A skeptical look at the ‘great reset’: a technocratic agenda that waited years for a global crisis to exploit

By Tim Hinchliffe October 13, 2023

In the face of a global pandemic, an un-elected body of global bureaucrats based in Davos, Switzerland asked the world to trust its vision of a technocratic “great reset,” knowing full well the public would never go for such a request had it not been for the golden opportunity they'd all been waiting for.

When the head of the World Economic Forum (WEF), Klaus Schwab, announced in June 2020 that "Now is the time for a great reset," it wasn't the first time he called for it. In fact, he called on the WEF to start the great reset over five years before that (see video below), but in 2020 he said that COVID-19 was the most urgent reason to restructure all of society and the global economy.

The great reset agenda was already in place long before the coronavirus pandemic, and the WEF was just waiting for a crisis to exploit it.

Prior to this year, implementing worldwide lockdowns that destroy businesses, wreck the economy, and leave people destitute and stripped of their constitutional rights while trying to enact invasive contact tracing, immunity passports, and otherwise massive bio-electronic surveillance apparatuses would never have been accepted by the citizens of a free society.

The so-called great reset is an old ideology touted for decades by globalists like Henry Kissinger, who opined in 2014, "Never before has a new world order had to be assembled from so many different perceptions, or on so global a scale."

The great reset is the proposed mechanism for setting in motion a new global order, but it wouldn't be possible to bring forth such a bold plan without a global crisis, be it manufactured or of unfortunate happenstance, that shocks society to its core.

"The pandemic represents a rare but narrow window of opportunity to reflect, reimagine, and reset our world to create a healthier, more equitable, and more prosperous future"
— Klaus Schwab, WEF

In this story, I will attempt to dissect:

- What types of invasive surveillance technologies will be required by the great reset
- Why the great reset is being re-branded and pushed in 2020
- How the Davos crowd is trying to sell the great reset Utopia
- Who will be asked to give up their privacy for the common good
- When humans become hackable
- Where you have the power to choose

With the arrival of the coronavirus pandemic, the WEF had the perfect excuse to quickly enact its vision for steering society towards a more invasive and intrusive, technocratic future in the name of serving the common good.

The un-elected architects of the great reset envision a Utopian world of inclusivity, equality, and sustainability that will require trust in emerging technologies like AI, 5G, Block chain, and robotics, in order to usher in their golden dawn.

WEF Great Reset Agenda

Great Reset Will Require Trust in Invasive Surveillance Tech: WEF Promotes Health Passports & Contact Tracing

In order to bring about the great reset, it will require trust in the technology, and to be more specific, the WEF would like to have greater trust in “crisis-relevant tech,” which includes developing digital health passports and contact tracing, under a new form of internet governance.

“The use of digital technology during the COVID-19 crisis offers clear lessons [...] Target mistrust broadly to enable specific crisis-relevant tech” — Daniel Dobrygowski, WEF

“The Great Reset will require new institutions and business models, and new digital technologies to build them,” wrote the WEF Head of Corporate Governance and Trust, Daniel Dobrygowski, in a blog post. “The necessary collaboration, however, is only possible if we solve the digital trust problem,” he added.

According to the Dobrygowski, “The use of digital technology during the COVID-19 crisis offers clear lessons,” one of those being, “Target mistrust broadly to enable specific crisis-relevant tech.”

The WEF openly supports the development of so-called “crisis-relevant tech” as evidenced by its backing the development of health passports, which act as digital records of your health status to determine whether or not you are free to travel or even go outside.

Earlier in 2020, the WEF announced it was supporting the development and launch of CommonPass — a platform whose mission is “to develop and launch a standard global model to enable people to securely document and present their COVID-19 status (either as test results or an eventual vaccination status) to facilitate international travel and border crossing while keeping their health information private.”

“Contact tracing apps can be powerful weapons against the virus – but they can also be tools for state surveillance” — WEF report

The WEF also lent its support to another health passport initiative called CovidPass, which was built by one of the WEF’s own “Young Global Leaders,” Mustapha Mokass, who used to be an advisor at the World Bank.

CovidPass “uses block chain technology to store encrypted data from individual blood tests, allowing users to prove that they have tested negative for COVID-19.”

In supporting both CommonPass and CovidPass, the Davos elite made it clear they want “crisis-relevant tech” like health passports to be part of the great reset solution.

Ask yourself, would the idea of being forced to electronically prove your current health status in order to travel or even leave your own home have been acceptable before 2020?

The die was cast years ago, but only during COVID-19 did the Davos elite see a shrinking, yet golden opportunity, to create a new world order out of the coronavirus chaos.

COVID Presents a ‘Shrinking, Golden Opportunity’, Great Reset Is Not a Response to the Coronavirus

In June 2020, Prince Charles praised the great reset agenda for its potential to “make people more receptive to big visions of change” after having suffered through “unprecedented shockwaves.”

“We have a golden opportunity to seize something good from this crisis — its unprecedented shockwaves may well make people more receptive to big visions of change,” the prince told the WEF. Link below to Prince Charles statement: <https://youtu.be/BucTwPegW5k>

Would the idea of being forced to electronically prove your current health status in order to travel or even leave your own home have been acceptable 10 months ago?

Prince Charles may have let on more than he cared to share, or thought you would notice. Again, he’s telling you that the great reset was always the plan. COVID-19 is the excuse.

In other words, the coronavirus crisis presented a golden opportunity for the global establishment to further its agenda upon a frightful and angry population that has been so beaten down by the pandemic and subsequent lockdowns that they will have become more susceptible to giving over their freedoms to the idea of greater centralized power and control.

Prince Charles went on, “As we move from rescue to recovery, we have a unique but rapidly shrinking window of opportunity to learn lessons and reset ourselves on a more sustainable path. It is an opportunity we have never had before and may never have again.”

“We have a golden opportunity to seize something good from this crisis — its unprecedented shockwaves may well make people more receptive to big visions of change” — Prince Charles

The British royal’s words echo those of WEF Director Schwab, who said, “The pandemic represents a rare but narrow window of opportunity to reflect, reimagine, and reset our world to create a healthier, more equitable, and more prosperous future.”

Again, why is the window of opportunity so narrow? Could the seeds of their grand strategy only flower while the world was distracted and divided amidst the chaos?

The Lure of Utopia Has Many Hooks: Giving Up Privacy & Freedom for the Common Good

Prior to 2020, implementing worldwide lockdowns that destroy businesses, wreck the economy, and leave people destitute and stripped of their constitutional rights while trying to enact invasive contact tracing, immunity passports, and otherwise massive bio-electronic surveillance apparatuses would never have been accepted by the citizens of a free society.

But the coronavirus pandemic has opened a “narrow window” for a “golden opportunity,” and once this crisis is over, the Davos club fears that the window may be shut forever.

The WEF admits in its own contact tracing governance framework that “Contact tracing apps can be powerful weapons against the virus – but they can also be tools for state surveillance.”

Yet, the WEF believes that people should balance certain freedoms to serve the common good. It is a global vision without a clear end, and it is one that flies in the face of constitutional republics that protect certain unalienable rights.

“This new mindset would balance concerns over privacy and other issues with the potential to create value and improve lives” — WEF report

According to the WEF framework, enacting contact tracing technology would “not be easy and will require a new social consensus that embraces the use of technology to resolve problems for the good of all.”

Additionally, “This new mindset would balance concerns over privacy and other issues with the potential to create value and improve lives.”

In order to enact invasive technologies upon the population, citizens of the world will have to realize that it's for the greater good and that they should change their mindsets to be less concerned about “privacy and other issues” and more excited about “the potential to create value and improve lives.”

The great reset “will require stronger and more effective governments [...] and it will demand private-sector engagement every step of the way” — Klaus Schwab, WEF

Just about every proponent of contact tracing and health passports, including the WEF, all declare that technology should be used and governed ethically, but you hardly see any mention of winning the consent of the people.

Instead, they lobby stakeholders and policymakers to carry the torch in imparting the global vision from the top of the capstone and on-down.

“As we move from rescue to recovery, we have a unique but rapidly shrinking window of opportunity to learn lessons and reset ourselves on a more sustainable path. It is an opportunity we have never had before and may never have again” — Prince Charles

If the coronavirus were to disappear from the earth today, would the WEF have to wait for a new global crisis, or would it push-on with the same reset agenda, regardless?

According to the WEF director, the great reset “will require stronger and more effective governments [...] and it will demand private-sector engagement every step of the way.”

“The world must act jointly and swiftly to revamp all aspects of our societies and economies, from education to social contracts and working conditions,” he added. “We must build entirely new foundations for our economic and social systems.”

In creating order out of the coronavirus chaos, the great reset promised to bring about “a more secure, more equal, and more stable world.”

Was that how they plan to win our trust? By promising us a Utopia if we just go along with it?

Bio-Electronic Surveillance and Hackable Humans

We haven't even gotten into how the great reset would affect the world's money system and the role of block chain and digital payments, but when you look at digital health passports and contact tracing apps, you are looking at sophisticated form of bio-electronic surveillance that the world has never been seen before.

“We are no longer mysterious souls; we are now hackable animals” — Yuval Harari, WEF

When you combine biological data with advanced computing power, what you get is the ability to hack humans.

Speaking in Davos over the past few years, historian Yuval Harari has stated that “organisms are algorithms” and that “new technologies will soon give some corporations and governments the ability to hack human beings.”

“The power to hack human beings can of course be used for good purposes like provided much better healthcare,” said Harari, adding, “but if this power falls into the hands of a 21st Century Stalin, the result will be the worst totalitarian regime in human history, and we already have a number of applicants for the job of 21st Century Stalin.”

“In Stalin’s USSR the State monitored members of the Communist elite more than anyone else. The same will be true of future total surveillance regimes.”

The great reset calls to restructure every aspect of society, and it can only do so if people trust the increasingly invasive, bio-electronic surveillance technology they wish to deploy.

“In Stalin’s USSR the State monitored members of the Communist elite more than anyone else. The same will be true of future total surveillance regimes” — Yuval Harari, WEF

The more people know that someone is watching them, the more they will change their behavior. Just being aware that someone is monitoring your every digital transaction, will cause you to conform to certain norms.

As a population grows-up under massive surveillance, it will adapt its behavior to appear normal to society but compliant to authority. Over time, the citizens will police themselves out of fear.

Take a look at Communist China's surveillance state, and you will see what I mean.

The WEF Wants to Win Your Trust, You Have a Choice

Tyranny arrives in subtle stages. It's slow at first, but before you realize it even exists, it has already won.

That is what I see happening with the unholy merger of "the great reset" with "the new normal."

Those who pull the strings have been begging for a global crisis to unleash their worldwide restructuring of society and the economy.

In the face of a global pandemic, an un-elected body of global lobbyists based in Davos, Switzerland asked you to have faith in their vision of a technocratic Utopia, knowing full well they could never issue such a request had it not been for the golden opportunity they had all been waiting for.

And that is where your power lies, dear reader. It's your choice.

You can believe the WEF vision shared by some of the world's most influential bureaucrats, or you can be skeptical of the whole establishment agenda that asks you to just trust the plan.

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu defiantly visited IDF troops staged in the Gaza Envelope today. He toured Kibbutz Be'eri and Kibbutz Kfar Aza, and saw ruins of houses where the horrific massacre occurred. Bibi was sending a message that the days of Hamas being able to freely operate have come to an end. But something else is just about to begin.

"For Gaza shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon a desolation: they shall drive out Ashdod at the noon day, and Ekron shall be rooted up." -(Zephaniah 2:4)

On Tuesday, October 10th Zero-Hedge published on X (Twitter), which summarized an economic worst-case scenario for the Israeli-Palestine war. It included 10 points:

1. The conflict escalates into a regional war with the U.S. becoming directly involved.
2. OPEC responds with an oil embargo.
3. Iran closes the straits of Hormuz.
4. The price of oil reaches $300/barrel.
5. Europe succumbs into a full-blown energy crisis due to LNG shortage.

6. Massive spike in energy prices reinvigorates inflation with central banks responding accordingly.
7. Financial markets and the global banking sector collapse.
8. Debt crisis engulfs the U.S. forcing the Federal Reserve to enact yet another financial market bailout.
9. Petrodollar trade collapses.
10. Hyperinflation emerges.

On Monday, October 9th, the first thing I did was order a top off of my oil tank. I normally have a top off on the 20th of October but with the events in the Middle East, I thought it prudent to do a top off before prices go skywards.

U.S. Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin announced on Saturday that Washington is dispatching a second aircraft carrier, the USS Eisenhower, to the Eastern Mediterranean “to deter hostile actions against Israel or any efforts toward widening this war following Hamas’s attack.”

In an official statement, Austin said the United States has an “ironclad commitment to Israel’s security and our resolve to deter any state or non-state actor seeking to escalate this war.”

While not mentioning any specific actors, the military dispatch is widely seen as a warning to the Iranian regime and its Lebanese terror proxy Hezbollah against attacking Israel from the north while it is fighting against Hamas terrorists in Gaza.

The USS Eisenhower warship convoy will join the USS Ford aircraft carrier that was sent earlier in an effort by Washington to prevent the Gaza war from expanding throughout the Middle East region.

America is Israel’s closest ally and the Biden administration has rallied behind the Jewish state and defended its right to self-defense against the atrocities committed by the Hamas terror organization.

During his recent visit to Israel, U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken stressed that the United States will always support Israel.

“The message that I bring to Israel is this: You may be strong enough on your own to defend yourself, but as long as America exists, you will never, ever have to. We will always be there by your side. That’s the message that President Biden delivered to the prime minister from the moment that this crisis began,” Blinken vowed.

The top U.S. diplomat also blasted many in the international community for failing to condemn the unprecedented terror attack against Israeli civilians, which claimed the lives of 1,300 Israeli men, women and children.

"There is no excuse, there is no justification for these atrocities," Blinken said. "This is, this must be, a moment for moral clarity," he added.

Turkey's President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan failed to condemn the Hamas massacre of civilians on Oct. 7. Instead, the Turkish leader blasted Israel's legitimate right to self-defense actions against Hamas as "shameful."

Erdoğan repeated his false accusation that Israel bombs civilians in Gaza.

"Bombing civilian sites, killing civilians, blocking humanitarian aid and trying to present these as achievements are the acts of an organization and not a state," he said.

Israel Defense Forces are, in fact, striking Hamas military targets while seeking to minimize civilian casualties. Hamas, however, is reportedly using Gazan civilians as human shields while murdering Israeli civilians, a double war crime.

The Turkish leader's false statement about Israel's military operations comes after Turkey, itself, recently bombed civilian and military targets in northeast Syria in its war against Kurdish militants.

Meanwhile, the Iranian ayatollah regime that supports Hamas threatened the Jewish state with "consequences" if it did not stop its military operation against the terror group that operates in the Gaza Strip.

"If the Israeli apartheid's war crimes & genocide are not halted immediately, the situation could spiral out of control & ricochet far-reaching consequences—the responsibility of which lies with the UN, the Security Council & the states steering the Council toward a dead end," Iran's permanent UN mission wrote on X, formerly Twitter.

The Iranian ayatollah regime openly calls for Israel's destruction and has invested considerable resources in its terror proxies Hezbollah, Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad along Israel's northern and southern borders.

A senior Israeli official accused Iran on Sunday of trying to open a second war front by deploying weapons in or through Syria as Israel steps up a counter-offensive in Gaza to the south.

Responding to a post on the X social-media platform that posited such a scenario, Joshua Zarka, head of strategic affairs for Israel's Foreign Ministry, said: "They (Iranians) are."

The original post also said "the Israelis are determined to prevent" such developments. To that, Zarka responded: "We are."

SENIOR PENTAGON ANALYST WARNS OF DANGER TO AMERICA!
THE ATTACK ON ISRAEL COULD HAPPEN HERE GIVEN OUR OPEN SOUTHERN BORDER

by LTC Robert Maginnis

Fifty years ago (1973), after graduating from West Point I published an article that correctly predicted the future war between Iran and Iraq (1980-1988). Months later while in Ranger School my class was activated for the 1973 Yom Kippur War that erupted against Israel, instigated by a surprise attack from Syria and Egypt.

I believe today we face a similar situation with Iran using its proxies to once again attack Israel. Further, and don't misunderstand, Iran is an ever-closer ally of Russia and China, which won't condemn Hamas' action because as the Wall Street Journal indicates, Iran's radical Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps helped to plan Hamas' attack into Israel. Further, Hezbollah, another Iranian proxy will support Hamas through a series of engagements in northern Israel.

The IRGC are the same Iranian group responsible for the deaths of many hundreds of American service members during the Iraq war. They itch to repeat in blood a similar outcome.

Years ago, I wrote the book, 'Never Submit,' which is about Islam's attacks in the Mideast against especially Christians and Jews. I explain in Never Submit the fascist Islamic region that dates back 1,500 years. Further, I indicate how past US presidents like Obama gave license to Iran to conduct terrorism not only against Israel but across the world.

I've been in Israel multiple times, top to bottom, and understand much of the military capabilities of the IDF as well as the geography. Further, my time across the region to include multiple times in Iraq gives me a solid understanding that the spark of conflict in Israel could light up the entire region.

More broadly, with U.S. ground troops in Syria and Iraq, we must appreciate the fight now in Israel has implications not just for the Mideast but more broadly for the ongoing fight in Ukraine as well as the potential turmoil at the hands of China's President Xi especially in Taiwan and the South China Sea region.

Finally, Hamas' attack on Israel could in part be replicated in the US thanks to our open southern border and the reported crossing into our country of known criminals and people with suspected terrorist ties. The intelligence failure that contributed to the surprise attack on Israel may be something others are planning for America.

God help us!

Israelis blame gov't for Hamas massacre, say Netanyahu must resign - poll; An overwhelming majority of 86% of respondents, including 79% of coalition supporters, said the surprise attack from Gaza is a failure of the country's leadership. Four out of five Jewish Israelis believe the government and Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu are to blame for the mass infiltration of Hamas terrorists.

Why The Rapture Occurs Before the Revealing of the Antichrist!

<sup>1</sup>“Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him, <sup>2</sup>That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand. <sup>3</sup>Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; <sup>4</sup>Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God. <sup>5</sup>Remember ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things? <sup>6</sup>And now ye know what withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time. <sup>7</sup>For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way. <sup>8</sup>And then shall that Wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming: <sup>9</sup>Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders, <sup>10</sup>And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. <sup>11</sup>And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: <sup>12</sup>That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.” –(2nd Thessalonians 2:1-12)

The Church is taken out of the way first, and then the Man of Sin, the Antichrist is revealed. We have discussed in length there are two different words, one that deals with the “Departure” (physical) and the other falling away from the faith. For reference you can read Dr. Tommy Ice’s paper on this at the link here below:

THE “DEPARTURE IN 2 THESSALONIANS 2:3 - Pre-Trib Dr. Ice’s paper is everything you need to know that we will be taken out before Daniel 9:27 is fulfilled. It is centered in the dates of COP28 and so we have an approximate date.

Dr. Andy Woods wrote a book on this very topic, ‘The Falling Away: Spiritual Departure or Physical Rapture’ in 2018.

At one time, the 'Arab-Israeli Conflict' was Arab and Israeli. Over the course of many years, however, it was rebranded. The media is now telling us it is a ' Hamas-Israeli conflict'. Most people see it as political when it is really a Biblical prophecy issue that was to make Israel a "Cup of Trembling" for the world. "Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of trembling unto all the people round about, when they shall be in the siege both against Judah and against Jerusalem." -(Zechariah 12:2)

I know that few people understand what I am saying but it is due to their ignorance of the Bible.

But what went wrong? Israel simply became too powerful.

The supposedly astounding Israeli victories over the years against Arab armies have emboldened Israel to the extent that it came to view itself, not as a regional superpower, but as a global power as well. Israel, per its own definition, became 'invincible'.

Such terminology was not a mere scare tactic aimed at breaking the spirit of Palestinians and Arabs alike. Israel believed this.

The 'Israeli miracle victory' against Arab armies in 1967 was a watershed moment. Then, Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, Abba Eban, declared in a speech that "from the podium of the UN, I proclaimed the glorious triumph of the IDF and the redemption of Jerusalem."

This, in his thinking, could only mean one thing: "Never before has Israel stood more honored and revered by the nations of the world." Jews are arrogant people. If you ask people who have worked for Jewish employers, they know what I am saying. In my secular employment days, I have worked for some very demanding Jews and their arrogance reeks of superiority of mindset and attitude. The "Chosen People" Syndrome does not reflect in their humility virtue of gratitude or thankfulness. Scripture shows that God punished them by taking from them their revered Temple, Land, and Torah when He sent them into 70 years of captivity in Babylon.

The sentiment in Eban's words echoed throughout Israel. Even those who doubted their government's ability to completely prevail over the Arabs, joined the chorus: Israel is unvanquishable.

Little rational discussion took place back then, about the actual reasons why Israel had won, and if that victory would have been possible without Washington's complete backing and the West's willingness to support Israel at any cost.

Israel was never a graceful winner. As the size of territories controlled by the triumphant little state increased by three-fold, Israel began entrenching its military occupation over whatever remained of historic Palestine. It even began building settlements in newly occupied Arab territories, in Sinai, the Golan Heights and all the rest.

Fifty years ago, in October 1973, Arab armies attempted to reverse Israel's massive gains by launching a surprise attack. They initially succeeded, then failed when the U.S. moved quickly to bolster Israeli defenses and intelligence.

It was not a complete victory for the Arabs, or a total defeat for Israel. The latter was badly bruised, though. But Tel Aviv remained convinced that the fundamental relationship it had established with the Arabs in 1967 had not been altered.

And, with time, the 'conflict' became less Arab-Israeli and more Palestinian-Israeli. Other Arab countries, like Lebanon, paid a heavy price for the fragmentation of the Arab front.

This changing reality meant that Israel could invade South Lebanon in March 1978, and then sign the Camp David Peace Accords with Egypt, six months later.

While the Israeli occupation of Palestine grew more violent, with an insatiable appetite for more land, the west turned the Palestinian struggle for freedom into a 'conflict' to be managed by words, never by deeds.

Many Palestinian intellectuals make a point of arguing that "this is not a conflict", that military occupation is not a political dispute, but governed by clearly defined international laws and boundaries. And that it must be resolved according to international justice.

That is yet to happen. Neither was justice delivered, nor an inch of Palestine was retrieved, despite the countless international conferences, resolutions, statements, investigations, recommendations, and special reports. Without real enforcement, international law is mere ink.

But did the Arab people abandon Palestine? The anger, the anguish, and the passionate chants by endless streams of people who took to the streets throughout the Middle East to protest the annihilation of Gaza by the Israeli army, did not seem to think that Palestine is alone – or, at least, should be left fighting on its own.

The isolation of Palestine from its regional context has proven disastrous. There is probably more Jewish blood among the Palestinian people than there are in Israel itself where 85% of the population is Ashkenazi and not descendant of Biblical Jews from Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. In the Blessed Hope #215, I noted that the Rothschild's purchase 90,000 acres of Palestine from the Greek Orthodox Sursock family they had acquired from the poor peasants who shepherd the land.

When the 'conflict' is only with the Palestinians, then Israel determines the context and scope of the so-called conflict, what is allowed at the 'negotiations table', and what is to be excluded. This is how the Oslo Accords squandered Palestinian rights. It may have been a secondary issue when Yasser Arafat walked away from the table in the Oslo Accords.

The more Israel succeeds in isolating Palestinians from their regional environs, the more it invests in their division.

It is even more dangerous when the conflict becomes between Hamas and Israel. The outcome is a whole different conversation that is superimposed on the truly urgent understanding of what is taking place in Gaza, in the whole of Palestine at the moment.

In Israel's version of events, the war began on October 7, when Hamas fighters attacked Israeli military bases, settlements, and towns in the south of Israel.

No other date or event prior to the Hamas attack seems to matter to Israel, to the West and to corporate media covering the war with so much concern for the plight of Israelis, and complete disregard to the Gaza inferno.

No other context is allowed to spoil the perfect Israeli narrative of Daesh-like Palestinians disturbing the peace and tranquility of Israel and its people.

Palestinian voices that insist on discussing the Gaza war within proper historical contexts – the ethnic cleansing of Palestine in 1948, the occupation of Jerusalem, the West Bank and Gaza in 1967, the siege on Gaza in 2007, and all the bloody wars before and after – are simply denied platforms.

The pro-Israel media simply does not want to listen. Even if Israel did not go as far as making unfounded claims about decapitated babies, the media would have remained committed to the Israeli narrative, anyway.

Yet, if Israel continues to define the narratives of war, historical contexts of 'conflicts', and the political discourses that shape the West's view of Palestine and the Middle East, it will continue to obtain all the blank checks necessary to remain committed to its military occupation of Palestine. In turn, this will fuel yet more conflicts, more wars and more deception regarding the roots of the violence.

For this vicious cycle to break, Palestine must, once more, become an issue that concerns all Arabs, the whole region. The Israeli narrative must be countered, western bias confronted, and a new, collective strategy formed.

In other words, Palestine cannot be left alone anymore.

Unfortunately that is not going to happen as tempers boil and rage seethes in Israel's neighbors over what Israel plans to do in the Gaza. I watched a video where six or seven high rises were brought down in a cloud of black dust and debris.

SMALLPOX CONFIRMED --Developments: Water Turned Back On in Gaza; Rafah Border Crossing Re-Opened for US

Hal Turner posted an interesting report overnight in Israel there have been developments. First, water mains were turned back on from Israel into southern Gaza. Next, Egypt has re-opened the Rafah Border Crossing to AMERICANS to exit Gaza. A ground invasion has **not** begun.

It is also very clear there have been Few attacks on Gaza in the last 36 hours, and few missile from Gaza too. I'm sensing that there might be serious reconsideration by Israel of the existential reality facing them.

Iran was not kidding when it said "Unless the offensive against Gaza stops, we will intervene." Hezbollah in Lebanon is not kidding, they're making small incursions into northern Israel, hitting IDF Troops, and then retreating.

Syria is clearly arming-up its regular army since last night's Israeli missile attacks on Damascus and Aleppo Airports - again - the second time within days.

The fact that Israel had not gone in last night spawned RUMORS the fighter jets had to wait because . . . . get this . . . . thunderstorms were coming to the area, and they affected pilot's ability to hit ground targets. Most know that's complete bullshit - fighter jets operate in all weather and in full nightfall.

So clearly something is "up" with what's taking place over there.

Most obvious (to me) is that Israel seems to be waiting for the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower aircraft carrier and its Strike Group to arrive on-station along with the USS Gerald R. Ford and its Strike group which is already there.

Once the Eisenhower arrives, the U.S. will have, off Israel's coast:

- 2 aircraft carriers
- At least 160 aircraft.
- Two guided missile cruisers,
- Six destroyers

Once the NATO Maritime Surface Group #2 arrives, the TOTAL firepower off Israel's coast will include:

- 2 Aircraft Carriers
USS Gerald R. Ford (CVN-78)
USS Dwight D. Eisenhower (CVN-69)
- 2 Ticonderoga-Class Cruisers
USS Normandy (CG-60)

USS Ramage (DDG-61)

USS Carney (DDG-64)

USS Roosevelt (DDG-80)

USS Laboon (DDG-58)

These vessels and their enormous firepower are in addition to:

- Additional F-35s, F-15, F-16s and A-10s. (And that's what's been added to already present aircraft assets.)

Recall, too, the USS George Washington and the HMS Prince of Wales (A Queen Elizabeth class aircraft carrier) both pulled out of Norfolk, VA last week, at least two days BEFORE the Dwight D. Eisenhower departed. And no one is revealing where the Washington and the Prince of Wales are heading.

Factor-in that NATO revealed two days ago that its Maritime Surface Group 2 was heading toward the Mediterranean Sea as of Friday as well.

Ships can't move very fast relative to the distances they must cover; it takes time to get these enormous fleets into position.

Which begs the question: In position for what, exactly?

GAZA is smaller than the City of Chicago. Israel has its regular Army and another 360,000 reserve troops already called up. In addition to the above, the 101st Airborne Division was shuttled from the Ukraine area to Jordan last week.

How much manpower and firepower does Israel need for a place that's smaller than Chicago?

Unless, of course, this isn't just about Gaza at all. Perhaps this is about Iran and Syria as well?

If we add those two countries into the mix, all of a sudden, the naval power being brought to the region starts to make more sense.

Israel has had it in for Iran for decades, and has whined, moaned, complained and accused about Iran to anyone and everyone, for years.

Syria is still blocking proposed construction of a Gas Pipeline from Qatar to Europe, and the west still wants that pipeline, so in the West's minds, Bashar Assad has to go.

Then, too, public opposition to ISRAEL has been a very sharp, well-placed political jab that has knocked the elite onto their back foot. The public outpouring of opposition to Israel (and to a lesser degree, support for Gaza) has been startling to the elite. They've never seen anything like it before. The elite's "narrative" about the ongoing fighting, is **not** being believed by the general public.

That fraud about "40 babies beheaded" fell like a lead balloon because everyone remembers the phony "Babies taken from incubators and thrown on the floor" lie during the Iraq invasion of Kuwait. That lie was exposed, albeit very late, and nobody is falling for that propaganda crap anymore.

Some people are saying "Oh look, it's the same tactics and lies they used during the Iraq war" and those people are right!

Threats aren't working for the elite, either. The French Interior Minister is threatening five years in prison for anyone "supporting" HAMAS or displaying "Pro-Palestinian" flags, signs, etc. Yet the French people have taken to the streets by the hundreds-of-thousands, doing exactly what the French Interior Minister says they cannot.

In the UK, it's worse. No less than King Charles himself has publicly threatened UK citizens with "14 years in prison for supporting Hamas." The general public in the UK is - even today - pouring into the streets with Palestinian flags, signs, and banners of support, in direct defiance of His Majesty.

So the "elite" are stupefied; the public is not listening to them or to their narrative. The general public is rebelling. The police are trying to enforce these new rules, but even the cops are afraid because the crowds are so big and quite unruly.

This combination of developments over the past couple days, was absolutely **not** expected by the-powers-that-be (TPTB) and they have to fall back and re-think their strategies.

Turning the water back on in Gaza is part of the re-think.

It turned out that over the past five years, GAZA installed de-salination plants, and numerous . . . get this . . . solar-powered private wells! When the water mains were turned off, Israel had only been supplying about six percent (6%) of Gaza water.

So they took a huge public relations (PR) hit over shutting off water, but in reality, what they did achieved almost nothing.

So the decision to turn the water back on is now seen as a PR stunt because their initial effort totally failed, but got them gigantic PR trouble and they're hoping to get some of the PR pressure off them by turning the water back on.

The other variable here is the one that is **not** supposed to be said out loud: Israel isn't nearly as tough as they want everyone to think.

500,000 troops! Merkava tanks! Armored Personnel Carriers! . . . but to date, the Israelis have only used fighter jets to bomb apartment buildings, and artillery to fire shells from a very safe distance away. Why is that?

Why haven't they gone in?

The IDF says publicly they're ready. They say publicly they are "in-position" and await a political decision to begin.

Yet that decision does not come. Why not?

Is it because they aren't nearly as tough as they would have everyone believe? Are they afraid?

Afraid of what traps may await them inside Gaza?

Afraid of Hezbollah - which kicked their butts back in 2005 - coming into the fight?

Afraid of Iran and Syria entering the fight?

Afraid that even moderate partner-in-peace, Egypt, has warned "Israel has brought our relationship to the breaking point?"

Whatever the facts, the immutable fact is that Israel has **not** entered Gaza for an invasion - yet.

Or is it something other than fear. Is it arrogance? Are the Israeli's waiting for American and NATO firepower to arrive so that the "Goyim" will do the fighting FOR

HMMMMMMMMMM.

There is, of course, one other possibility that I have not touched upon:

It could be that the ground offensive is 100% happening. But we aren't going to see a massive battle charge because GAZA is one big booby trap.

The IDF may have decided to take it very slowly and clear GAZA piece by piece. That will also show the world they are being careful and methodical and not just slaughtering.

This morning, they are also slowly pushing the population of Gaza to the south for the same reason - turning the water on there could be to both lure people in that direction and also give the impression they're not going to wipe out Gaza in one go.

Once they've got what's left of Hamas pushed up against the southern border it will get very hard.

Basically, this may be a measured pressure build-up rather than the "shock & awe" head-on charge a lot of us are expecting.

Whatever will be, I still have a terrible sense of foreboding over this situation - and Ukraine. The stakes are very high and if these things go wild-weasel, we will ALL be in a world of hurt.

Prep. Get your emergency food, water, medicines, fuel, generator and communications gear like CB or HAM radio. Better to prep and not need it, than to need it but not have it.

And get right with God. That's most important of all.

When you see and hear that Damascus has been "Nuked" you will know that you only have days before the End! When Isaiah 17:1 is fulfilled, Russia will enter the picture that leads to World War III. Russia has defense treaty agreements with Syria. The COP28 meetings are still on schedule and the calendar dates below are baked into the cake. Believers worldwide will be Raptured out of here just before or at least prior to when Prince Charles makes his rare appearance that will usher in the Great Tribulation of Daniel 9:27. Hanukkah, 2023 offers another possible Rapture date in this time frame!

Count down to 'Confirming the Covenant with the Many'

Hanukkah 12/7/23 – 12/15/23
COP28 Begins November 30th as of 10/17/23 – 44 Days
Days to end COP28 December 12th as of 10/17/23 – 56 days

Praise God!

Blessings in the Precious Name of Jesus Christ, Lord of lords, and King of kings!
