

W.H.O. DIRECTOR DEMANDS SOVEREIGNTY AND CONTROL OVER ALL MEMBER NATIONS DUE TO GLOBAL WARMING CRISIS

Joe Biden joined the WHO after President Trump withdrew the U.S. from the failed organization during his administration.

Former U.S. Representative and Regent Graduate School Dean Michele Bachmann is attending the 76th World Health Assembly this week in Geneva, Switzerland.

Michele joined Steve Bannon again on Wednesday to discuss the meetings on The War Room. According to Michele, the UN, World Health Organization (WHO), Bill and Melinda Gates Society, and World Trade Organization are all represented at the meetings this week.

Michele stated on The War Room:

They are not even hiding their intentions during their meetings.

Michele explained that:

WHO Director Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, who lied to the world about the COVID19 pandemic origins and mortality rate, is demanding the WHO hold sovereignty over all member nations due to the global warming climate crisis.

Tedros Ghebreyesus said:

The climate crisis is a health crisis. The climate crisis is their priority. Climate is the number one mission of health care...we're going to focus now on climate change.

What does this mean?

This means the United States and all other member nations will be expected to take climate change direction from the WHO—the climate crisis will now be labeled a health crisis since the Covid19 lock down worked so well.

Dean Michele Bachmann stated:

What we need everyone in Congress, in the Senate to do, quite frankly, is get the United States out of the World Health Organization. And I appreciate the defunding. That's a great thing that Donald Trump did. But we also need to follow Donald Trump's example and get the United States out. It's the only way we're going to get away from their plans to create a platform for global governance.

Today was the Sustainable Roundtable at the World Health Assembly on Climate Change. And so, believe it or not, the centerpiece of today was forcing all these delegates to listen to none other than John Kerry from the United States. He was introduced by his daughter, Dr. Vanessa Kerry, who, by the way, is the head of the Global Seed Foundation, and she is a recipient of millions of dollars from the Clinton Health Initiative. So there's this incestuous relationship of organizations and money.

But the big thing today is this the head of the World Health Organization, Tedros Ghebreyesus, said that the climate crisis is a health crisis. He said the climate crisis is their priority. Climate is the number one mission of health care. So one of the doctors in charge of the environment and climate at the World Health Organization said very clearly that we were focused on infectious diseases, but now we're going to be moving away from infectious diseases, and we're going to focus now on climate change.

So all of these climate change people who saw they were going to establish global government through climate change, now they see after the pandemic, and that works so well for the World Health Organization to try to control people's lives.

Now they see that the platform, if you will, for global government is coming through health care. So the climate change people are jumping square in. They were given the centerpiece stool today, if you will. They were all cheered by the head, Tedros Ghebreyesus, saying the same thing that John Kerry was saying. And John Kerry said, well, I never thought about health care before. I never thought health care had anything to do with climate change until my daughter Vanessa, his 46 year old daughter, taught him to turn on the light bulb and realize that really the centerpiece of health care is climate change and that climate change causes the health care problems in the world. That's what was stated today.

Final thoughts: The goal of the WHO is total control of us minions—in body, mind, and purse strings. The scandemic worked so well in wresting away our freedoms, they intend to reapply the same principles in the climate change scam.

God speed to the return of Conservative leadership in America.

In response to Michele Bachmann, the ulterior reason the World Health Organization wants sovereignty over everyone in the world is related to hide the truth about what is coming in November of 2046. The World Health Organization is not about “world health” but in reality “control of the world”. What I am about to share below will aide you in understanding what has been going on for about sixty years or perhaps longer. It also suggests where the U.S. military cannot account for the disappearance of at least $31-trillion dollars. The siphoned-off funds from military contracts and back door theft has likely been spent on a “space program” and I am not talking “outer space” but “inner space” below the surface of the Earth, at levels intended to outlast the next “Ice Age” when the Sun Nova's in 2046.

If the World Health Organization gains sovereignty over 194 countries it can at its discretion declare the simplest of anything it chooses to be a declared virus and mandate the submission of humanity to whatever they choose to use to enslave humanity as a means of control. If there is anything we have learned about Covid-19, it was not a pandemic, not even an epidemic. Rather, it was a “bioweapon” that was created to “Depopulate” the Earth of its 8-billion inhabitants. The WHO has said that 20-million died during the past three years, not of Covid but of the pathogenic vaccines created to cull the world population. Dr. David Martin delivered an address to the WHO not long back pointing out that Moderna had patents issued for Covid research going back to the 1990s. Greg Reese posted the report on his page Friday May 26th for proof of what I am stating in this article.

The truth be known, the so-called Climate Warming is not caused by mankind and CO², but rather by the Sun? It is because the Earth will experience a Pole Shift in 2046. The Earth has been warming for more than a century. There are many people who do not want the public to know this and for good reasons to be sure. The Earth Nova's every 12,046 years. This will be new for many of you, if not all of you. The planet which we call our home Nova's or reverses its geomagnetic pole every 12,046 year cycles.

Science puts the Universe at 17.5-billion years in age, while the Earth at somewhere around 5-billion years. This has led to the dispute of an Old Earth and Young Earth controversy. As the Israeli nuclear physicist Gerald Schroeder points out both are correct. Dr. Schroeder more than two decades ago reconciled the difference between science and the Bible by stating that it depends upon which end of the telescope you are looking through. That the Earth is billions of years old was long ago confirmed. The Young Earth concept taught by Dr. Henry Morris and Ken Ham.

Henry M. Morris, the father of modern creationism, whose prolific writings sought scientific validation for a literal interpretation of the Bible and provided the intellectual underpinnings for attacks on evolution as an account of world history, died in 2006. He was 87. Dr. Morris is known for his Institute for Creation Research in Santee, Calif., which Dr. Morris founded in 1970 and ran until the 1990s.

Known among followers and friends as Dr. Henry, Dr. Morris was a hydraulic engineer and taught at several universities before developing his critique of evolution and a history of Earth that spans 4.5 billion years in the 1961 work 'The Genesis Flood.' The book, written with the theologian John C. Whitcomb, was the first to take a scholarly approach to proving the Old Testament creation story, and it argued that Noah's flood, rather than eons of erosion, sculptured the earth.

Dr. Morris' handbook of creationism, 'The Genesis Flood' was in its 44th printing, having sold 250,000 copies in English.

"It was a groundbreaking work in that he basically, in this culture, in this day and age, showed that there were scientific answers to be able to defend the Christian faith and uphold the Bible's account," said Ken Ham, president of Answers in Genesis, a group based in Kentucky. Mr. Ham said that picking up a copy of the book in Brisbane, Australia, while a graduate student in 1974 was a transformational moment in his own life.

"The grass-roots movement you see across America right now, with the school board battles, with the students questioning evolution in colleges, all of that is really in a big part due to the work of Dr. Henry Morris," Mr. Ham said. "All of us in the modern creationism movement today would say we stand on his shoulders."

Dr. Morris wrote more than 60 other books interweaving science and theology, as well as a graduate textbook, 'Applied Hydraulics in Engineering' (1963). His Institute for Creation Research, a hybrid of a ministry and a research organization that grants master's degrees, led to scores more books from like-minded scholars shunned by mainstream academia.

"There were many, many Christian men of science who were deeply suspicious of the claims of uniformitarian evolutionism, but there was no coherence, there was no rallying point," said Dr. Whitcomb, president of his own creationist ministry in Indianapolis.

"Henry Morris said, 'Here we are, here's what we stand for, we have a graduate program, we have a research program, we have a library, let's sit down and talk.' "

Henry Madison Morris was born Oct. 6, 1918, in Dallas. He graduated from Rice University in 1939 and earned a master's degree and a Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota. He was a co-founder of Christian Heritage College, now called San Diego Christian College, and was the first president of the Transnational Association of Christian Schools and Colleges, an accrediting agency.

How do we know this is true and can be verified and why does the elite of the world want to keep this information from the public? One of the simplest ways to prove this is true is found in that tree we see all around us. There are no trees in the world today that are older than 6,000 year. Here in the U.S., the oldest trees are the California Redwoods. The age of trees can be determined by the tree rings of the trunk. Of the world's 10 oldest trees known to man, none are older than around 5,065 years. This fact offers credence to the Young Earth theory presented by Dr. Henry Morris.

However, it does not answer the fact that there are petrified forest trees older by millions of years. Petrified wood is created when, in another time, trees that have fallen get washed downstream and eventually buried under layers of mud and ash from volcanoes and other materials. And since they were buried so well and in the perfect conditions, they became completely sealed beneath the mud and ash.

The air was unable to reach the buried wood, and without oxygen, the wood was unable to start the decay process. But slowly...very, very slowly, the material in the tree began to break down. And as it broke down, voids were created. And over the millennia, those voids were slowly filled with the surrounding minerals and other material such as silica, calcite, pyrite and opal.

Over millions of years, these minerals that have made their way into the tissue of the buried tree crystallize clear down into wood's cellular structure. This crystallization process forms the hard-as-stone material you know as petrified wood. And even though it's no longer wood, the minerals that have crystalized in its place take on the appearance of the tree it replaced...clear down to the tree rings.

So, petrified wood is over millions of years old. But that still doesn't narrow it down. Millions of years is a pretty wide gap. Below are a few examples of how old the petrified wood is in different parts of the world. It's pretty astounding. According to the website for the Petrified Forest National Park in Arizona, "...the trees in the Black Forest were deposited about 211 million years ago and those in the Blue, Jasper, Crystal, and Rainbow Forests were deposited around 218 million years ago."

And The Times Of India mentions that the petrified wood located in the National Fossil Wood Park contains fossilized wood that is 20 million years old. It also mentions that the Akai Wood Fossil Park has specimens that are an astounding 180 million years old!

But if you think that's old, there is an area in Brazil that has dated some of their petrified wood samples to be as old as 280 million years!

That said, how then do we resolve this apparent conflict of time and age? Think about the "Theory of Multidimensional Reality."

The "Theory of Multidimensional Reality" is the work of Douglas Vogt, is a published author of many books and founder of the Diehold Foundation. For those interested in this "theory" it is essential to learn what he reveals since a Solar Nova or pole shift on Earth is predicted for November of 2046. I first read Douglas Vogt's book 'God's Day of Judgment; The Real Cause of Global Warming' in 2017, and have read several of his other books as well. Douglas Vogt has a multi-series of videos in which he explains his "Theory of Multidimensional Reality." The video series has grown since it first began in 2018; and each lesson is easily handled if one views a segment at a convenient time of choice. I have viewed just over half of the series about one lesson every four days allowing my mind to absorb its content and to reflect on its information.

Below is a link to a special report by Douglas Vogt posted in the past few days. Watch this video by Douglas Vogt which is an eye-opener to the essence of my remarks concerning a forthcoming Solar Nova event predicted for November, 2046!

There is much more to this planned "Depopulation" of the world. Wanted to get this out ASAP before the Internet should be taken down this weekend!
