Gates Foundation Insider Boasts BILLIONS Will Die In A 2024 Plandemic

Fact checked

November 25, 2023 Baxter Dmitry

Three years ago, Bill Gates openly bragged that a future pandemic would wipe billions of people off the face of the earth. Speaking with his trademark smirk, Gates could not have been clearer about his plans for the future.

Now, according to a Gates Foundation insider, plans for the promised pandemic are underway and the global elite are planning to shift their depopulation agenda into high gear.

What is the event they are planning? It is a severe pandemic, worse than COVID-19, targeting young people and children.

Gates is trying desperately to stop any information about this disturbing plan from leaking out to the public, but unfortunately for him there are now too many people determined to expose his evil to the world.

Gates is furious that his plans are being thwarted by so-called “conspiracy theorists” that are determined to expose his evil agenda.

Appearing on the Trevor Noah podcast this week, Gates railed against so-called “conspiracy theorists” who are making his “super important work” much harder than it used to be.

Gates only has himself to blame. Like other members of the globalist elite, he has become arrogant and is now saying the quiet parts out loud. Whereas once this kind of talk would have only been possible in a dark and smoky back room, Gates is now sharing his vision for the depopulation of the world right out in the open.

Remember "Event 201", a preparedness exercise featuring a coronavirus pandemic, conducted in October 2019 under the auspices of the World Economic Forum and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and involving the usual suspects including the World Health Organization, China's CDC, Anthony Fauci and others?

The timing was exquisite, and the COVID-19 pandemic started within weeks of the exercise and went on just as they predicted it would. The globalist elite were in heaven. The World Economic Forum could not resist gloating about the situation, singing the praises of "brutally efficient" lockdowns.

The average person was terrified into submissive compliance by mainstream media, who shamelessly served as hand maidens of the elite. We were locked down, punished, made ill, injected and impoverished. The economic consequences for everyday people have been disastrous and are continuing to mount.

In case you doubt that the elite are happy about this, take a look at the size of Bill Gates' psychopathic smile when CNN host Fareed Zakaria says the economy is going to take a long time to recover.

Of course, the rich got richer. The elite are now more elite than ever before.

And of course, the elites themselves did not have to suffer through punishing lockdowns. The World Health Organization and the World Economic Forum are both based in Switzerland which happened to be one of the few countries that did not enforce lockdowns and mask orders.

It's one rule for thee and another for me.

Considering the suffering inflicted on humanity by the elite these past few years, it is imperative that we keep a very close eye on the actions of those who profited from the pandemic.

In particular, you should be aware that a new pandemic is spreading through China, hospitalizing children, and causing brainwashed liberals to beg the government to lockdown society all over again.

If that wasn't disturbing enough, the new pandemic has the elite's fingerprints all over it. What are the odds that just one week after Joe Biden met with Chinese dictator Xi Jinping and Democrat Party mega donors, China is now announcing another Covid-like illness that is tearing through the country?

Just in time for the 2024 election.

Joe and Xi did the same thing in 2020!

Of course, paid propaganda journalists and so-called fact checkers will soon arrive to declare this to be a big conspiracy theory by citing references of the institutions which are clearly a part of the conspiracy against humanity.

But we saw what they did in the Covid pandemic and we took notes. We are not letting them get away with that one again.

According to Gates, the “lessons learned” from 2020 involve the elite taking a much stronger stance against so-called “misinformation” than during the Covid pandemic.

How does this play out in the real world? It means there will be even more censorship and suppression of free speech when the next pandemic is rolled out to the world.

After all, during Covid the skeptics won out, which is NOT acceptable to Bill Gates. Despite having the weight of the mainstream media and global autocratic control infrastructure stacked against us, we managed to prevail by refusing to be bullied and silenced by their authoritarian tactics.

So, Bill Gates is planning the next catastrophic contagion pandemic, killing younger people, where a much stronger misinformation control will be undertaken. According to Gates, countries must prioritize efforts to increase trust in government and public health. Don't forget that Bill Gates was “knighted” by the UK Crown for his services to the British Monarchy! I wonder what type of services he provided that got him “knighted” along with George W. Bush, and General Collin Powell.

Gates now understands that we are onto him. Let's face it, there are just far too many coincidences when it comes to Gates to allow him to work away quietly in the shadows without watching him closely.

He has an uncanny ability to “foresee” future pandemics. In addition to preparing for the Covid-19 pandemic via Event 201, he also conducted a “monkeypox preparedness exercise” in 2021 that predicted the emergence of monkeypox down to the exact month when it emerged!

Bill Gates is a brilliant investor, on a par with Nancy Pelosi. He bought equity in a barely-known biotech startup called BioNTech just two months before the Covid-19 pandemic started and made well over a billion dollars. Remember, BioNTech supplies the Pfizer Covid vaccine — despite having never worked on vaccines before the pandemic.

So, I recommend listening closely when Bill Gates predicts a future pandemic. He knows something we might not be aware of. Chemtrail spraying has not let up all throughout November and may actually have increased from reports that I read from around the country.

And he can't help gloating about the "next one."

No Bill Gates, the next pandemic won't get any attention because you will be locked up by then. This power-hungry cabal of billionaires and politicians has long plotted to enslave the masses, and now they are making their move.

This is a shameless, naked power grab by Gates and the globalist elites and it must not be allowed to succeed.

But thanks to people who refuse to succumb to their brainwashing, people like you, the global elite are finding it much harder than they thought.

What's Plasmid DNA?
Why's the Cabal Putting It in Food, Water, Air & Vaccines?!
Dr Ardis Interview

Dr. Bryan Ardis joined Seth Holehouse at 'Man in America' to give a teaser of his Healing for the Ages presentation, where he explains how the spike proteins in the SARS-CoV-2, HIV-1 and rabies viruses – and in the snake venom of king cobras and krait snakes – are all homologous and functionally identical to each other and how the C-19 shots employ DNA plasmids to insert genetic instructions for your own cells to manufacture this toxic spike protein forever, to then have this poison circulating in your body for what remains of your decreasing lifespan.

He reminds us that the AIDS drug, AZT is derived from the neurotoxin produced by a marine sponge, saying, "They had a snake venom spike protein virus that they said was causing an illness – HIV – and they said that to prevent the AIDS-worsening scenario from this virus...you need to swallow venom from a marine sponge in the ocean, that's going to be your cure."

"Seth Holehouse, every single symptom of AIDS, every sign or symptom of AIDS, as a disease is a published side-effect of marine sponge venom in a human. So, if you put a little bit of [this] venom in your body, what do you develop? You develop AIDS! And guess what they do? They tell you died of AIDS. No, you didn't! You died from marine sponge venom poisoning; no different than cancer patients...If you have a loved one who took chemo and died while under cancer therapy, they died from chemotherapy toxicity, they did not die from cancer."

"In fact, a UC Berkeley oncologist in 2004 quit a 20-year study at year 10 and he was only...investigating cancer patients and wanted to know, 'Is it cancer that kills people or chemotherapy and radiation?' He was going to do a 20-year study on 250,000 people. At the end of 10 years, he canceled the study, because 100%...of all people that received chemo for cancer did not die from cancer, they died from the toxic effects of chemo and he could not continue the study [in good conscience], so he quit it."

Normies worldwide have been led to believe that a novel coronavirus was making people sick and that people were spreading it to each other all over the world. "That is not what happened," Dr Ardis says. "They didn't create a virus in a lab and give it to a human to go cough on somebody and spread it around the world. No. That is not how it works. That's not how spread works, that's not how pandemics work..."

"What they did was they created what are called DNA plasmids. DNA plasmids are little circular pieces of DNA they've been making for 72 years...around the world and then dropping them from the air, putting them in our water – not a joke – in our water that we shower and drink in and then, they also inject it into our food. And then, DNA plasmids is the only thing the NIH says they put in the COVID-19 mRNA 'vaccines'."

Dr. Ardis notes how the authorities have been warning us that antibiotics were being "over-prescribed", causing people to become "antibiotic-resistant" and this is why antibiotics "aren't working anymore". He says these are more lies.

He explains that DNA experts have created DNA plasmids that cause bacteria and yeast strains to become antibiotic-resistant and that when we ingest these DNA plasmids, it causes us to become "antibiotic-resistant".

He says, "They want to make people sick, so you will buy their drugs, their vaccine agendas and their surgeries. And they are creating biology that is resistant to their proposed cheaper solutions, called 'antibiotics'. They physically are making bacteria, yeast and mammal cells, with DNA plasmids that are antibiotic-resistant."

He continues, "We are not naturally becoming antibiotic-resistant, they are engineering it on purpose. They are making antibiotic-resistant bacteria through a technology called DNA plasmids," using the mechanism of bacterial conjugation, in which these DNA plasmids are transferred by direct cell-to-cell contact.

He explains that a DNA plasmid contains a "promoter" region that, "Tells the DNA of whatever type cell it gets inside of – bacteria, yeast or mammal cells – it tells it to 'make the payload'."

He explains that this is the same mechanism employed by the COVID-19 injection: DNA plasmids are injected, which then insert these payload instructions for your own cells to manufacture the spike protein.

He continues, "These are only promoter plasmids. They never stop manufacturing the payload...DNA experts in China, in January of 2020, DNA experts in France, in April of 2020, Italian researchers, Carlo Brogna and his team in Italy, in June of 2020 confirm through DNA testing that the spike protein gene was two snake venom proteins: from the king cobra, called 'cobratoxin' and krait snake venom, called 'bungarotoxin'."

"That is the spike protein gene. Now, the NIH, Seth, just in May of this year wrote an article and in the first summary, the first paragraph of this research study, it states – by the NIH...that the spike protein gene is one of three things: 1) rabies virus spike protein, HIV's spike protein and 3) two snake venom neurotoxins."

"Now, what's interesting about that is, the rabies spike protein gene – every research scientist that studies rabies states that the rabies glycoprotein or spike protein is homologous – which is the science word for 'identical to' – snake venom components..."

"So, DNA plasmids, as I just showed you is how they actually created the COVID-19 'vaccines'. When I say there's snake venom in the shots, they actually state that they put snake venom in these shots. It's called 'snake venom phosphodiesterase'. And for anyone out there wondering if I'm right, go look up who just won the Nobel Prize two weeks ago. [Their names are] Drew Weissman and Katalin Karikó at the University of Pennsylvania...they just won the Nobel Prize for Medicine for creating the mRNA COVID-19 shots."

"Now, for a lot of you, you might be wondering, why didn't someone else we've been hearing say they created the mRNA 'vaccines' [Robert Malone?] – why didn't they get the Nobel Prize? Well, the reason's obvious. He's obviously lying."

"So then, the next question is, 'Why are you lying? Why didn't you win the Nobel Prize and why aren't you pissed you didn't get the Nobel Prize, I thought you said you created this stuff?'"

"These two people, Drew Weissman and Katalin Karikó, in every paper since 2009, creating what they call 'mRNA gene therapy vaccines' – paid for, in every paper since 2009 by Anthony Fauci's NIH – they state in every paper to make mRNA gene therapy shots, they have to use snake venom phosphodiesterase to cut your DNA and RNA to insert the RNA that they're injecting inside of you."

"When I say there's snake venom in there, it's because in every single one of their papers, their recipes for making these shots, they say, 'We need snake venom phosphodiesterase to cut your RNA and DNA.'"

"And guess what snake venom phosphodiesterase is published to do in the human body, Seth Holehouse? They actually say the first thing it does is cause 'platelet aggregation'... this is what we call 'blood clots'. How many of you have heard the term 'Clot Shot'?...This is why the clots are being formed."

Dr Ardis then talks about the UN's Pandemic Treaty and how the global COVID scam created 124 new billionaires, so we can rest assured that "pandemics" will not be going away and that the evil ones have been studying what worked and what didn't for the production of the next global pandemic – which may already be upon us.

He continues, "Inside the COVID-19 shots, they call them 'mRNA shots'. Are you shocked to find out that in the ingredients list, there's no mRNA listed as an ingredient on any of the COVID-19 shots? So, if it's not mRNA they're injecting you with, what are they injecting you with? I just showed you: DNA plasmids are what they put in the shots."

The good news, Dr Ardis says is that there are about 12 natural substances that destroy the ability of DNA plasmids to get inside your cells via the conjugation mechanism, according to the scientists who create these plasmids. These compounds include:

- Quercetin
- Avocado oil
- Olive oil
- Plumbago
- Glucose oxidase (from bee pollen)

He says, "If we put a little bit inside of our bodies, it doesn't matter if they drop plasmids from the air, put it in your food or in your water or injected in your veggies."

Dr. Ardis then does a quick rundown of the topics in his Healing for the Ages conference:

- DNA plasmids: That's how they constructed COVID, it's what they put in the 'vaccines', going forward, that's what they're going to do with every pandemic in the near future, so you need to know the plasmid-curing compounds to beat their weaponry.

- 5G: We take you through what 5G technology has been published to do to create death, myocarditis, blood clots, COVID and what 5G does to the human body and why the 5G towers had to go up during the pandemic.

- Blue Light technology: This is emitted from all of your digital devices and your home's Smart meter. DARPA can remotely increase your blue light exposure without your awareness or consent – and the reason why they'd want to do that is because blue light activates all gene CRISPR technology to initiate gene-editing of your DNA. They give tips on how to turn off or otherwise mitigate emissions of blue light technology.

Dr. Ardis says that in the Healing for the Ages conference, he discusses the specific compound in the Death Shot that has caused all of the miscarriages and the infertility problems – as well as three things that can destroy this compound and restore your fertility, namely: infrared saunas, EDTA and zinc, as well as the published cures for the Marburg and Ebola viruses.

He just recently discovered that the receptor for the Marburg and Ebola viruses is called Two-Pore Channel Subtype 2 \(TPC2\).

Components of TPC2 are found in grapefruit and tomatoes. He suggests a good uptake of these two fruits and their juices can help you block Ebola and Marburg from binding to your TPC2 receptors and infecting your body with a hemorrhagic virus that makes you bleed out of your eyes and kills you.

He says that we'll soon see another fake pandemic that takes advantage of what they learned from the last one – plus by that time, the Pandemic Treaty will have been passed, so the Globalists can finalize their genocide of 95% of the human population. That is, unless we can turn it around.

On the upside, the 2% uptake of the latest COVID shot, to Dr. Ardis indicates a Great Awakening and that the evil doers have sorely underestimated the Divine Logos indwelling in humanity, our God-given Common Sense.

The Polluter Elites

Posted Nov 24, 2023 By Martin Armstrong |

The very people flying to Davos annually on their private jets are responsible for the majority of environmental pollution. The globalists are the “polluter elites” who want to implement prohibitions on consumption for the masses. The Guardian recently reported that the top 1% produce more carbon emissions than the poorest 66%. The climate change agenda is purely a control tactic, control over our tax spending, energy and food consumption, and freedom of movement. The very people preaching that we must abandon our way of life to save the world KNOW that it is a sham.

The Guardian partnered with Oxfam, the Stockholm Environment Institute, for “The Great Carbon Divide” study. As of 2019, the top 1% were responsible for 5.9bn tons of CO2 emissions or 16% of all emissions. “The report found it would take about 1,500 years for someone in the bottom 99% to produce as much carbon as the richest billionaires do in a year,” the article notes. “these elite also wield enormous political power by owning media organizations and social networks, hiring advertising and PR agencies and lobbyists, and mixing socially with senior politicians, who are often members of the richest 1%,” the report stated. Furthermore, 25% of Congress owns stocks in fossil fuels worth between $33 million and $93 million.

So the very people who want to ban gas stoves, kill off livestock, end private car ownership, and force the public to consume insects are the same people responsible for these so-called deadly carbon emissions.

Take Jeff Bezos. He owns the ‘Washington Post’ and can adjust the public narrative as billions yield untold power. He had a bridge deconstructed so that his mega yacht could push through, and he owns numerous jets, yachts, you name it. Yet he also pledges millions each year to support the climate change agenda geared toward punishing the average person for weather patterns. His paper publishes articles warning of the coming end of the world due to the Great Unwashed simply existing. Worse still, the corporations these polluter elites own are responsible for more CO2 emissions than any amount the average person could expend in their lifetimes.

Rules for thee, but not for me! Hence it is absolutely ridiculous that there is current legislation in place aimed at limiting our energy and food consumption that was written by the very people responsible for their proclaimed crisis.

PROOF: DTCC DID DELETE UBS BOND CUSIP NUMBER(S)

WORLD HAL TURNER 25 NOVEMBER 2023 [See Blessed Hope #246]

Earlier this week, I reported that UBS Bank Failed-to-Deliver Bonds on Nov. 22, and that the Depository Trust and Clearing Corporation (DTCC) DELETED the CUSIP numbers for those Bonds. No CUSIP Number means No Bond. No Bond means no payment to the Bondholders. Today, I got proof.

I am able to now report that at least one DELETED CUSIP NUMBER is: 90301Q349

The Internal memo below, from inside the DTCC proves the deletion and warns staff to ". . . disregard any Receive and Deliver instructions . . ."

So if the Bondholder wants to Receive or Settle and get paid, it appears he cannot because Staff were told, in writing, to "disregard any Receive and Deliver instructions."

Here's the internal DTCC Memo:

As mentioned in previous articles about this (HERE) UBS is the largest bank in Switzerland, and has offices in countries all over the world.

That earlier story outlined that UBS had "Failed-to-Deliver" Bonds that were supposed to settle on November 22, and we subsequently found out that the DTCC then deleted the CUSIP Numbers for those bonds.

Now we have confirmation that DTCC did, in fact, delete the CUSIP Number(s).

So how does that work? The Largest Bank in Switzerland issued Bonds, that have a CUSIP Number making them publicly tradeable. The Bonds come due and it seems UBS Fails-to-Deliver and then, DTCC simply DELETES the CUSIP Number which means the bonds never existed!

Questions regarding this notice should be addressed to DTCC NSCC Operations at 888-382-2721, option 5, option 4.

Where did the money go?

Moreover, today, this website also reported that a Depositor at UBS wanted to make a withdrawal from the UBS Branch at Tellplatz 12, 4053, Basel, Switzerland, and instead was handed a note telling him the bank could not allow him to withdraw his money due to "unforeseen liquidity challenges." That story, with an image of the actual note, is HERE.

Again, UBS is the biggest bank in Switzerland; so where did that Depositor's money go? Another Depositor to the same UBS Bank, was also denied his withdrawal, and was told "try again in 3 weeks."

It seems, on the surface, that the international banking system is collapsing and the collapse is already so far along that now, the Banks cannot give Depositor money back. Strangely, the mass media, is as quiet as a Church Mouse. Not a peep.

From the archives of Pastor Bob's Studies on Deliverance before Judgment / Pre-Tribulation Rapture
Why the Rapture Occurs Before the Revealing of the Antichrist!

The critical teachings on the Pre-Tribulation Rapture of the Bride (Church) are 1st Thessalonians 4:13-18; John 14:1-3; and 1st Corinthians 15:50-58.

Paul did not want these new Christians to be ignorant [uninformed] concerning the Rapture phase of the Second Coming. Likewise, we still can find great comfort in Paul's words despite the disinformation chatter, static, and confusion out there in the world today. There are many young novice voices in the wilderness today seeking to lead the Christian world astray while proclaiming their own message of "Yea, hath God said?" They think they are wise, but really they foolishly believe their own vain, overused and general platitudes which are geared towards presenting shallow, wisdom over difficult and complex topics. They offer nothing more than undirected teachings with little meaningful guidance for deeper Scriptural understanding.

Time and again critics and antagonists of the Pre-Tribulation Rapture base their beliefs upon Jesus' words found in the Olivet Discourse, particularly the portion of Matthew 24:29-31. Opponents of the Pre-Tribulation are quick to point out Jesus' words, "Immediately after the Tribulation...." as if it was some sort of slam-dunk to support their argument that the Tribulation precedes or comes before the Rapture. But there is much more to the message of Matthew 24:29-31 than most challengers realize! Keep these points in mind:

- Matthew 24:29-31 has absolutely nothing to do with 2nd Thessalonians 14:13-18. It is an issue of ignorance (lack of understanding) and an erroneous comparison of one Scripture to an unrelated Scripture. The larger issue concerns hermeneutics (theory and methodology of interpretation) and the importance of correctly comparing the different books of the Bible.
- Matthew was written before Thessalonians. The best existing scholarship today recognizes that from several years to as much as two decades elapsed between the writing of Matthew and Paul's letter to the Thessalonians. Paul was in Asia Minor, a distance of 700-800 hundred miles northwest of Jerusalem. He was not even in the area at the time of his missionary trips to Asia Minor in what is now known as the nation of Turkey.
- The Gospel of Matthew (or Jesus' words) never quotes from the Apostle Paul's letters to the Thessalonians, or for that matter, from any of his other epistles. Not Once! Then who does Matthew's Gospel quote from? And, why is that important to all? It is very important!
- The "Church" is not mentioned in the Bible until Matthew 16:18. Furthermore, the "Church" was not birthed until Acts 2:47 after the Holy Spirit appeared as tongues of fire at the Feast of Pentecost. The Church at Thessalonica was not established until after Pentecost. Jesus was speaking to the Jews and not to the Church.

- The only Scriptures available to the disciples was the Old Testament, which would have been the Bible of their day. The religious leaders had the Torah, the Psalms, and the Writings of the prophets, and that was all. The disciples who first heard Jesus' Olivet Discourse (Matthew 24 & 25), would have only known these documents, which were read by their rabbis. At this point in time, neither the Gospels of the New Testament nor the letters to the Thessalonians had been written. Since the Old Testament was the only Bible they had, the answer is really pretty obvious.

Of the four Gospels, Matthew is the one who quotes the most from the Old Testament, and he did so frequently. In fact, there are at least 40 direct quotes, and some 60 references total noting these writings. So, it makes sense and would be a natural conclusion to expect any references or quotes to have come from the Old Testament.

It may come as a surprise, but Jesus quoted from Isaiah twenty times, more than any Old Testament book. If we look at the particular passages used by those rejecting the Pre-Tribulation Rapture by using Matthew 24:29-31, we find that Jesus quoted directly from Isaiah four 4X times and referenced Isaiah six 6X times in just the three verse portion of Matthew 24:29-31.

- Matthew 24:29 references or quotes specifically from Isaiah 13:10; 24:23.
- Matthew 24:31 references or quotes specifically from Isaiah 27:13; 11:12; 49:18; 60:4; 13:5; 42:10; 43:6; and 45:22.

Note something else about this observation: sandwiched around these three verses we find there are references to Isaiah before Matthew 24:29 and immediately following Matthew 24:31 for an additional total of six quotes plus an additional four references. The point is that Matthew records that Jesus directly quotes Isaiah specifically, and NOT a New Testament epistle by Paul or anyone else.

This is very important to consider because in no way whatsoever does Matthew 24:29-31 support a solid argument refuting the Pre-Tribulation Rapture for the reasons previously noted. Two principles of hermeneutical studies to remember are as follows:

- The closest context of a Biblical passage best determines the meaning of the passage.
- Scripture should interpret Scripture within the context of the narrative.

Of the four Gospels, Matthew quotes from the Old Testament more than Mark, Luke, or John. Of the Old Testament writings, Jesus quotes from Isaiah most. With 40 direct quotes and 60 additional references specifically taken from Isaiah, the book the disciples would definitely have knowledge of would be Isaiah. Deuteronomy with 13 quotes and Psalms with 9 quotes fill out the top three Old Testament books. Daniel was the 4th most quoted in Matthew's Gospel.

Furthermore, Jesus had no reason to reveal the Rapture to the disciples or anyone else for that matter in the "Olivet Discourse". That task was left primarily to the apostle Paul for later revelation in Paul's ministry. Keep in mind that God discloses truth one step at a time, planting the first seeds in Genesis and leading to the ultimate display of the full floral bloom in Revelation. As a metaphor, this image of the progression of growth from the seed to the flower is essential in understanding God's overall unfolding of revelation in general.

The New Testament really does not begin with the physical birth of Jesus in Bethlehem. It begins with the Cross when the temple veil was "rent in twain from the top to the bottom" –(Mark 15:38). This is important to remember. The preceding verse reads, "And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost" –(Mark 15:37).

The New Testament traditionally begins with the birth of the Christ child; however, technically speaking, it actually begins with the death of Jesus Christ on the Cross when the temple veil torn from top to bottom. Hebrews 9:1-9 tells us that in the temple a veil separated the Holy of Holies—the earthly dwelling place of God's presence—from the rest of the temple where men dwelt. This signified that man was separated from God by sin –(Isaiah 59:1-2). Only the high priest was permitted to pass beyond this veil once each year –(Exodus 30:10; Hebrews 9:7) to enter into God's presence for all of Israel and make atonement for their sins –(Leviticus 16). An early Jewish tradition says that the veil was about four inches thick, but the Bible does not confirm that measurement. The book of Exodus teaches that this thick veil was fashioned from blue, purple and scarlet material and fine twisted linen.

The size and thickness of the veil makes the events occurring at the moment of Jesus' death on the cross so much more momentous. "And when Jesus had cried out again in a loud voice, He gave up His spirit. At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom" –(Matthew 27:50-51a).

What significance does this torn veil have for us today? Above all, the tearing of the veil at the moment of Jesus' death dramatically symbolized that His sacrifice, the shedding of His own blood, was a sufficient atonement for sins. It signified that now the way into the Holy of Holies was open for all people, for all time, both Jew and Gentile.

Because Jesus never said a great deal about the Church's mission, purpose, plans, objectives, duration, or ending of the Church, why would it come as any big surprise that He offers little for us to ponder over the Rapture issue? The Pre-Tribulation Rapture was a "Mystery" as the Apostle Paul explains in 1st Corinthians 15:51-52. That "mystery" remains veiled behind "Biblical Typology". Its thematic patterns are overlaid within the context of the Feasts of the Lord described in Leviticus 23 – all for us to discover just as Proverbs 25:2 exhorts. The full extent of that event remains to be experienced by born-again believers. As we discover in the words of Paul, we begin to see how the “mystery” becomes more tangible. When we delve into a study of the nuances of the apostle’s words written to the new churches at Thessalonica and Corinth, we learn what the meaning and purpose of the Pre-Tribulation Rapture is for the Church.

When Paul said to be comforted by these words, he really meant it. God does not lie, deceive or mislead us. We can truly comfort one another with the words of 1st Thessalonians 4:18, “Wherefore comfort one another with these words”. The Greek word for “comfort one another” here is “parakaleo”, and it is found 23X as such. It is found 114X in 104 verses of the New Testament in the King James Bible, and it is translated as following:

43X Beseech	23X Comfort	21X Exhort	8X Desire
6X Pray	3X Entreat	4X Miscellaneous	1X Besought

There is no greater comfort, encouragement, or exhortation that can be given to another than the fact that whether Christians live or die they will be caught up to be with the Lord Jesus Christ when He comes.

The use of “parakaleo” to mean “comforter” or “consolation” is also present in the New Testament. Jesus promised comfort for the mourners in Matthew 5:4, and the apostles responded to slander from unbelievers with the conciliatory words in 1st Corinthians 4:13; Romans 15:4; 2nd Thessalonians 2:17; Hebrews 6:18; and 12:5. One finds the word “parakaleo” used in the context where Jesus’ power to save and authority are recognized over sickness and over demonic activity in more than a dozen passages. The word is simply identified with the coming of salvation in which the use of the word definitely shapes the New Testament’s language. On the day of Pentecost, in Acts 2:40, Peter “exhorted” or urged the Jews to turn to Jesus Christ. There is so much more on the Pre-Tribulation Rapture as we explore “Biblical Typology” and the nuances of the theme of “Deliverance before Judgment”.

Catholic Magazine: “How Evangelicals Can Be Catholic, and the Catholic Church Evangelical”

Pope Francis is now being called the COP28 Climate Prophet! It is noted at the very beginning of Greg Bong’s program with Jeanie Duvall in Blessed Hope #247.

Link here: <https://youtu.be/7NS0RWgZOZg>

On November 23, 2023, the Catholic magazine ‘The Tablet’ published an article claiming that Protestants and Evangelicals are nearly indistinguishable from one another. Today, Protestants not only share many fundamental beliefs with Roman Catholics, they also share many styles of worship, liturgy, and social works and have similar views on authority and tradition.

The Protestant clergyman who authored the article for the Catholic magazine stated the following:

“Catholicity means wholeness – a ‘thick’ concept of wholeness applied to the Christian faith, life, and Church. It is in this wholeness sense that when we recite the Creed, we confess our belief in ‘one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church.’ It is in this wholeness sense that the English Reformers claimed (and we in the Church of England today still claim) that the Church of England is part of the Catholic Church.”

“But ‘catholic’ is not a dirty word: it is a wonderful, sacred word and concept that evangelicals – if they are true to the ecclesial vision of the English Reformers – should treasure, protect, and seek to prosper.”

“In my chapter in God’s Church for God’s World, I make the case that the Church of England has – however imperfectly – conserved the Catholic canon of Scripture, confessed the Catholic creed, taken part in the Catholic conversation (the Great Tradition flowing from the Fathers through the Doctors of the Church), been guided by the Catholic conscience (upholding the univocal moral vision of the Christian tradition), respected the Catholic cultus (pattern of worship), preserved the Catholic connection (upholding the unity of the church through episcopacy), and ministered within the Catholic circumference (the visible church of all the baptized). The catholic and reformed ecclesiology and method of the English Reformers is a coherent and compelling vision for the Church that safeguards evangelicalism from the spiritual, theological, and missional narrowness to which it can be otherwise susceptible.”

“Evangelicals should remain in the Church of England for catholic reasons. The Church of England helps keep evangelicals Catholic, and evangelicals help keep the Catholic Church of England evangelical. If ‘Evangelexit’ were to occur, it would inevitably be into churches that are less Catholic than the Church of England. That would be to the detriment of the spiritual health of the evangelical Anglican movement itself, and of the nation as a whole.”

Here we have a member of the Protestant clergy stating in a Catholic publication that we are all Catholics regardless of whether you go to a Catholic or Protestant church. Protestantism is becoming more and more like Rome every day—in terms of appearances, words, actions, characteristics, and faith. The Bible is becoming less meaningful and valuable in our day and age as Protestantism becomes more and more allied with the Catholic Church. This is causing many Protestants to reject the fundamental principle of “Sola Sriptura,” the idea that the Bible is the inspired source of religious authority and the ultimate guide for faith and practice.

What Protestants are doing today is helping to heal the deadly wound. They are fulfilling Bible prophecy, which says:

“The professed Protestant world will form a confederacy with the man of sin, and the church and the world will be in corrupt harmony. Here the great crisis is coming upon the world. The Scriptures teach that popery is to regain its lost supremacy, and that the fires of persecution will be rekindled through the timeserving concessions of the so-called Protestant world”

We are seeing the final chapter of the Reformation as strange events both in the religious and secular worlds unfold before our eyes. The religious stage is being set. Almost all the churches have united. The Roman Catholic Church has apparently had the most to gain from the atmosphere of ecumenism. The entire world is being wooed to join the great apostate fellowship found in Revelation 13, 17, and 18.

The 500 years of rich Protestant history have been rejected, cast down, and “trodden under foot” -(Daniel 8:14) as more and more Reformation churches line up to embrace their mother, Rome. Protestants used to reject the Pope’s claims of infallibility and supremacy as blasphemous during the Reformation era. They broke away from Rome because of her false doctrines. And what doctrines have changed in Catholicism since then? None.

The Papacy today still claims primacy and universal supremacy as the Vicar of Christ on earth! Rome has never repudiated any of her doctrines. This event is a shameful betrayal of the Protestant Reformers and was predicted in Bible prophecy.

“And all the world wondered after the beast.” –(Revelation 13:3)

Pope Francis has done more than any previous Pope to unite Protestants and Catholics. One must grasp the magnitude of what is happening before our eyes: the complete surrender of the Protestant Reformation of the 16th century.

'You'll Own Nothing and Be Happy'?

David Webb has gone through the 50-year history of all the legal constructs that have been put in place to technically enable that to happen.”

The derivatives bubble is often estimated to exceed one quadrillion dollars (a quadrillion is 1,000 trillion). The entire GDP of the world is estimated at $105 trillion, or 10% of one quadrillion; and the collective wealth of the world is an estimated $360 trillion.

Clearly, there is not enough collateral anywhere to satisfy all the derivative claims. The majority of derivatives now involve interest rate swaps, and interest rates have shot up. The bubble looks ready to pop.

[Oct 2 interview titled “The Great Taking: Who Really Owns Your Assets?”]

Who were the intrepid counterparties signing up to take the other side of these risky derivative bets? Initially, it seems, they were banks – led by four mega-banks, JP Morgan Chase, Citibank, Goldman Sachs and Bank of America. But according to a 2023 book called The Great Taking by veteran hedge fund manager David Rogers Webb, counterparty risk on all of these bets is ultimately assumed by an entity called the Depository Trust & Clearing Corporation (DTCC), through its nominee Cede & Co. (See also Greg Morse, “Who Owns America? Cede & DTCC,” and A. Freed, “Who Really Owns Your Money? Part I, The DTCC”). Cede & Co. is now the owner of record of all of our stocks, bonds, digitized securities, mortgages, and more; and it is seriously under-capitalized, holding capital of only $3.5 billion, clearly not enough to satisfy all the potential derivative claims. Webb thinks this is intentional.

What happens if the DTCC goes bankrupt? Under The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act (BAPCPA) of 2005, derivatives have “super-priority” in bankruptcy. (The BAPCPA actually protects the banks and derivative claimants rather than consumers; it was the same act that eliminated bankruptcy protection for students.) Derivative claimants don't even need to go through the bankruptcy court but can simply nab the collateral from the bankrupt estate, leaving nothing for the other secured creditors (including state and local governments) or the banks' unsecured creditors (including us, the depositors). And in this case the “bankrupt estate” – the holdings of the DTCC/Cede & Co. – includes all of our stocks, bonds, digitized securities, mortgages, and more.

It sounds like conspiracy theory, but it's all laid out in the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC), tested in precedent, and validated by court rulings. The UCC is a privately-established set of standardized rules for transacting business, which has been ratified by all 50 states and includes key provisions that have been “harmonized” with the laws of other countries in the Western orbit. The UCC makes boring reading and is anything but clear, but Webb has diligently picked through the obscure legalese and demonstrates that the amorphous “they” have it all locked up. They can take everything in one fell swoop, without even going to court. Ideally, we need to get Congress to modify some laws, beginning with the super-priority provisions of the Bankruptcy Law of 2005. Even billionaires, notes Webb, are at risk of losing their holdings; and they have the clout to take action.

About The Great Taking and Its Author

As detailed in the introduction, “David Rogers Webb has deep experience with investigation and analysis within challenging and deceptive environments, including the mergers and acquisitions boom of the 80’s, venture investing, and the public financial markets. He managed hedge funds through the period spanning the extremes of the dot-com bubble and bust, producing a gross return of more than 320% while the S&P 500 and the NASDAQ indices had losses. His clients included some of the largest international institutional investors.”

A lengthy personal preface to the book not only establishes these bona fides but tells an interesting story concerning his family history and the rise and fall of his home city of Cleveland in the Great Depression.

As for what the book is about, Webb summarizes in the introduction:

It is about the taking of collateral (all of it), the end game of the current globally synchronous debt accumulation super cycle. This scheme is being executed by long-planned, intelligent design, the audacity and scope of which is difficult for the mind to encompass. Included are all financial assets and bank deposits, all stocks and bonds; and hence, all underlying property of all public corporations, including all inventories, plant and equipment; land, mineral deposits, inventions and intellectual property. Privately owned personal and real property financed with any amount of debt will likewise be taken, as will the assets of privately owned businesses which have been financed with debt. If even partially successful, this will be the greatest conquest and subjugation in world history.

You might have to read the book to be convinced, but it is not long, is available free on the Net, and is heavily referenced and footnoted. I will try to summarize his main points, but first a look at the derivatives problem and how it got out of hand.

The Derivative Mushroom Cloud

A “financial derivative” is defined as “a security whose value depends on, or is derived from, an underlying asset or assets. The derivative represents a contract between two or more parties and its price fluctuates according to the value of the asset from which it is derived.”

Warren Buffett famously described derivatives as “weapons of financial mass destruction,” but they did not start out that way. Initially they were a form of insurance for farmers to guarantee the price of their forthcoming crops. In a typical futures contract, the miller would pay a fixed price for wheat not yet harvested. The miller assumed the risk that the crops would fail or market prices would fall, while the farmer assumed the risk that prices would rise, limiting his potential profit.

In either case, the farmer actually delivered the product, or so much of it as he produced. The derivatives market exploded when speculators were allowed to bet on the rise or fall of prices, exchange rates, interest rates and other “underlying assets” without actually owning or delivering the “underlying.” Like at a race track, bets could be placed without owning the horse, so there was no limit to the potential number of bets. Speculators could “hedge their bets” by selling short — borrowing and selling stock or other assets they did not actually own. It was a form of counterfeiting that not only diluted the value of the “real” stock but drove down the stock’s price, in many cases driving the company into bankruptcy, so that the short sellers did not have to cover or “deliver” at all (called “naked shorting”). This form of gambling was allowed and encouraged due to a number of regulatory changes, including the Commodity Futures Modernization Act of 2000 (CFMA), repealing key portions of the Glass-Steagall Act separating commercial from investment banking; the Bankruptcy Law of 2005, guaranteeing recovery for derivative speculators; and the lifting of the uptick rule, which had allowed short selling only when a stock was going up.

Enter the DTC, the DTCC and Cede & Co.

In exchange-traded derivatives, a third party, called a clearinghouse, ensures that the bets are paid, a role played initially by the bank. And here’s where the UCC and the DTCC come in. The bank takes title in “street name” and pools it with other “fungible” shares. Under the UCC, the purchaser of the stock does not hold title; he has only a “security entitlement”, making him an unsecured creditor. He has a contractual claim to a portion of a pool of shares held in street name, assuming there are any shares left after the secured creditors have swept in. Webb writes:

In the late 1960’s, something called the Banking and Securities Industry Committee (BASIC) had been formed to find a solution to the “paperwork crisis.” It seemed the burdens of handling physical stock certificates had suddenly become too great, so much so, that the New York Stock exchange had suspended trading some days. “Lawmakers” then urged the government to step into the process. The BASIC report recommended changing from processing physical stock certificates to “book-entry” transfers of ownership via computerized entries in a trust company that would hold the underlying certificates “immobilized.”

Thus was established the Depository Trust Company (DTC), which began operations in 1973, after President Nixon decoupled the dollar from gold internationally. The DTC decoupled stock ownership from paper stock certificates. The purchasers who had put up the money became only “beneficial owners” entitled to interest, dividends and voting rights, leaving title of record in the DTC. The Depository Trust and Clearing Corporation (DTCC) was established in 1999 to combine the functions of the DTC and the National Securities Clearing Corporation (NSCC). The DTCC settles most securities transactions in the U.S. Title of record is with DTC's nominee Cede & Co. Per Wikipedia:

Cede and Company (also known as Cede and Co. or Cede & Co.), shorthand for "certificate depository", is a specialist United States financial institution that processes transfers of stock certificates on behalf of Depository Trust Company, the central securities depository used by the United States National Market System, which includes the New York Stock Exchange, and Nasdaq.

Cede technically owns most of the publicly issued stock in the United States. Thus, most investors do not themselves hold direct property rights in stock, but rather have contractual rights that are part of a chain of contractual rights involving Cede. Securities held at Depository Trust Company are registered in its nominee name, Cede & Co., and recorded on its books in the name of the brokerage firm through which they were purchased; on the brokerage firm's books they are assigned to the accounts of their beneficial owners. [Emphasis added.]

Greg Morse notes that the dictionary definition of "cede" is to "relinquish title." For more on "beneficial ownership," see the DTCC website here.

"Harmonizing" the Rules

The next step in the decoupling process was to establish "legal certainty" that the "anointed" creditors could take all, by amending the UCC in all 50 states. This was done quietly over many years, without an act of Congress. The key facts, notes Webb, are these:

Ownership of securities as property has been replaced with a new legal concept of a "security entitlement", which is a contractual claim assuring a very weak position if the account provider [bank/clearing agent] becomes insolvent.

All securities are held in un-segregated pooled form. Securities used as collateral, and those restricted from such use, are held in the same pool.

All account holders, including those who have prohibited use of their securities as collateral, must, by law, receive only a pro-rata share of residual assets.

"Re-vindication," i.e. the taking back of one's own securities in the event of insolvency, is absolutely prohibited.

Account providers may legally borrow pooled securities to collateralize proprietary trading and financing.

"Safe Harbor" assures secured creditors priority claim to pooled securities ahead of account holders.

The absolute priority claim of secured creditors to pooled client securities has been upheld by the courts.

The next step was to “harmonize” the laws internationally so that there would be no escape, at least in the Western orbit. Webb learned this by personal experience, having moved to Sweden to escape, only to have Swedish law subsequently “harmonized” with the “legal certainty” provisions of the UCC.

“Safe Harbor” in the Bankruptcy Code

The last step was to establish “safe harbor” in the 2005 Bankruptcy Code revisions – meaning “safe harbor’ for secured creditors against the demands of customers to their own assets.” Webb quotes from law professor Stephen Lubben’s book The Bankruptcy Code Without Safe Harbors:

Following the 2005 amendments to the Code, it is hard to envision a derivative that is not subject to special treatment. The safe harbors cover a wide range of contracts that might be considered derivatives, including securities contracts, commodities contracts, forward contracts, repurchase agreements, and, most importantly, swap agreements. . . .

The safe harbors as currently enacted were promoted by the derivatives industry as necessary measures . . . The systemic risk argument for the safe harbors is based on the belief that the inability to close out a derivative position because of the automatic stay would cause a daisy chain of failure amongst financial institutions. The problem with this argument is that it fails to consider the risks created by the rush to close out positions and demand collateral from distressed firms. Not only does this contribute to the failure of an already weakened financial firm, by fostering a run on the firm, but it also has consequent effects on the markets generally . . . the Code will have to guard against attempts to grab massive amounts of collateral on the eve of a bankruptcy, in a way that is unrelated to the underlying value of the trades being collateralized.

A number of researchers have found that super-priority in bankruptcy for derivatives actually increases rather than decreases risk. See e.g. a National Bureau of Economic Research paper called “Should Derivatives be Privileged in Bankruptcy?” Among other hazards, super-priority has contributed to the explosion in speculative derivatives, threatening the stability of national and global markets. For more on this issue, see my earlier articles here and here.

What to Do?

Webb does not say much about solutions; his goal seems to be to sound the alarm. What can we do to protect our assets? “Probably nothing,” he quoted a knowledgeable expert in a recent webinar. “We just have to stop them.” But he did point out that even the assets of the wealthy are threatened. If the issue can be brought to the attention of Congress, hopefully they can be motivated to revise the laws. Congressional action could include modifying the Bankruptcy Act of 2005 and the UCC, taxing windfall profits, imposing a financial transaction tax, and enforcing the antitrust laws and Constitutional property rights. As for timing, Webb says just the movement in interest rates, from 0.25% to 5.5%, should have collapsed the market already. He thinks it is being held up artificially, while “they” get the necessary systems in place.

Where to save your personal monies? Big derivative banks are risky, and Webb thinks credit unions and smaller banks will go down with the market if there is a general collapse, as happened in the Great Depression. Gold and silver are good but hard to spend on groceries. Keeping some emergency cash on hand is important, and so is growing your own food if you have space for a garden. Short-term Treasuries bought directly from the government at Treasury Direct might be the safest savings option, assuming the government doesn’t wind up in bankruptcy itself.

Meanwhile, we need to design an alternative financial system that is equitable and sustainable. Promising components might include publicly-owned banks, product-backed community cryptocurrencies, a land value tax, and a financial transaction tax.

A neoliberal, financialized economy of the sort we have today produces little and leaves the workers in debt. Goods and services are produced by the “real” economy; finance is just superstructure. Derivatives do not now produce even the security for which they were originally intended. A healthy, enduring economy must produce real things and exchange them fairly for the wages earned by labor.

Banks Ranked by Derivatives

The following is a ranking of all banks in the United States in terms of "Derivatives". This comparison is based on data reported on 2023-06-30.

Rank	Derivatives	Bank Name
1	$58,920,561,000,000	JPMorgan Chase Bank
2	$57,664,723,000,000	Goldman Sachs Bank USA
3	$55,229,720,000,000	Citibank
4	$23,709,183,000,000	Bank of America
5	$15,836,324,000,000	Wells Fargo Bank
6	$2,540,566,000,000	State Street Bank and Trust Company
7	$1,788,712,656,000	U.S. Bank
8	$1,483,741,086,000	HSBC Bank USA
9	$1,295,672,000,000	The Bank of New York Mellon
10	$1,168,108,294,000	PNC Bank
11	$662,989,478,000	TD Bank
12	$494,177,000,000	Truist Bank

13	$470,434,618,000	Citizens Bank
14	$331,549,104,000	The Northern Trust Company
15	$307,332,000,000	Regions Bank
16	$286,989,470,000	KeyBank
17	$249,100,397,000	Capital One
18	$246,357,000,000	Fifth Third Bank
19	$164,952,668,000	BMO Harris Bank
20	$154,882,000,000	Morgan Stanley Bank
21	$121,685,093,000	The Huntington National Bank
22	$99,459,970,000	UBS Bank USA
23	$83,563,000,000	Comerica Bank
24	$67,631,571,000	BOKF
25	$65,941,487,000	Santander Bank, N.A.

As this list covers only the top 25 banks by size, and derivative, it does not require lots of financial savvy to see how this house of cards can fall overnight and wiping everyone out.

The dates December 1st to the 3rd still seem to be an important key to the Rapture timing!
