORLD HAL TURNER 27 SEPTEMBER 2023

With the US Presidential Election pending in November, 2024, the-powers-that-be are cranking-up another COVID scam. This week, they re-imposed 'Mandatory Contact-Tracing' for airline passengers entering the U.S.. The goal is to fabricate another "pandemic" so they can resort to mail-in Ballots and steal the 2024 election the way they stole 2020.

An airline passenger in Mexico reported he encountered "Mandatory Contact-Tracing" when he arrived at the airport in Puerto Vallarta (PVR), Mexico, and found he could not even begin the flight "Check-in process until he complied with the contact tracing.

The passenger reported the following:

Tapping "OK" on the screen above then got this:

Which then continued to this:

Which then brought the passenger to the "Privacy Act" Notice:

Which continued to this:

The series of forms has been removed for space purposes but is on Hal Turner's page. While our southern border is wide open with 500,000 illegal unvaccinated undocumented soldiers are pouring across our border.

Oh, we must track if someone had the sniffles.

The whole thing is nothing but a scam. In its entirety!

The survival rate for this alleged "COVID" is 99.7%. So if every single person on the entire planet all caught "COVID" 99.7% or more, would SURVIVE. It's no worse than a nasty Flu season.

Yet the government is ramping-up this nonsense again, just over a year out from the November 2024 presidential election, as if none of us notice the scam.

Think about it: This COVID virus must be one really smart virus; it knows to only come out about a year before a Presidential Election!

Then, as they ramp-up the total propaganda, we'll see news story after news story of crowded hospitals but those hospitals will have no lines of people trying to get in . . . the same way it was last time.

In fact, last time, there were so FEW patients, the Nurses in these hospitals put together dance routines on YouTube because they had nothing to do in the hospitals.

The scam is back. Don't pay any attention to these Medical Quacks at CDC. DO NOT COMPLY with their absurd, useless, and idiotic demands. This is another scam-demic.

This is my thought:

Every American citizen must be given access to this complete set of communications, and the guilty must be prosecuted in a special court arranged by the victims' families.

Do not let this go by as more of the same—it is indeed a bombshell but in addition—it contains yet to be detonated secondary bombs that we REALLY need to get hold of.

New $4B Panasonic electric vehicle (EV) battery factory in Kansas requires so much power that the facility will need its own COAL plant to run

A coal-fired power plant in Kansas that was slated for closure will remain open after all to provide needed power for, wait for it: a new electric vehicle (EV) battery factory producing "clean" energy storage products.

In accordance with the Biden regime's ongoing efforts to force all Americans into an EV, Panasonic has built a $4 billion EV battery factory in the small Kansas City exurb of De Soto.

Local media reports state that the factory will require anywhere from 200 to 250 megawatts of electricity to function. This is roughly the amount of power needed to keep the lights on in a small city.

On track to receive a whopping $6.8 billion from fake president Joe Biden's Inflation Reduction Act, Panasonic is proving once again that in order to create "clean" energy, you have to burn a lot of "dirty" energy, rendering it a pointless endeavor.

The amount of energy the new Panasonic EV battery facility needs is so high, in fact, that a representative from Evergy, the public utility serving the factory, testified before the Kansas City Corporation Commission that there are serious "near-term challenges from a resource adequacy perspective."

Put another way, the Panasonic EV battery factory in De Soto is an energy hog of epic proportions. As such, Evergy says it will have to continue burning coal at a nearby power plant in Lawrence that was previously slated to eventually transition to natural gas production.

Environmentalists furious that coal plant will have to remain open to produce Panasonic's EV batteries

As we have been telling you, there is nothing "clean" about producing "green" energy products like EV batteries. In fact, it actually takes a much greater toll on the environment to produce EV batteries and other EV components than it does to continue building and using traditional gas-powered vehicles.

"A 15-pound lithium-ion battery holds about the same amount of energy as a pound of oil. To make that battery requires 7,000 pounds of rock and dirt to get the minerals that go into that battery," reports Cowboy State Daily. "The average EV battery weighs around 1,000 pounds."

"All of that mining and factory processing produces a lot more carbon dioxide emissions than a gas-powered car, so EVs have to be driven around 50,000 to 60,000 miles before there's a net reduction in carbon dioxide emissions."

In other words, as increasingly more EV battery and other EV product factories get built across the U.S. to accommodate the Biden regime's "green" pipe dream, the environment will become more and more destroyed, which has left many environmentalists feeling betrayed as they recoil in fury.

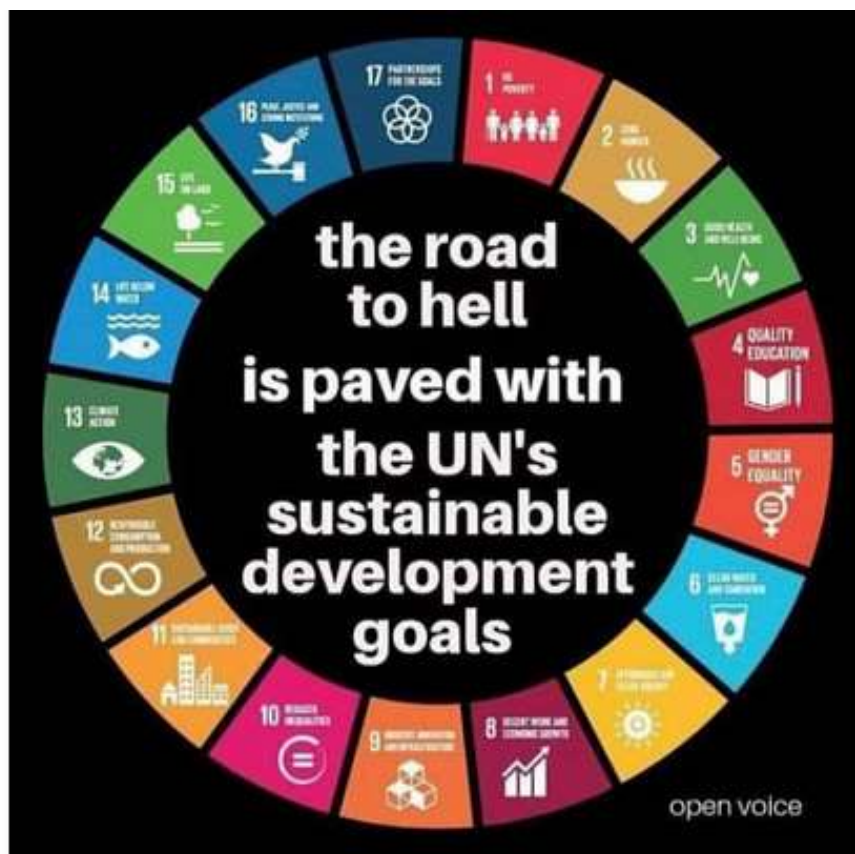

Testifying before federal lawmakers and members of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission in Washington, D.C., recently was American Coal Council CEO Emily Arthun, who spelled it all out with clarity.

"I met with senators and representatives who understand that we're going to need coal for far longer than people are talking about," Arthun said, explaining that the "green" energy industry requires massive amounts of "dirty" energy to stay afloat.

"People are starting to understand that energy needs are increasing, and these premature [coal-fired power plant] closures are a liability."

Rep. Cyrus Western (R-Wyo.) said much the same to Cowboy State Daily, stating that "kilowatts don't just fall out of the sky."

"That electricity has got to come from somewhere," he said. "It's not going to come from solar farms and wind turbines."

The 'Great Reset' reads like a globalist plot with some plot holes- Will happen fast, you won't be warned. (You'll either be ready in advance or you'll be subject to whatever crisis unfolds. Whether it be a collapse of the banks, an economic collapse, a war, or all three is anybody's guess, but it will be the world's largest economic event in history.)

Have you heard of the reset which the International Monetary Fund has planned for the world's financial system? Likely you haven't, but that's OK, most people haven't. If this weren't the head of the most powerful financial institution in the world, it would be easy to write off as irrelevant, but the IMF has the power to pull this off.

But how? Quick answer, the SDR. The SDR is short for "Special Drawing Rights," which is IMF money, so to speak. Without getting into the complexities of it, think of it as currency for nation states only.

Businesses and individuals cannot access SDR's. SDR's are what the IMF uses to bail out nations and "rebalance economies." They are digital, not hard currency. You cannot hold an SDR in your hand, nor can you write a cheque for one. What backs them? International currencies. Larger economies like the EU, USA, Britain,

China, and others contribute their currencies to the IMF as donations to be used to maintain the global financial system.

When a nation like Greece gets in trouble, the IMF may choose to issue SDR's, which can be converted into any currency required, so in the case of Greece, they would convert their SDR's into Euros. Remember, SDR's are digital only, and you could say they were created to be converted into another currency.

SDR's were created in 1969 and are used by many nations. There were times when political forces attempted to make SDR's the world currency, but none succeeded. But today more than ever, there is a growing consensus among nations to bring the SDR's onto the world stage as the one world currency. Exactly what this would look like and how it would come to be are details only a handful of people know, but there is a meeting every 5 years to discuss the SDR and the next meeting happens to be in October of 2025.

Why this matters.

The past 5 years have seen calls from nations like Russia and China for a one world system, a one world currency, namely the SDR. Previously, these two nations were hold out's to this system, but now both are vocal advocates of this monumental shift. That leaves no substantial resistance to SDR's among nations, save countries like Iran, Syria, and smaller nations which have no say in these matters.

Back to the reset. The term "creative destruction" is popular among economists, it refers to the process of destroying something in order to birth something better. In this scenario, they would deem destruction to be "creative." This is exactly what the heads of large financial institutions, nations, and various global players have in mind. They have said so with their own words, and when people with this kind of power say they want to do something, it would be wise to remember it. It's true they don't always succeed, but usually they do.

The Global Reset will be a currency reset. Select currencies will be chosen to form a "basket" of currencies, which will be the privileged few to which SDR's can convert to. Will other currencies still exist? This I don't know, but even if they do, their value will be greatly diminished. As I write this, we already have a currency crisis developing in the world, as the US dollar has become so much more valuable than other currencies, in particular emerging nations.

Why this is a problem. The U.S. dollar is the world's reserve currency, so to trade with other nations, it's usually necessary to convert your nation's currency into USD. This becomes a problem when your currency is worth very few U.S. dollars, it makes everything more expensive, too expensive. It can be a benefit for exports though, as other nations view your products as cheaper due to your currency being devalued, but unless the country is a major exporter, this isn't enough to offset the devaluation disadvantage.

This trend shows no signs of changing, and will ultimately result in emerging nations being unable to pay back debt denominated in USD, or import goods required for their society. This is why we need a reset, among other reasons the IMF would state. If you listen to the IMF discuss the reset, it sounds like a necessary change and beneficial for global trade and commerce. But behind the few benefits are some very nasty hooks.

SDR's will put control of the world's money in the hands of a few. The money will have no intrinsic value, even worse than now where we merely trade pieces of paper with no intrinsic value, we'll be moving to digital currency. With the click of a mouse, billions, trillions, or quadrillions can be given or taken away. That's a lot of power. Many people understand the danger of a system like this and will therefore resist, the IMF and its allies already know this, which is why they believe they will have to orchestrate a crisis big enough to make the whole world beg for a new system. This is easy to do when you have the cooperation of the largest banks, governments, and institutions in the world.

The Global Reset will happen fast, you won't be warned. You'll either be ready in advance or you'll be subject to whatever crisis unfolds. Whether it be a collapse of the banks, an economic collapse, a war, or all three is anybody's guess, but it will be the world's largest economic event in history.

The Antichrist Has Been Revealed (But People Don't See It)

Tim Cohen's second edition of 'The Antichrist and A Cup of Tea' is about to be made available. Near the close of this article is the link to the second interview with Tim Cohen and Janie Duvall. Tim Cohen is the pen name for Tim Huckabee the author. Janie Duvall was producer of the Sid Roth program for many years.

Jews don't like the apostle Paul. Jesus they can live with; he was a good-hearted rebbe whose words were twisted to say things he didn't mean. But Paul was the twister, and can't be forgiven. "Jesus, yes; Paul, never!" as one Jewish biographer of Paul puts it. As a zealous convert who equated the Torah with death, Paul is deemed the father of anti-Judaism (the theological critique of Judaism as a religion), the grandfather of anti-Semitism (the hatred of Jews as people), and the inventor of the theology of the Cross (an excuse for many massacres of Jews). Even Friedrich Nietzsche, no friend of the Jews, said Paul "falsified the history of Israel so as to make it appear as a prologue to his mission" and was "the genius in hatred, in the standpoint of hatred, and in the relentless logic of hatred."

I am quoting from Judith Shulevitz, she was the editor of 'Lingua Franca' and the founding culture editor of 'Slate'. None of you reading this will know Judith but her words may be of help to you in understanding the mind of Tim Huckabee (Cohen). My suspicion is that Tim Huckabee used the pen name of Tim Cohen to appeal to a Jewish audience for his book 'The Antichrist and a Cup of Tea'. The name Tim Huckabee is English or Anglo-Saxon.

Nowadays, as Chabad says, Kohan (more specifically, it's variant spelling Cohen) is the most common name in all of Israel — almost 160,000 people, as Forebears shows. That's quite the large number of descendants for people claiming to be descended from a single man, Aaron, the brother of Moses. It's even more impressive when you consider that there are an additional 145,000 people with the last name Cohen in the United States. Worldwide, there are over 390,000 people who bear the surname of Judaism's most revered priests.

I have two copies of his first edition of 'The Antichrist and A Cup of Tea', and four years ago I pre-ordered the second edition when Tim began taking pre-orders. What has been most puzzling to me was why he does not believe in the Pre-Tribulation Rapture. I have viewed and listened to every interview he has done with different hosts on the Internet. In all of his interviews, articles, he is anti-Rapture. That said, why am I bringing this up?

1. In all his points that he refutes the Pre-Tribulation Rapture, he 'cherry-picks' passages "out of context".
2. Tim Huckabee (Cohen) refutes "Biblical Dispensationalism"
3. He never acknowledges the Apostle Paul's teachings found in 1st and 2nd Thessalonians; and 1st Corinthians.
4. Tim never even mentions the Apostle Paul once in his presentations. Keep in mind, it was the Apostle Paul who mentions "Dispensations" ~ 1st Corinthians 9:17; Ephesians 1:10, 3:2; and Colossians 1:25.
5. In Tim's baptism, the pastor who baptized him said Tim was a priest, or could have been a priest in the order of his heritage, i.e., the name of (Cohen). The date of his baptism was June 10, 2010 with a small messianic congregation. His baptism is recorded in a You Tube video. It is a 2-part video, the first around 7 minutes and the immersion portion by the messianic pastor is 1 minute in length. The link below is his second with Janie Duvall and deals with recent activities of Prince Charles. He revealed that Klaus Schwab and Bill Gates are Knights of Prince Charles. I suspected so even though I had no confirmation of that fact. Tim Huckabee (Cohen)

YouTube

The fact that Tim Huckabee (Cohen) does not believe in or recognize the Biblical teaching on a Pre-Tribulation, Pre-Millennial Rapture should not discredit the work of the first edition of 'The Antichrist and A Cup of Tea'. However, anyone buying and reading the book needs to understand the background of what seems to be an unfortunate confusion by Tim Huckabee (Cohen)'s theology and confusion with God's different plan for the Jews and Gentiles. Putting things in context, Tim's book is a 5*, but his theology is a 1* or being generous, a 2. Without getting too theological, my thoughts are that Timothy Huckabee (Cohen) has been influenced by the Hebrew Roots movement which has largely been that the Apostle Paul was a false teacher. Rather than submitting to God's Word, the Hebrew roots movement simply dismisses the Apostle Paul altogether and claims that Paul was a false apostle and that his writings should not be in the Bible. The fact that Timothy Huckabee (Cohen)'s book was not well received in 1998 and the years following may have been the fact that he was Anti-Rapture and therefore shunned by prophecy teachers.

Global debt has added $100 trillion—almost a third of the current total—since 2012, the report said.

The following report is by the Trends Journal:

The amount of money owed by governments, businesses, households, and individuals grew by $10 trillion in this year's first half to a record $307 trillion, the Institute of International Finance (IIF) said in a 19 September report.

France, Japan, the U.K., and the U.S. led borrowing increases among developed nations, the sector responsible for 80 percent of the new debt. Brazil, China, and India—the three largest emerging economies—were the heaviest borrowers among that group.

Global debt has added $100 trillion—almost a third of the current total—since 2012, the report said.

In this year's second quarter, the ratio of global debt to global GDP rose to 336 percent, up 2 percent during the year's first half. It was the second consecutive quarterly increase; before that, the ratio had been shrinking for seven quarters.

However, the ratio is still below the 360-percent peak reached during the COVID War.

The sudden rise in inflation was the main factor behind the sharp decline in debt ratio over the past two years.

The IIF's report noted.

Also, governments have increased their spending commitments, from defense to stimulating national economies to financing the energy transition.

Now that inflation and wage increases are slowing, debt to GDP likely will grow past 337 percent before 2024, it predicted, as existing debt is refinanced at current higher interest rates.

Also, interest rates in many countries are expected to remain high into next year to ensure inflation's demise.

As higher rates and higher debt levels push government interest expenses higher, domestic debt strains are set to increase.

The IIF said.

Our concern is that countries will have to allocate more and more to interest expenses. It will have long-term implications for countries' funding costs and debt dynamics.

Emre Tiftik, the study's primary author, said in a statement accompanying the report's release.

Rising interest bills are a key risk to public finances and sovereign [credit] ratings.

Edward Parker, managing director at Fitch Ratings, said in a statement regarding the rising debt.

Fitch downgraded the U.S.'s creditworthiness earlier this year as debts mounted and the Congress indulged in prolonged haggling over conditions for raising the national debt ceiling before narrowly averting a government default.

Household debt-to-GDP ratios in emerging nations remain above pre-COVID-19 levels, largely due to borrowing by individuals in China, Korea, and Thailand, the study found. In contrast, the ratio in mature economies shrank to its smallest in two decades in this year's first half.

Should inflationary pressures persist in mature markets, the health of household balance sheets, particularly in the U.S., would provide a cushion... against further rate hikes.

The report noted.

TRENDPOST: The global debt is a ticking time bomb.

As governments continue to borrow, a greater and greater share of their budgets will have to be used to pay interest on debts. The alternatives, both bad, are to keep raising taxes or keep cutting spending on education, social services, business development, and other desirable programs. Unless stopped, mounting debt eventually will cut into spending on infrastructure and other essential budget items.

Government debt also leaves less money that industrialized nations can invest in emerging markets, a circumstance that can leave hundreds of millions of people in poverty longer.

Households, particularly in the U.S., Europe, and China—where household debt has now reached a record level, according to the South China Morning Post—are using savings and credit cards to meet basic expenses. That is not a permanent solution.

The debt crisis overshadows inflation—yet, while analysts and policymakers fret over rising prices, there is no similarly strong focus on controlling spending.

Without a plan to gradually reduce spending—by governments, businesses, and households—the debt bomb will explode, with unpredictable consequences for individuals, governments, and social and political stability the world over.

TREND FORECAST: Repeating what we have long forecast, today, Wolfe Research chief investment strategist Chris Senyek told CNBC that the “Wall of corporate debt refinance starting in 2024 is another stock market headwind,” and that “Refi’s are going to become a much bigger factor next year,” Senyek said in a note Tuesday. “[T]hat higher interest expense is likely to create a $5-$7/share headwind for S&P 500 operating EPS in 2024.”

Wolfe included a table showing $903 billion in U.S. corporate debt (excluding financial companies) coming due in 2024, up 343 percent from $204 billion in 2023. “That rises another 42 percent in 2025 to $1.28 trillion and 15 percent in 2026 to $1.47 trillion, before starting to come down.”

Again, making a bad debt bomb even worse is the Office Building Bust as building owners will not be able to pay off their debt or refinance it at higher interest rates as office tenants abandon buildings and/or lease less space as a result of the work-at-home trend brought to the world by the COVID War.

And this number is not even the real number: the real number cannot even be calculated or fathomed, as that would reveal just how much under-the-table and black market scamming goes on daily, and all the balance sheets and books that have been cooked that are given to the public eyes to see.

The piper must be paid and that time is coming super soon; and since most people can never repay it, they will pay for it in their blood by being killed-off, as per the goal to depopulate; which is ultimately being orchestrated by the Lord to judge the world and the people who hate and have rejected His word.

¹“Behold, the LORD maketh the earth empty, and maketh it waste, and turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof. ²And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to him. ³The land shall be utterly emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the LORD hath spoken this word.”

⁷“Who goeth a warfare any time at his own charges? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock? ⁸Say I these things as a man? or saith not the law the same also? ⁹For it is written in the law of Moses, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen? ¹⁰Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that he that ploweth should plow in hope; and that he that thresheth in hope should be partaker of his hope.” -(1 Corinthians 9:7-10).

Transvestite Entertainment: Men Dress Up as Women Wearing High Heels and Women Dress Like Men During Cross Dress Dancing at North East Adventist University

A former SDA pastor and friend of mine in Pennsylvania sent me the video link below. The observance of the high Satanic day of Halloween illustration above along with this depraved behavior is far more common in the church today than you might think.

“But, beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ; How that they told you there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts. These be they who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit.” –(Jude 1:17-19)

There was a time when Adventist students attended their institutions to receive an education. Today, they are being indoctrinated. The environment in our schools is turning more and more hostile toward our faith. On all sides, the radical LGBT+ culture flaunts its ever-growing acceptance. Sexual anarchists want to replace masculinity in men with the feminism of Sodom and instill masculinity in our women. Satan will not rest until this re-engineering of Christianity is complete. A former SDA pastor and friend of mine in Pennsylvania sent me the video link above.

Dancing, cross-dressing, and worldly music were on display at North East Adventist University, located in India, which is part of the worldwide Seventh-day Adventist education system. Every year, North East Adventist University celebrates a “Teacher’s Day” event that features dancing, drama, songs, and other festivities. In the video above, you will see students and faculty cheering and laughing as they are entertained by the morally depraved behavior and confusion that are associated with cross-dress dancing.

If left unchecked, worldly sentiments and apostasy will completely corrupt our young people. Thanks to those in charge of education, every day we see new examples of the deterioration of faith and family values. The assaults are only intensifying. Many of our schools today have become a reflection of the world.

Why don’t our pastors and educators stand up and state clearly that this is against the design of God? Why are so many afraid to stand up against the cross-dressing corruption of our children? Why do we become silent when it comes to taking a stance? Why do we cave to any pressure that would make us tell people what we really think?

Unfortunately, it takes a lot of courage these days to stand up for truth and righteousness. And courage is something that is missing in this generation.

Of what use is faith when it is silent? Silence has never saved anyone. Lost souls seldom come to repentance on their own. If we refuse to uphold God's law and reject morally depraved confusion, we will be lost when the Latter Rain is poured out. We will not participate in the Loud Cry or in the finishing of God's work.
